Foreign Relief Program Sent To White House

Acheson Urges More Loans, Grants Abroad

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Congress gave final approval today to the $350,000,000 foreign relief program, and Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson called for continued emergency loans and grants to foreign nations in 1948 and 1949.

The approved relief program, designed to feed the hungry rather than to finance their governments, survived a determined, eleventh hour attempt to clamp a $200,000,000 ceiling on it.

Acheson, in a radio speech over CBS, saw future needs from the standpoint of "commercial and financial policies that are necessary to keep trade unleased, free to carry on its benign work among all peoples."

He said "economic collapse, political extremism and world poverty and insecurity" will seize upon war-torn countries if the United States doesn't help with emergency loans and grants.

Attempt To Trim Fund Fails

It was in the House that the unsuccessful attempt was made to trim the $350,000,000 relief program.

The end of its long legislative trial was reached in the Senate, where approval was routine after Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.), of the Foreign Relations Committee, told his colleagues that President Truman is considering a man "of wide Red Cross experience" to administer the program.

Richard F. Allen, Red Cross vice president, is slated to get the job.

The final House action came on a roll-call vote of 288 to 86, in accepting the measure as redrafted by a House-Senate conference committee. This committee modified several stringent restrictions on the program and recommended the full amount sought by President Truman.

Vote On Return Is 205-170

Much more close, however, was the 205 to 170 roll call tally by which the House beat back an attempt to return the bill to the conference committee with instructions to its representatives to insist upon a $200,000,000 ceiling. The House, in originally passing the bill, had voted for such a limit.

In its final form, the bill permits expenditure of the relief funds in Italy, Greece, Hungary, Austria, Poland, China and Trieste. Of the total, a minimum of $15,000,000 is earmarked for the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.

(The bill is entirely distinct from the $400,000,000 program to bolster Greece and Turkey against Communism.)

Beall Voted For Bill

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Here's how congressmen from Maryland and West Virginia voted today when the House passed a compromise bill authorizing $350,000,000 for foreign relief:

Republicans for: Beall and Miller, of Maryland; Love, Rohrbough and Synder, of West Virginia.

Democrats for: Fallon and Meade, of Maryland; Hedrick and Kee, of West Virginia.

Republican against: Ellis, of West Virginia.

Body Believed To Be That Of Missing Cabbie Found

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP)—A body believed to be that of Alton M. Corkran, Baltimore taxicab driver who disappeared exactly a month ago, was found today at Oella, Baltimore County, by two mill race keepers.

Catonsville police said William G. Lowe and Frank Hamson, of Oella, discovered the body when they began to clean trash from Union Dam, which leads into the mill race.

Corkran's cab, surrounded by bloodstains and discharged pistol cartridges, was located here April 21.

Lt. Carroll Simmons, of Essex, who has been investigating the case from the beginning, said the body was lacerated, and it was impossible to determine before an autopsy whether there were any bullet wounds.

Mrs. Truman Is Given Chance For Recovery

Rests Comfortably In Mechanical Bed

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 21—(AP)—President Truman's 94-year-old mother began passive exercise in a new mechanical bed tonight after the White House physician gave her a "chance" for recovery.

Mrs. Martha E. Truman was moved into the new oscillating bed a few hours after Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham told reporters of her gradual improvement.

The President's wife, Mrs. Bess Truman, arrived in Kansas City from Washington at 9:20 p. m. (EST). Her daughter, Margaret, boarded the train at Independence, Mo., and rode into Kansas City with Mrs. Truman.

They were met by Secret Service men and drove to the Muehlebach Hotel where the Chief Executive awaited them.

Gen. Graham said his belief in his elderly patient's recovery is based on a continuance of her will to live and the endurance of a tired heart and a "wornout" body in which "every cell" has deteriorated.

Doctor Talks With Newsmen

His optimistic outlook at his first formal talk with newsmen since President Truman flew here Saturday to see his gravely-ill mother was borne up during the afternoon when presidential press secretary reported at 5 p. m. (EST) the physician was "still encouraged."

The new bed, which has an end to end movement, was brought out during the afternoon and Mrs. Truman said after she was placed in it that she was "more comfortable" than she had been for "a long time."

The bed has a silent motor and offers what Ross described as "gentle oscillation."

At 2:45 p. m. (Kansas City time) the President, Gen. Graham and Miss Mary Jane Truman, the President's sister, helped Mother Truman into her favorite chair, an old rocker with a cane bottom and a cushion.

While she rocked cheerfully, the mechanical bed was substituted for her old one, and she accepted the change gratefully.

Spirits Are "Excellent"

"Her spirits are excellent," Ross said, and she is co-operating in taking nourishment.

Graham, speaking at a news conference in nearby Kansas City, attributed the improvement in her condition to the day-long vigils at her bedside of her son, the President of the United States.

He said he spoke as an "optimist," in expressing belief the present state of progress can be maintained.

"But, for how long?" the reporters asked.

"As a pessimist, I'd say hours," Graham replied in one of a series of carefully worded answer. "But, I am an optimist, and as an optimist, I say days, weeks, even months; ad infinitum."

Eastport, Me., Fire Damage Estimated At Nearly Million

EASTPORT, Me., May 21 (AP)—Fire swept the north end of Eastport's waterfront tonight causing damage estimated unofficially as likely to approach $1,000,000.

Three large factory buildings, a wholesale food warehouse and a dwelling were destroyed before firemen of five Maine communities controlled the spectacular blaze.

Reports that two men were missing could not be immediately confirmed. They were employes of the Pearl Essence Corporation, whose plant was one of those razed.

Exploding chemical drums at the Essence plant skyrocketed into rain-filled skies. Parts of them landed as much as 100 yards away in the business and residential sections of this city of 3,346 population.

Millikin Urges Early Tax Cuts; George Opposes

Democrats Attempt To Postpone Action

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) told the Senate today that quick passage of a $4,000,000,000 income tax cut would be a tonic to the nation's economy, but Sen. George (D-Ga) counselled delay.

Millikin, chairman of the tax-writing Finance Committee, opened arguments for the legislation which, as amended by the committee, would put the reduction into effect July 1. The House has passed a bill making the effective date last January 1.

"This bill is designed to relieve individual income tax payers from oppressive taxes which interfere so greatly with the operation of our peacetime economy," Millikin said.

George Seeks Action Delay

"It also will encourage the release of venture capital, and because brings relief to all individual income tax payers, the bill will be effective in increasing individual purchasing power."

Sen. George, who headed the committee when the Democrats were in power, moved to postpone action until June 10.

George explained that while he is "thoroughly committed" to a cut in wartime taxes, he wants a chance to see how deep the House Appropriations Committee cuts the remaining appropriation bills.

Millikin and George were far apart on their estimates of the amount which will be available for tax cuts and payments on the $258,000,000,000 public debt. Millikin estimated $8,400,000,000; George slightly more than $4,000,000,000.

Sliding Scale Proposed

Although the tax cut proposed by the Senate committee would reduce individual income tax payers' obligations by about $4,000,000,000 over a full year's operations, its effect on government revenues the first year was estimated by Millikin at $3,200,000,000, due to a lag in collections and the effect of delayed refund payments.

Taxpayers with net incomes (after exemptions and deductions) of $1,000 or less woul get 30 per cent cuts. From $1,000 to $1,396 the cuts would be on a sliding scale running from 30 to 20 per cent. From $1,396 to $79,700 the reduction would be 20 per cent; 15 per cent from $79,700 to $302,400, and 10.5 per cent in the very highest brackets.

Duke Visits King

LONDON, May 21— (AP) —The Duke of Windsor called tonight on his brother, King George, and his mother, Queen Mary. The Duchess of Windsor did not go with him. She has not been invited into an English royal household since her husband abdicated the throne.

Last Rites To Be Held For Prelate

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church will bury tomorrow one of its ranking leaders in the United States, Archbishop Michael J. Curley, after observing a state of mourning for four days.

Spiritual ruler of 450,000 subjects in the archbishoprics of Baltimore and Washington when he died last Friday, the prelate will be buried beneath the altar of the cathedral after final services at 10:30 a. m.

Gathering for the last rites for the 67-year-old Archbishop will be spiritual and lay leaders of the church from throughout the nation. They were expected to jam the cathedral to the exlusion of the general public who attended a requiem mass this morning.

The apostolic delegate in Washington, Archbishop Amleto Cicognani, will pontificate the funeral mass. He will be assisted by several monsignori.

Special thrones have been erected in the sanctuary for Archbishop Cicognani and Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, the ranking Catholic prelate in America.

Attendance of the laity will be led by Associate Justice Frank Murphy, who will come from Washington with many diplomatic, governmental and military representatives. Gov. W. Preston Lane, Jr. and Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, of Baltimore, will lead a Maryland delegation.

Blast In "Jim Crow" Train Coach Injures Two

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 21—(AP)—A mysterious explosion apparently originating in a water cooler in the rear of a "Jim Crow" passenger coach injured two men today.

It occurred north of Ardmore, Okla., on a Santa Fe train en route from Chicago to Galveston.

Oscar Lett, 59, Fort Worth, and W. C. Brown, and W. C. Brown, 35, Ardmore, riding in the rear of the coach partitioned off to segregate whites and negroes, were injured.

O. D. Crill, division superintendent for the railroad, called in Federal Bureau of Investigation explosives experts. He said a "high-type explosive" had damanged the coach considerably.

SHOOTING VICTIM—A policeman bends over the body of Mrs. Margaret Jannazzo, 31, mother of two children, in a hallway after she was killed by five revolver shots in Brooklyn yesterday. Police said Mrs. Philomina Scavone, 41, whose husband, Rocco Scavone, had been named co-respondent in the dead woman's divorce suit, admitted the shooting.

Irate Housewife Kills Attractive Mother Of Two

Says Victim "Ran Around" With Male

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP) — An attractive mother of two children was slain with a blast of five shots today, police said, by an irate housewife who was pointed out to authorities as the slayer by her own husband.

Mrs. Philomina Scavone, 41, the 92-pound housewife, and Mrs. Margaret Jannazzo, 31, the victim, once had been close friends, police said.

Chases Victim Half Block

However, they added, Mrs. Scavone recently had accused Mrs. Jannazzo of "running around" with her husband, Rocco Scavone, 38, and he had been named as co-respondent in a divorce suit filed by the slain woman's husband, Anthony Jannazzo, 38.

Police said witnesses told them the two women engaged in a heated argument on a busy Brooklyn corner as Mrs. Jannazzo was going to work and that Mrs. Scavone finally chased the other woman a half block, trapped her in a hallway, and fired the shots into Mrs. Jannazzo's chest.

"I killed her," police quoted Mrs. Scavone as saying. "I'm glad of it. I'm a free woman and I'm happy now. I told her to keep away from my husband and she wouldn't. Then I took things into my own hands. I don't have to worry any more."

Charges Are Filed

Charges of homicide and illegal possession of a weapon were filed against Mrs. Scavone, herself the mother of three.

Before Mrs. Scavone was taken away, police said she told photographers:

"Take 'em nice and don't forget my weight—92 pounds. I'm happy now and I feel swell. I'm glad I did it."

Canine Edict

DETROIT, May 21 — (AP)—Detroit's thousands of pet dogs faced a stern federal edict today. They were forbidden to bite the mailman more than once.

Postmaster Roscoe B. Huston announced that mail delivery service would be cut off to any home whose canine pet exceeds the limit.

Roxas' Personal Plane Missing In Philippines

Two Top Army Flying Officers, Five Others Die In Bomber Crash

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 21 —(AP)—The bodies of two top Army flying officers and five other soldiers were found today in the wreckage of their B-25 bomber which crashed in a cornfield during a violent thunderstorm.

The dead included Col. Raymond E. O'Neill, 52, an AAF balloon expert and brigadier general in World War II, and Col. George A. Whatley, 45, head of a headquarters unit having supervision of mobile training throughout the world.

Heavy rain and darkness hid the tragedy overnight. The plane, en route to nearby Chanute Field from the Pacific Coast, sent out a routine radio message when it passed over Burlington, Ia., at 10:47 p. m. Eastern Standard Time last night. A short time later it crashed in a muddy corn field, about 16 miles short of its destination.

12 To 15 Government Officials Are Aboard

MANILA, Thursday, May 22 (AP)—A Philippine Air Line commercial plane radioed today it had sighted the wreckage of a plane that might be the missing "Lily Marlene," which vanished four days ago with 12 Filipino government officials and a crew of eight.

The wreckage was sighted 8,700 feet up on the slopes of a mountain 25 miles southeast of Delmonte, on Central Mindanao, in the general area where United States Army and Navy planes have launched one of the biggest air searches in the history of the archipelago.

The pilot of the commercial plane said the wreckage was burned and there was no sign of life in the vicinity.

MANILA, May 21—(AP)—President Roxas tonight ordered the Philippines' greatest air search for his personal plane, Lily Marlene, missing since Sunday morning in the wild Northern Cotabato Province of Mindanao Island with 12 to 15 government officials and a crew of eight.

Roxas ordered the army, navy and local commercial airlines to join in the search.

He personally announced the loss tonight, some 85 hours after the plane last was heard from as it took off from Buayas airfield, Cotabato, for Bacolod on neighboring Negros Island to the northwest.

Interior Secretary's Brother Aboard

Roxas reported those missing include:

Judge Francisco Zulueta, brother of Jose Zulueta, Secretary of the Interior.

Rafael Alunan, executive of the National Land Settlement Administration. Alunan was the later President Manuel Quezon's Interior Secretary before the war but accepted a Cabinet post in the Japanese puppet Filipino government. Treason charges against him were dismissed recently.

Dr. Alfredo Parades, a veteran politician, secretary-treasurer of the Land Settlement Administration, and brother of Quintin Parades, former Philippines' resident commissioner in Washington, D. C.

Sharing Program Urged By Stassen

JEFFERSON, Ia., May 21 (AP) — A 10-year program of "production for peace" was advocated tonight by former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, avowed aspirant for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination.

In his first major address since returning from a Europea tour, Stassen uged that the United States give 10 per cent of its goods and food the next 10 years to countries which give "unwavering support to the United Nations."

The United States, Stassen said, should control the distribution program and although it should not ask reimbursement in money or manufactured goods it should require:

1. Long-term agreements for fair access to raw materials.

2. Agreements that other governments "will not move farther

60 Railroads Authorized To Up Fares

Passengers To Pay Ten Per Cent More

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—An approximate 10 per cent increase in basic passenger fares on eastern railroads was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to compensate for increased operating costs.

The decision applies to 60 railroads operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers.

The lines were authorized to make the change to the higher level on five days' public notice. This will put one-way passenger fares up from 2.2 to 2.5 cents per mile in coaches, and from 3.3 to 3.5 cents per mile in sleeping and parlor cars. There will be an increase of about 15 per cent in coach round trip rates and about four per cent in Pullman round trip rates.

15 Cent Minimum Ticket Rate

The railroads were also given a minimum ticket rate of 15 cents in lieu of the present 10 cent minimum.

"This increase is moderate in relation to the increases in wages and price levels since prewar years," said the commission, which last authorized a general passenger fare increase in 1942 when the rates went up 10 per cent. Today's order noted that the railroads which asked for the new increase incurred a deficit from passenger train operations last year of $54,000,000.

The ICC previously granted the 10 per cent increase separately to the New Haven Railroad, which pioneered the proposed boost in an independent proceeding.

"Just and Reasonable"

In the general case, the commission found the increases to be "just and reasonable" for all interstate passenger traffic in the territory east of the Mississippi River and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers and for intrastate (within the state) traffic in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and New York.

Those states were specifically named in the order because they have on occasion resisted application of interstate rates to their intrastate traffic.

Three Arraigned In Election Fraud

KANSAS CITY, May 21 (AP)—A member of the Missouri State Legislature and two minor county officials were arraigned today on vote fraud charges growing out of the hotly-contested primary election last August.

The three, and 14 other persons, all Democratic election officials or workers, were among the 26 indicted yesterday by a Jackson County grand jury. Most of the charges involved the making of, or the aiding in the making of, false election returns.

Joseph M. Tanner, a Democratic state representative from Jackson County, was charged with "inducing the changing of the lawful result of an election," and with unlawful electioneering in a polling place.

He pleaded innocent, as did 16 other defendants at their arraignment in Circuit Court, and was released on a $2,000 bond.

Before the jury was a mass of evidence collected by the Kansas City Star in its investigation of alleged irregularities stemming from the primary. Adding to bitter factional strife in the Democratic Party ranks was the torrid contest for the nomination for Congress from the Fifth Congressional District.

Labor Conferees Agree On Union Fee Ceiling

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—A Senate-House committee was reported informally agreed tonight on putting a ceiling on initiation and membership fees of unions.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters that while no final action had been taken, Senate conferees seemed in the mood to accept a provision of the House labor disputes measure which would limit the fees to be fixed by the unions.

Relatives Mob 28 Men After Their Release

Verdict Reached In 5 Hours, 15 Minutes

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 21 (AP)—A Greenville County jury freed 28 white men tonight of charges that they lynched a South Carolina negro, returning straight acquittals in 98 separate verdicts on a four-count murder and conspiracy indictment.

The crushing rejection of prosecution allegations, which had included unsworn statements by 26 self-acknowledged members of the mob, closed an historic case which began here nine days ago.

The men were accused of taking Willie Earle, 23-year-old negro, from Pickens, S. C., jail last February 17, and butchering him on a lonely roadside for the alleged stabbing of a white taxi-driver.

Solicitor Robert Ashmore declined comment on the acquittals. "I never comment on a case," he said. "I'm going to work in my garden and go fishing." The jury acquitted 21 defendants on all four counts of murder, conspiracy to commit murder, and of being accessory both before and after the fact. Another seven defendants were acquitted of conspiracy and of accessory before the fact. The counts of murder and accessory before the fact are capital offenses in South Carolina.

Defense Offered No Witnesses

Prosecutor Sam Watt, designated to act for Attorney General John Daniel, had asked the jury to represent the public conscience of South Carolina in dealing with the lynching.

The defense had rested its case without offering witnesses or presenting testimony. Instead, defense counsel assailed "northern interference", charged federal agents with having "meddler's itch".

In closing the defense arguments yesterday, Attorney Thomas Wofford shouted, "There's no cure for it, except a verdict by a jury of this kind—to acquit these boys and show them it's no use meddling in Greenville County."

The defendants were mobbed by delighted friends and relatives when Judge J. Robert Martin ordered them released. The judge made no comment on the verdicts.

Wives of defendants were present when the acquittals were read, and one of them, Mrs. Howard Thompson, sobbed quietly on her husband's shoulder. When the clerk concluded reading the verdicts, Judge Martin said: "Mr. Sheriff, you will release the defendants at bar from custody."

Before the jury brought in its acquittals at 10:21 p. m. (EST) the court ordered 14 sheriff's deputies to take their places among the crowd of spectators and warned that any demonstration would bring arrest for contempt of court.

Unprecedented Trial

The jury concluded its deliberations at 8:55 p. m., but was unable to report until Judge Martin returned to the courthouse.

The word of agreement came after five hours and 15 minutes of deliberation.

The unprecedented mass-trial went to the jury at 3:20 p. m. (EST)

May Declares Garssons Discriminated Against

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Former Congressman Andrew J. May testified today he went to the rescue of the munitions-making Garssons brothers in 1942 because Army ordnance officers called them "a bunch of Kikes" and refused to let them bid on contracts.

"I thought men who wanted to make munitions in time of war ought to be permitted to do so without regard to color, race or creed," May told the federal court jury in his trial on charges of selling his influence to the Garssons.

Officers of the Chicago Ordnance District so discriminated against Garsson firms, May said, that he took the matter up directly with the War Department and asked that they be permitted to bid on ordnance contracts.

Murray, In Order To Steel Workers, Forbids Strikes For Next Two Years

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 21 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray today issued an order to the 3,000 locals of the CIO United Steel Workers forbidding strikes for the next two years.

Murray, also president of the Steel Workers, said in a letter to local union leaders that recently-signed, two-year contracts "for most of the members of our union in basic steel and fabricating plants" constitute "one of the most notable achievements in the annals of our nation's collective bargaining history."

Murray said in the letter it is "imperative we understand thoroughly that:

"1. We must meticulously respect provisions of the collective bargaining contract.

"2. That under no circumstances must there be work stoppages during the life of the agreement.

"3. We must resort to the orderly methods of adjudicating our differences by taking recourse to the grievance procedure of the wage agreement up to and including arbitration."

The letter was approved by the steel workers' 41-man board of directors at their biennial meeting.

He said the wage agreements, which called for a 15-cent-an-hour package pay increase, guaranteed continued production in the steel industry and thereby provided an "opportunity for stabilizing our country's internal economic affairs."

Big Cut In Agriculture Dept. Funds Is Favored

WASHINGTON, May 21 — (AP) — A 38 per cent cut in the budget of the Agriculture Department was reported today to have been agreed to by the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of farm funds.

The report came from subcommittee members.

In round figures, such a cut would amount to approximately $460,000,000, which includes cancellation of $145,000,000 in so-called "Section 32" funds and around $315,000,000 denied in new appropriations.

The budget estimate for the department for the year beginning July 1, as submitted by President Truman, called for approximately $944,000,000 in new appropriations in addition to continued use of the "Section 32" money.

Ford's Plea Fails To Halt Strike Of Foremen; Production Continues

DETROIT, May 21 (AP) — Some 3,800 unionized foremen, spurning an unusual last-minute personal appeal from Henry Ford II, today walked out of three Detroit plants of the Ford Motor Company.

Operations continued uninterrupted as 85,000 production workers stayed at their machines, but the Foreman's Association of America predicted that assembly lines would be halted "in a day and a half to two days."

The company said it intended to operate as long as possible but did not hazard a guess as to how long that would be.

Ford was the only major auto firm not affected by current steel shortages and its production has been continuing steadily at a high post-war level.

President Robert H. Keys, of the FAA, blamed an accumulation of grievances for the walkout. Salaries were not an issue, both sides agreed.

Explaining their side of the dispute, Ford officials reiterated "the company's belief that foremen are members of management."

Picket lines were established as the independent union asserted th strike was "95 per cent effective" among Ford's 4,200 local foremen.

However, a company spokesman charged that some supervisory employes left their jobs only upon the insistence of union "goon squads" which escorted non-strikers to the gates. In union parlance, goon squads are strong-armed groups prepared for violence.

President Pat Mullin, of the Ford chapter of the FAA, replied:

"That's not true. We don't have goon squads."

Acheson Urges More Loans, Grants Abroad

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Congress gave final approval today to the $350,000,000 foreign relief program, and Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson called for continued emergency loans and grants to foreign nations in 1948 and 1949.

The approved relief program, designed to feed the hungry rather than to finance their governments, survived a determined, eleventh hour attempt to clamp a $200,000,000 ceiling on it.

Acheson, in a radio speech over CBS, saw future needs from the standpoint of "commercial and financial policies that are necessary to keep trade unleased, free to carry on its benign work among all peoples."

He said "economic collapse, political extremism and world poverty and insecurity" will seize upon war-torn countries if the United States doesn't help with emergency loans and grants.

Attempt To Trim Fund Fails

It was in the House that the unsuccessful attempt was made to trim the $350,000,000 relief program.

The end of its long legislative trial was reached in the Senate, where approval was routine after Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.), of the Foreign Relations Committee, told his colleagues that President Truman is considering a man "of wide Red Cross experience" to administer the program.

Richard F. Allen, Red Cross vice president, is slated to get the job.

The final House action came on a roll-call vote of 288 to 86, in accepting the measure as redrafted by a House-Senate conference committee. This committee modified several stringent restrictions on the program and recommended the full amount sought by President Truman.

Vote On Return Is 205-170

Much more close, however, was the 205 to 170 roll call tally by which the House beat back an attempt to return the bill to the conference committee with instructions to its representatives to insist upon a $200,000,000 ceiling. The House, in originally passing the bill, had voted for such a limit.

In its final form, the bill permits expenditure of the relief funds in Italy, Greece, Hungary, Austria, Poland, China and Trieste. Of the total, a minimum of $15,000,000 is earmarked for the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.

(The bill is entirely distinct from the $400,000,000 program to bolster Greece and Turkey against Communism.)

Beall Voted For Bill

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Here's how congressmen from Maryland and West Virginia voted today when the House passed a compromise bill authorizing $350,000,000 for foreign relief:

Republicans for: Beall and Miller, of Maryland; Love, Rohrbough and Synder, of West Virginia.

Democrats for: Fallon and Meade, of Maryland; Hedrick and Kee, of West Virginia.

Body Believed To Be That Of Missing Cabbie Found

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP)—A body believed to be that of Alton M. Corkran, Baltimore taxicab driver who disappeared exactly a month ago, was found today at Oella, Baltimore County, by two mill race keepers.

Catonsville police said William G. Lowe and Frank Hamson, of Oella, discovered the body when they began to clean trash from Union Dam, which leads into the mill race.

Corkran's cab, surrounded by bloodstains and discharged pistol cartridges, was located here April 21.

Lt. Carroll Simmons, of Essex, who has been investigating the case from the beginning, said the body was lacerated, and it was impossible to determine before an autopsy whether there were any bullet wounds.

Mrs. Truman Is Given Chance For Recovery

Rests Comfortably In Mechanical Bed

GRANDVIEW, Mo., May 21—(AP)—President Truman's 94-year-old mother began passive exercise in a new mechanical bed tonight after the White House physician gave her a "chance" for recovery.

Mrs. Martha E. Truman was moved into the new oscillating bed a few hours after Brig. Gen. Wallace H. Graham told reporters of her gradual improvement.

The President's wife, Mrs. Bess Truman, arrived in Kansas City from Washington at 9:20 p. m. (EST). Her daughter, Margaret, boarded the train at Independence, Mo., and rode into Kansas City with Mrs. Truman.

They were met by Secret Service men and drove to the Muehlebach Hotel where the Chief Executive awaited them.

Gen. Graham said his belief in his elderly patient's recovery is based on a continuance of her will to live and the endurance of a tired heart and a "wornout" body in which "every cell" has deteriorated.

Doctor Talks With Newsmen

His optimistic outlook at his first formal talk with newsmen since President Truman flew here Saturday to see his gravely-ill mother was borne up during the afternoon when presidential press secretary reported at 5 p. m. (EST) the physician was "still encouraged."

The new bed, which has an end to end movement, was brought out during the afternoon and Mrs. Truman said after she was placed in it that she was "more comfortable" than she had been for "a long time."

The bed has a silent motor and offers what Ross described as "gentle oscillation."

At 2:45 p. m. (Kansas City time) the President, Gen. Graham and Miss Mary Jane Truman, the President's sister, helped Mother Truman into her favorite chair, an old rocker with a cane bottom and a cushion.

While she rocked cheerfully, the mechanical bed was substituted for her old one, and she accepted the change gratefully.

Spirits Are "Excellent"

"Her spirits are excellent," Ross said, and she is co-operating in taking nourishment.

Graham, speaking at a news conference in nearby Kansas City, attributed the improvement in her condition to the day-long vigils at her bedside of her son, the President of the United States.

He said he spoke as an "optimist," in expressing belief the present state of progress can be maintained.

"But, for how long?" the reporters asked.

"As a pessimist, I'd say hours," Graham replied in one of a series of carefully worded answer. "But, I am an optimist, and as an optimist, I say days, weeks, even months; ad infinitum."

Eastport, Me., Fire Damage Estimated At Nearly Million

EASTPORT, Me., May 21 (AP)—Fire swept the north end of Eastport's waterfront tonight causing damage estimated unofficially as likely to approach $1,000,000.

Three large factory buildings, a wholesale food warehouse and a dwelling were destroyed before firemen of five Maine communities controlled the spectacular blaze.

Reports that two men were missing could not be immediately confirmed. They were employes of the Pearl Essence Corporation, whose plant was one of those razed.

Exploding chemical drums at the Essence plant skyrocketed into rain-filled skies. Parts of them landed as much as 100 yards away in the business and residential sections of this city of 3,346 population.

Millikin Urges Early Tax Cuts; George Opposes

Democrats Attempt To Postpone Action

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP)—Sen. Millikin (R-Colo) told the Senate today that quick passage of a $4,000,000,000 income tax cut would be a tonic to the nation's economy, but Sen. George (D-Ga) counselled delay.

Millikin, chairman of the tax-writing Finance Committee, opened arguments for the legislation which, as amended by the committee, would put the reduction into effect July 1. The House has passed a bill making the effective date last January 1.

"This bill is designed to relieve individual income tax payers from oppressive taxes which interfere so greatly with the operation of our peacetime economy," Millikin said.

George Seeks Action Delay

"It also will encourage the release of venture capital, and because brings relief to all individual income tax payers, the bill will be effective in increasing individual purchasing power."

Sen. George, who headed the committee when the Democrats were in power, moved to postpone action until June 10.

George explained that while he is "thoroughly committed" to a cut in wartime taxes, he wants a chance to see how deep the House Appropriations Committee cuts the remaining appropriation bills.

Millikin and George were far apart on their estimates of the amount which will be available for tax cuts and payments on the $258,000,000,000 public debt. Millikin estimated $8,400,000,000; George slightly more than $4,000,000,000.

Sliding Scale Proposed

Although the tax cut proposed by the Senate committee would reduce individual income tax payers' obligations by about $4,000,000,000 over a full year's operations, its effect on government revenues the first year was estimated by Millikin at $3,200,000,000, due to a lag in collections and the effect of delayed refund payments.

Taxpayers with net incomes (after exemptions and deductions) of $1,000 or less woul get 30 per cent cuts. From $1,000 to $1,396 the cuts would be on a sliding scale running from 30 to 20 per cent. From $1,396 to $79,700 the reduction would be 20 per cent; 15 per cent from $79,700 to $302,400, and 10.5 per cent in the very highest brackets.

Duke Visits King

LONDON, May 21— (AP) —The Duke of Windsor called tonight on his brother, King George, and his mother, Queen Mary. The Duchess of Windsor did not go with him. She has not been invited into an English royal household since her husband abdicated the throne.

Last Rites To Be Held For Prelate

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church will bury tomorrow one of its ranking leaders in the United States, Archbishop Michael J. Curley, after observing a state of mourning for four days.

Spiritual ruler of 450,000 subjects in the archbishoprics of Baltimore and Washington when he died last Friday, the prelate will be buried beneath the altar of the cathedral after final services at 10:30 a. m.

Gathering for the last rites for the 67-year-old Archbishop will be spiritual and lay leaders of the church from throughout the nation. They were expected to jam the cathedral to the exlusion of the general public who attended a requiem mass this morning.

The apostolic delegate in Washington, Archbishop Amleto Cicognani, will pontificate the funeral mass. He will be assisted by several monsignori.

Special thrones have been erected in the sanctuary for Archbishop Cicognani and Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, of Philadelphia, the ranking Catholic prelate in America.

Attendance of the laity will be led by Associate Justice Frank Murphy, who will come from Washington with many diplomatic, governmental and military representatives. Gov. W. Preston Lane, Jr. and Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, of Baltimore, will lead a Maryland delegation.

Blast In "Jim Crow" Train Coach Injures Two

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 21 —(AP)—A mysterious explosion apparently originating in a water cooler in the rear of a "Jim Crow" passenger coach injured two men today.

It occurred north of Ardmore, Okla., on a Santa Fe train en route from Chicago to Galveston.

Oscar Lett, 59, Fort Worth, and W. C. Brown, and W. C. Brown, 35 Ardmore, riding in the rear of the coach partitioned off to segregate whites and negroes, were injured.

O. D. Crill, division superintendent for the railroad, called in Federal Bureau of Investigation explosives experts. He said a "high-type explosive" had damanged the coach considerably.

Murray, In Order To Steel Workers, Forbids Strikes For Next Two Years

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 21 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray today issued an order to the 3,000 locals of the CIO United Steel Workers forbidding strikes for the next two years.

Murray, also president of the Steel Workers, said in a letter to local union leaders that recently-signed, two-year contracts "for most of the members of our union in basic steel and fabricating plants" constitute "one of the most notable achievements in the annals of our nation's collective bargaining history."

Murray said in the letter it is "imperative we understand thoroughly that:

"1. We must meticulously respect provisions of the collective bargaining contract.

"2. That under no circumstances must there be work stoppages during the life of the agreement.

"3. We must resort to the orderly methods of adjudicating our differences by taking recourse to the grievance procedure of the wage agreement up to and including arbitration."

The letter was approved by the steel workers' 41-man board of directors at their biennial meeting.

He said the wage agreements, which called for a 15-cent-an-hour package pay increase, guaranteed continued production in the steel industry and thereby provided an "opportunity for stabilizing our country's internal economic affairs."

SHOOTING VICTIM—A policeman bends over the body of Mrs. Margaret Jannazzo, 31, mother of two children, in a hallway after she was killed by five revolver shots in Brooklyn yesterday. Police said Mrs. Philomina Scavone, 41, whose husband, Rocco Scavone, had been named co-respondent in the dead woman's divorce suit, admitted the shooting.

Irate Housewife Kills Attractive Mother Of Two

Says Victim "Ran Around" With Male

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP) — An attractive mother of two children was slain with a blast of five shots today, police said, by an irate housewife who was pointed out to authorities as the slayer by her own husband.

Mrs. Philomina Scavone, 41, the 92-pound housewife, and Mrs. Margaret Jannazzo, 31, the victim, once had been close friends, police said.

Chases Victim Half Block

However, they added, Mrs. Scavone recently had accused Mrs. Jannazzo of "running around" with her husband, Rocco Scavone, 38, and he had been named as co-respondent in a divorce suit filed by the slain woman's husband, Anthony Jannazzo, 38.

Police said witnesses told them the two women engaged in a heated argument on a busy Brooklyn corner as Mrs. Jannazzo was going to work and that Mrs. Scavone finally chased the other woman a half block, trapped her in a hallway, and fired the shots into Mrs. Jannazzo's chest.

"I killed her," police quoted Mrs. Scavone as saying. "I'm glad of it. I'm a free woman and I'm happy now. I told her to keep away from my husband and she wouldn't. Then I took things into my own hands. I don't have to worry any more."

Charges Are Filed

Charges of homicide and illegal possession of a weapon were filed against Mrs. Scavone, herself the mother of three.

Before Mrs. Scavone was taken away, police said she told photographers:

"Take 'em nice and don't forget my weight—92 pounds. I'm happy now and I feel swell. I'm glad I did it."

Canine Edict

DETROIT, May 21 — (AP)—Detroit's thousands of pet dogs faced a stern federal edict today. They were forbidden to bite the mailman more than once.

Postmaster Roscoe B. Huston announced that mail delivery service would be cut off to any home whose canine pet exceeds the limit.

Roxas' Personal Plane Missing In Philippines

Two Top Army Flying Officers, Five Others Die In Bomber Crash

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 21 —(AP)—The bodies of two top Army flying officers and five other soldiers were found today in the wreckage of their B-25 bomber which crashed in a cornfield during a violent thunderstorm.

The dead included Col. Raymond E. O'Neill, 52, an AAF balloon expert and brigadier general in World War II, and Col. George A. Whatley, 45, head of a headquarters unit having supervision of mobile training throughout the world.

Heavy rain and darkness hid the tragedy overnight. The plane, en route to nearby Chanute Field from the Pacific Coast, sent out a routine radio message when it passed over Burlington, Ia., at 10:47 p. m. Eastern Standard Time last night. A short time later it crashed in a muddy corn field, about 16 miles short of its destination.

12 To 15 Government Officials Are Aboard

MANILA, Thursday, May 22 (AP)—A Philippine Air Line commercial plane radioed today it had sighted the wreckage of a plane that might be the missing "Lily Marlene," which vanished four days ago with 12 Filipino government officials and a crew of eight.

The wreckage was sighted 8,700 feet up on the slopes of a mountain 25 miles southeast of Delmonte, on Central Mindanao, in the general area where United States Army and Navy planes have launched one of the biggest air searches in the history of the archipelago.

The pilot of the commercial plane said the wreckage was burned and there was no sign of life in the vicinity.

MANILA, May 21—(AP)—President Roxas tonight ordered the Philippines' greatest air search for his personal plane, Lily Marlene, missing since Sunday morning in the wild Northern Cotabato Province of Mindanao Island with 12 to 15 government officials and a crew of eight.

Roxas ordered the army, navy and local commercial airlines to join in the search.

He personally announced the loss tonight, some 85 hours after the plane last was heard from as it took off from Buayas airfield, Cotabato, for Bacolod on neighboring Negros Island to the northwest.

Interior Secretary's Brother Aboard

Roxas reported those missing include:

Judge Francisco Zulueta, brother of Jose Zulueta, Secretary of the Interior.

Rafael Alunan, executive of the National Land Settlement Administration. Alunan was the later President Manuel Quezon's Interior Secretary before the war but accepted a Cabinet post in the Japanese puppet Filipino government. Treason charges against him were dismissed recently.

Dr. Alfredo Parades, a veteran politician, secretary-treasurer of the Land Settlement Administration, and brother of Quintin Parades, former Philippines' resident commissioner in Washington, D. C.

Sharing Program Urged By Stassen

JEFFERSON, Ia., May 21 (AP) — A 10-year program of "production for peace" was advocated tonight by former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, avowed aspirant for the 1948 GOP presidential nomination.

In his first major address since returning from a Europea tour, Stassen uged that the United States give 10 per cent of its goods and food the next 10 years to countries which give "unwavering support to the United Nations."

The United States, Stassen said, should control the distribution program and although it should not ask reimbursement in money or manufactured goods it should require:

1. Long-term agreements for fair access to raw materials.

2. Agreements that other governments "will not move farther

60 Railroads Authorized To Up Fares

Passengers To Pay Ten Per Cent More

WASHINGTON, May 21—(AP)—An approximate 10 per cent increase in basic passenger fares on eastern railroads was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to compensate for increased operating costs.

The decision applies to 60 railroads operating east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers.

The lines were authorized to make the change to the higher level on five days' public notice. This will put one-way passenger fares up from 2.2 to 2.5 cents per mile in coaches, and from 3.3 to 3.5 cents per mile in sleeping and parlor cars. There will be an increase of about 15 per cent in coach round trip rates and about four per cent in Pullman round trip rates.

15 Cent Minimum Ticket Rate

The railroads were also given a minimum ticket rate of 15 cents in lieu of the present 10 cent minimum.

"This increase is moderate in relation to the increases in wages and price levels since prewar years," said the commission, which last authorized a general passenger fare increase in 1942 when the rates went up 10 per cent. Today's order noted that the railroads which asked for the new increase incurred a deficit from passenger train operations last year of $54,000,000.

The ICC previously granted the 10 per cent increase separately to the New Haven Railroad, which pioneered the proposed boost in an independent proceeding.

"Just and Reasonable"

In the general case, the commission found the increases to be "just and reasonable" for all interstate passenger traffic in the territory east of the Mississippi River and north of the Ohio and Potomac Rivers and for intrastate (within the state) traffic in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio and New York.

Those states were specifically named in the order because they have on occasion resisted application of interstate rates to their intrastate traffic.

Three Arraigned In Election Fraud

KANSAS CITY, May 21 (AP)—A member of the Missouri State Legislature and two minor county officials were arraigned today on vote fraud charges growing out of the hotly-contested primary election last August.

The three, and 14 other persons, all Democratic election officials or workers, were among the 26 indicted yesterday by a Jackson County grand jury. Most of the charges involved the making of, or the aiding in the making of, false election returns.

Joseph M. Tanner, a Democratic state representative from Jackson County, was charged with "inducing the changing of the lawful result of an election," and with unlawful electioneering in a polling place.

He pleaded innocent, as did 16 other defendants at their arraignment in Circuit Court, and was released on a $2,000 bond.

Before the jury was a mass of evidence collected by the Kansas City Star in its investigation of alleged irregularities stemming from the primary. Adding to bitter factional strife in the Democratic Party ranks was the torrid contest for the nomination for Congress from the Fifth Congressional District.

Labor Conferees Agree On Union Fee Ceiling

WASHINGTON, May 21. (AP)—A Senate-House committee was reported informally agreed tonight on putting a ceiling on initiation and membership fees of unions.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters that while no final action had been taken, Senate conferees seemed in the mood to accept a provision of the House labor disputes measure which would limit the fees to be fixed by the unions.

Big Cut In Agriculture Dept. Funds Is Favored

WASHINGTON, May 21 — (AP) — A 38 per cent cut in the budget of the Agriculture Department was reported today to have been agreed to by the House Appropriations Subcommittee in charge of farm funds.

The report came from subcommittee members.

In round figures, such a cut would amount to approximately $460,000,000, which includes cancellation of $145,000,000 in so-called "Section 32" funds and around $315,000,000 denied in new appropriations.

The budget estimate for the department for the year beginning July 1, as submitted by President Truman, called for approximately $944,000,000 in new appropriations in addition to continued use of the "Section 32" money.

Relatives Mob 28 Men After Their Release

Verdict Reached In 5 Hours, 15 Minutes

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 21 (AP) —A Greenville County jury freed 28 white men tonight of charges that they lynched a South Carolina negro, returning straight acquittals in 98 separate verdicts on a four-count murder and conspiracy indictment.

The crushing rejection of prosecution allegations, which had included unsworn statements by 26 self-acknowledged members of the mob, closed an historic case which began here nine days ago.

The men were accused of taking Willie Earle, 23-year-old negro, from Pickens, S. C., jail last February 17, and butchering him on a lonely roadside for the alleged stabbing of a white taxi-driver.

Solicitor Robert Ashmore declined comment on the acquittals. "I never comment on a case," he said. "I'm going to work in my garden and go fishing." The jury acquitted 21 defendants on all four counts of murder, conspiracy to commit murder, and of being accessory both before and after the fact. Another seven defendants were acquitted of conspiracy and of accessory before the fact. The counts of murder and accessory before the fact are capital offenses in South Carolina.

Defense Offered No Witnesses

Prosecutor Sam Watt, designated to act for Attorney General John Daniel, had asked the jury to represent the public conscience of South Carolina in dealing with the lynching.

The defense had rested its case without offering witnesses or presenting testimony. Instead, defense counsel assailed "northern interference", charged federal agents with having "meddler's itch".

In closing the defense arguments yesterday, Attorney Thomas Wofford shouted, "There's no cure for it, except a verdict by a jury of this kind—to acquit these boys and show them it's no use meddling in Greenville County."

The defendants were mobbed by delighted friends and relatives when Judge J. Robert Martin ordered them released. The judge made no comment on the verdicts.

Wives of defendants were present when the acquittals were read, and one of them, Mrs. Howard Thompson, sobbed quietly on her husband's shoulder. When the clerk concluded reading the verdicts, Judge Martin said: "Mr. Sheriff, you will release the defendants at bar from custody."

Before the jury brought in its acquittals at 10:21 p. m. (EST) the court ordered 14 sheriff's deputies to take their places among the crowd of spectators and warned that any demonstration would bring arrest for contempt of court.

Unprecedented Trial

The jury concluded its deliberations at 8:55 p. m., but was unable to report until Judge Martin returned to the courthouse.

The word of agreement came after five hours and 15 minutes of deliberation.

The unprecedented mass-trial went to the jury at 3:20 p. m. (EST)

May Declares Garssons Discriminated Against

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Former Congressman Andrew J. May testified today he went to the rescue of the munitions-making Garssons brothers in 1942 because Army ordnance officers called them "a bunch of Kikes" and refused to let them bid on contracts.

"I thought men who wanted to make munitions in time of war ought to be permitted to do so without regard to color, race or creed," May told the federal court jury in his trial on charges of selling his influence to the Garssons.

Officers of the Chicago Ordnance District so discriminated against Garsson firms, May said, that he took the matter up directly with the War Department and asked that they be permitted to bid on ordnance contracts.

Ford's Plea Fails To Halt Strike Of Foremen; Production Continues

DETROIT, May 21 (AP) — Some 3,800 unionized foremen, spurning an unusual last-minute personal appeal from Henry Ford II, today walked out of three Detroit plants of the Ford Motor Company.

Operations continued uninterrupted as 85,000 production workers stayed at their machines, but the Foreman's Association of America predicted that assembly lines would be halted "in a day and a half to two days."

The company said it intended to operate as long as possible but did not hazard a guess as to how long that would be.

Ford was the only major auto firm not affected by current steel shortages and its production has been continuing steadily at a high post-war level.

President Robert H. Keys, of the FAA, blamed an accumulation of grievances for the walkout. Salaries were not an issue, both sides agreed.

Explaining their side of the dispute, Ford officials reiterated "the company's belief that foremen are members of management."

Picket lines were established as the independent union asserted th strike was "95 per cent effective" among Ford's 4,200 local foremen.

However, a company spokesman charged that some supervisory employes left their jobs only upon the insistence of union "goon squads" which escorted non-strikers to the gates. In union parlance, goon squads are strong-armed groups prepared for violence.

President Pat Mullin, of the Ford chapter of the FAA, replied:

"That's not true. We don't have goon squads."

Kiwanians To Hear Radio Specialist

The whys and wherefores of radio will be explained to members of the Kiwanis Club at the weekly meeting today at 12:15 u. m. at Central YMCA by Mrs. Doris Corwith, assistant to Dr. James Rowland Angell, Public Service Counselor for National Broadcasting Company.

Since coming to NBC in 1941 Mrs. Corwith has given more than 600 talks to over 150,000 persons explaining radio to the public and through her contacts has brought back to the broadcasting company valuable information for bettering radio programs.

Mrs. Corwith, whose home is Rockville Center, Long Island, New York, has traveled in 25 states informing the listener on the problems of the broadcaster, the producer, the radio planner, and statistics on past events in the radio industry, together with plans for future development.

In addition to her duties as assistant public service counselor, she has supervision of many special one-time broadcasts and works with educational, religious and civic groups in developing programs.

Prior to joining NBC Mrs. Corwith served four consecutive years as chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary radio committee. In 1940, she served as national president of the organization. She is a graduate of New York College for Teachers and following her graduation taught high school English.

Request By Senator Bridges Makes Sense

Chairman Bridges of the Senate appropriations committee demands that Congress be told how much foreign spending is planned instead of being asked for money in "dribs and drabs." His request makes sense.

The Administration is seeking $20,000,000 in economic aid for Korea. Italy wants more money. Britain may ask another loan. These and other countries genuinely need help, but we will invite disaster if we go on pouring out millions and billions to meet recurring crises.

Bernard M. Baruch, months ago, urged that we inventory our resources and find out how far we are able to go with foreign aid. That should be done now. Beyond that, we must realize that emergency loans to buy food and other necessities will not, of themselves, solve the complex financial problems of Europe and Asia. The hungry must be fed, certainly, but people must get back to work and normal trade must be revived.

We can contribute to world recovery by buying as well as selling on the world market—by exchanging our food and manufactured goods for raw materials to be used by American industry or stockpiled for national defense.

It is a well known fact that we have used up three-fourths of our domestic supply of bauxite, source of aluminum. We require more than 40,000 tons of tin a year, and produce only a few tons. We mine no nickel in the United States, and only about four-fifths as much zinch as we use. Our reserves of chromite, manganese, platinum, mercury and tungsten are too small for safety.

Most of these vital metals are produced by nations in the British empire, or by others that need our industrial products. Almost every country in the world can supply non-perishable raw materials that we can use.

We can afford to buy and store such materials. We can get them at a fair price by absorbing surpluses not readily salable elsewhere. They will be like money in the bank. As world demand increases for products made from such materials we will be prepared to meet it.

If people are to live, production must be stepped up throughout the world. That can be done by breaking down trade barriers and putting money into circulation—not to be lost on shot-in-the-arm relief financing but to work and earn expanding returns.

Food Prices And Their Relation To Living Costs

Some facts on food prices, assembled by the National Industrial Conference Board, throw considerable light on current living costs. They help to explain the present stress on family budgets but they do not offer much hope that it will be materially lessened soon.

To maintain prewar living standards, says the board, moderate-income families in large cities must now devote 42 per cent of their expenditures to food, compared to 35 per cent in 1935-39. In the last year 70 per cent of the increase in living costs resulted from higher food prices.

Farmers generally have been benefiting. Prices received by farmers for all farm products rose 218 per cent between August, 1939, and March, 1947. Wholesale food prices rose 152 per cent and retail food prices 102 per cent in the same period. All wholesale prices rose 99 per cent, all retail prices 58 per cent.

One reason for this is that farmers' production costs have risen. In March of this year they were paying total prices, including interest and taxes, 79 per cent higher than the average for 1935-1939. They were receiving 162 per cent more because demand forced farm prices up. The nation's growing population, higher national income, and vast relief shipments of food to Europe produced this demand.

It should be pointed out that all farmers have not shared equally in farm prosperity. For example, prices for meat animals rose 242 per cent between August, 1939, and March, 1947, but dairy farmers received only 169 per cent more for their product and poultrymen only 121 per cent more.

The nation must look to lower food prices to relieve a large part of the pressure on family incomes today.

Communist Monkey Business in Hollywood

Many Americans are stirred to indignation and surprise by revelations before the House of Representatives un-American activities subcommittee of Communist monkey business in Hollywood. There is plenty of reason for indignation but little reason for surprise. The Communists constantly are alert for any opportunity to influence public opinion. Why should they overlook so important a medium as motion pictures?

Adolphe Menjou, Rupert Hughes, Jack L. Warner and others are quoted by Chairman J. Parnell Thomas and others of the subcommittee as charging that Communists have infiltrated the motion picture industry to an alarming extent for propaganda purposes. Communist smoke has been rising from Hollywood for years, but each time that it was pointed out in the past the left-wingers effectively shouted "red baiter!" This time it cannot be brushed aside. There is plenty of fire behind the smoke.

It would be unfair to condemn the entire motion picture industry for the doings of the Communist minority. It is only fair to point out that the Communists and their fellow-travelers and "democratic fronts" (more vulnerable for propaganda purposes than the confessed Communists) have done their utmost to infiltrate the American press and radio.

They have failed woefully as far as the "capitalistic press" is concerned, except in New York City, although readers frequently are amazed by reading "columns" by fellow-travelers in eminently conservative newspapers. The radio has recently shed a few fellow-traveler "commentators," but others are still spouting their hate of "greedy business" although they avidly accept thousands of dollars from private enterprise for spouting their tripe.

The Communists do not give up easily when any medium of propaganda is available. No doubt at this moment some of the comrades and fellow-travelers are prettying up for television.

Jewelry expenditures in the United States reached a record of $1,300,000,000 in 1946.

INDUSTRY AND HEALTH

INDUSTRIAL medicine is growing rapidly and, at the present time, is almost a science in itself. Many concerns have large medical departments with scores of skilled physicians and nurses trained to look after the health needs of the employes.

Much of the work of the medical staff is directed toward the prevention of accidents and illnesses and improving the health standards of the personnel. To keep the wheels rolling as we do today is a hazardous task. Thru the combined efforts of safety engineers, industrial hygienists, and physicians, fewer catastrophes occur and absenteeism has been reduced to a minimum.

Preemployment examinations have been a routine practice for many years. This plan originally was installed in some instances to combat compensation laws. Unfortunately, some workers still consider the procedure a weeding out process to eliminate the physically unfit. But this is not the purpose. The aim is to protect all concerned and to evaluate the physical and mental ability of a man or woman for a particular position. Most examiners try to be impartial, basing their opinions on fact. They are not influenced by the wishes of either the employer or the candidate.

Employes are accepted who are capable of carrying out their duties. At the same time, due consideration is given to defects and, when they exist, an occupation is recommended that the individual can manage without hurting himself or others. Thus those with handicaps—some severe—are acceptable and today more establishments are hiring men who never would have been taken in the past. Experience has demonstrated that all jobs do not demand a perfect specimen.

A cursory checkup may be all that is necessary when the applicant is slated for light work whereas a more thoro study is essential if the job calls for heavy labor. Much depends upon the nature of the business. The state of the ears is stressed in places where noise is extreme; the back, body structure, and possibility of hernia for those who will do heavy lifting. Moreover an examination offers each individual an opportunity to become acquainted with his physical status and may stimulate him to strive for and maintain good health.

The plant doctor is acquainted also with the working conditions of the men and women so that occupational risks can be lessened and a safer environment obtained. If the facilities present certain unavoidable dangers, periodic tests may be required to recognize early manifestations of poisoning or illness. In addition, the medical personnel is available for emergency care and treatment of accidents or sickness that might arise during the working hours. The executives are not neglected. The strain of guiding a large organization cannot be under estimated since it entails high pressure, great responsibility, and long hours.

This is a well rounded program and the physician assumes the position of middle-man. In this way he serves both management and labor in an effort to keep every one healthy.

Rare Book Folks

I write as a modest rare book collection, but also in defense of that fine lot of people who give such aid to the collector, the rare book dealer. The hours I have spent with many a rare book dealer have been among the happiest and most profitable of all my life.

So many people have remarked to me: "Why first editions and rare books?" Well, in the first place, there is the education toward a discriminating mind. I have gained more intellectual thrills, and added more to my knowledge of good literature through collecting of first editions than in any other way. I have discovered great writers, and new ones, later to become great. I have been given contacts with the elect in taste, and have become enriched by their superior knowledge.

It is to dealers, and to collectors, that the rich horde of our greatest books have been set aside and preserved for all posterity. Said the late Edmund D. Brooks, the Minneapolis book man, "To collectors and their indomitable spirit of acquisition the world owes a deep debt of gratitude. Countless books and manuscripts, as well as paintings and other objects of art, have been rescued from destruction by the appreciation and care bestowed upon them by the generation of collectors, whose painstaking exertions have enriched the world."

The little known poet, Arthur Upson, once wrote in a sonnet: "Dust o' Books, I love you so!" How I regret never having met such a poet—what warmth he would have left in my heart! I do owe to many a dealer, however, an undying debt of gratitude, notably to the late James F. Drake, the New York rare book dealer, and to his two sons who so adequately carry on his ideals and traditions.

I owe to Paul Jordan Smith, and his inspiring book, "Of the Love of Books," many an acquisition to my list of treasures in literature. And I can understand what was in the mind and heart of the English bookman, James Edwards, before whose death in 1816, he "directed that his coffin be constructed of the shelves of his library."

The late George Barr McCutcheon wrote a most appreciative book, called "Books Once Were Men." I can, with enthusiasm, remark that book remain as Friends.

SMOOTHING THE WAY

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

California's Congressman Fletcher Reaps Dividends As Lobbyists' Protege; Clashes With AVC's Paterson On "Socialized Housing; Truman "Gets Told"

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With housing the No. 1 need of the nation, the real-estate-building - and - loan lobbies continue to be more active than ever to block any kind of public housing. Here is a sample of how the backstage boys operate.

Last November, the Republicans elected a new Congressman from San Diego, Calif.—Charles Fletcher, who is also president of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association. Immediately following his election, Morton Bodfish, ace-lobbyist for the building and loan associations, skillfully contrived to get Fletcher appointed to the Banking and Currency Committee.

Ordinarily no freshman Congressman rates this key committee, but Bodfish, with long experience in pulling the right wires in Washington, managed it just the same. And having been put in this pivotal place, here is how Fletcher is reaping dividends for his building-and-loaners.

Chat Paterson of the American Veterans Committee was testifying before the Banking and Currency Committee against the "Bodfish-inspired" legislation whereby emergency war housing built by the Government would be sold largely for cash and to the big real-estate operators. Paterson proposed instead the cities and veterans' groups be able to buy this war housing for low-income tenants. This brought an immediate objection from building-and-loan executive Congressman Fletcher.

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation . . . ."

Orgy Of Racetracks

"But the bill you are proposing," interrupted AVC's Paterson, "would allow a new orgy of racetracks and commercial construction at a time when controls to channel scarce housing are desperately needed.

"Most of the controls on housing were removed last year," he added. "We were promised that private enterprise could do the job. Instead we find housing starts reaching new lows.

"I remember, too, that just a year ago, when I appeared before this committee in support of OPA, members of the committee were confident that private enterprise could bring down the cost of living if price controls were removed — and look what's happened since."

"It is the rankest sort of propaganda to say that private enterprise has been given a chance to succeed," retorted Fletcher, hotly.

Paterson then invited the San Diego banker-Congressman to visit some of the slums near the Capitol.

"A rank idea of how well private enterprise has succeeded would be given by a trip to the slum areas of the United States which were built without Government controls. Let me show you some of the areas right around Capitol Hill. They were built long before there was any sort of Government control.

"As veterans, we favor the provision of publicly owned housing for those who cannot afford decent, sanitary and safe housing. We support Senator Taft's views on that."

"Well, I don't agree with Senator Taft," snapped the gentleman from San Diego.

Western Democrats Tell Truman

President Truman heard some frank talk about his domestic and foreign policies during the latest "thought clinic" held at the White House with Democratic party bigwigs from Colorado, New Mexico Utah and Wyoming.

Bluntest of the group was Mrs. James H. Wolfe, National committeewoman from Utah, who told the President that many voters were against the Truman Doctrine, and that some people were worried because military men are getting high posts in Government.

In general, western Democratic leaders gave their blessing to the Truman Doctrine, but emphasized that one of the most effective ways of fighting Communism was by a liberal democracy at home.

"We've got to lead the world in this," spoke up Colorado state chairman Eugene Cervi. "If we have a dynamic and liberal democracy here at home, that is the best possible antidote to the spread of Communism, Mr. President. Our own economy must be a blazing beacon if you expect to make the principles you have espoused a living thing in other nations."

Cervi said he saw no reason why the Democratic party could not have a "left wing," provided it was not a "Communist left wing," but was composed of progressive elements who are "true liberals."

Truman said he agreed, but asked: "That brings up the old question —what is a liberal?"

He said he had always considered himself a liberal, adding:

"Nobody objects to true liberalism, but Communism is not liberal in any sense of the word. It is strictly totalitarianism."

There were laughs when Cervi quickly responded: "I know you are not trying to put me in the position of defending Communism, Mr. President. I am equally opposed to it."

Witch-Hunt For Liberals

Both Cervi and Mrs. Wolfe of Utah expressed concern over the prospect of a witch-hunt which would discourage liberals from serving in the Government.

"We are not going to have a witch-hunt," replied the President. "The liberals won't get hurt so long as I'm around. Remember that Communists are not liberals. They are very conservative people serving conservative masters."

THESE DAYS

By George E. Sokolsky

THE old League of Nations failed because in the matters of Manchuria and Ethiopia it was unable to prevent what then appeared to be minor wars. In the Manchurian affair, the League of Nations proved to be without the capacity to safeguard the peace of the world once a major power asserted a lust for conquest. It then became clear that unless the United States assumed the responsibility for League sanctions, the League was a powerless forum for public discussion—and no more. This position was confirmed in the Italo-Ethiopian War. After that the League of Nations was dead because it had ceased to function in the principal field for which it had been established.

The Palestinian issue is the most important that has confronted the new United Nations Organization in the field of preventing and limiting war. Whereas currently, Palestine represents the facade of a local rebellion on the part of Jewish residents against Great Britain, actually it represents an assertion of authority by the newly emerged Arab League which has established a bloc of Koranic countries in opposition to European hegemony. Out of such a situation a war involving all the nations of the world can, in time, eventuate.

No international problem is quite as complex and involves so many political, religious and psychological difficulties. To those who, like Ben Hecht, or the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, see it in the simplicities of nationalistic aspirations, there is nothing to solve. To one, all that is necessary is a victory of Jewish irreconcilables over the British mandatory; to the other, it would all be so simple if the Jews were put to the sword and physically eliminated. Actually, so much more is at stake that both the United States and Great Britain were impelled to insist upon neutrals making the investigation, the greater powers, by this formula, limiting their commitment to accept whatever proposals are finally made.

At stake are, to list the more important items:

1. The control of the Suez Canal;

2. The hegemony of Western Europe over Asia Minor, the Eastern Mediterranean, and in fact, the entire Mediterranean world;

3. The emergence of the Arab League as a world power, thus creating a new imperial group that stretches in its influence from Egypt to China and India;

4. The age-long struggle between Christian and Moslem civilizations in Asia and Africa, with the attendant danger of a second anti-Christion force rising in Eastern Europe.

5. The persistent strength of the Jews in spite of the ravages of this war; the Jewish rebellion in Palestine giving evidence of a nationalistic revival and resilience unanticipated in this era;

6. The protection of British and American investments in Arabic countries, particularly in oil, which are not merely capitalistic but also defensive enterprises;

7. The acknowledgement that Soviet Russia has become the successor to Nazi German imperialism and the conflict between the Russian program for world hegemony with the Anglo-American program of world cooperation;

8. The Russian desire to eliminate Great Britain as a world power by reducing the effectiveness of British defenses and by limiting the areas of economic exploitation for her industry and commerce.

As the real issues are charted, it is obvious that the Jewish-Arab conflict is not the major issue. It is also clear that this particular question, were there no others, might have been settled by treaty and arrangement between the Jews and the Arabs as heretofore. Both are adequately represented. The Jewish Agency is the only formal body that is generally acknowledged by adhering Jews as authoritative in Palestinian matters; the Arab League represents the governments of most predominantly Moslem countries. Because of other issues, which overwhelm the direct question, neither the Jewish Agency nor the Arab League can find a basis for even temporary settlement. Neither is a free agent.

If the United Nations finds a way to keep the peace in Asia Minor, if its solution is just, if its proposals are workable, it will have set a pattern as important to its existence as were the decisions of John Marshall in the Supreme Court of the United States in the early years of this country. Palestine is the test.

Believed Russia Is Ashamed Of What "Iron Curtain" Is Hiding

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 21—"Reciprocity" is probably a difficult word to translate into Russian but surely some ingenious person familiar with the intricacies of the Russian language should be able to do it. For there is great need to familiarize the Russian government with the meaning of "reciprocity."

Thus, for example, the United States permits the publication in New York of a daily newspaper devoted to the Communist cause. This paper is presumably financed by private persons and not by the Russian government.

Would the Russian government permit American citizens to finance and publish a daily newspaper in Moscow devoted to the cause of democracy as the people of the United States understand that term?

There is much discussion nowadays about the importance of continuing a short-wave radio broadcast service to Russia, known as the "Voice of America," and several members of the House of Representatives seem to think this broadcasting is a job to be done not by the Department of State but by private citizens to whom the task would be let by contract, with the government paying the expense.

While there is a relatively small number of radio sets in Russia, this is not the only means of communication that could be utilized. A daily newspaper in Moscow would be as good if not a better way to reach the Russian reading public.

Samples of U. S. Tolerance

It will be recalled that Marshal Stalin told former Governor Stassen of Minnesota recently that censorship prevailed in Russia because the press of other countries was subject to exaggerations and even untruths. Maybe Mr. Stalin doesn't read the Communist newspaper published in New York, but if he wants to get a good example of American tolerance and omission of censorship, he should read the daily Communist organ. It does a better job of distortion and twisting of quotations out of context, plus propaganda, than any partisan newspaper of general circulation in America ever did, though it must be conceded some of the organs of certain highly respectable labor unions are close rivals in their persistent stimulus of bitterness among workers against their employers.

It will be said at once that, of course, there isn't the slightest chance that the Russian government will permit an American-owned daily newspaper to operate in Moscow, and that short-wave radio doesn't require any facilities inside Russia. Obviously the short-wave service should be rendered, too, but the American government has every right to ask for the privilege for Americans to operate publications inside Russia as long as Communist dailies are permitted inside the United States.

Foreigners generally can publish newspapers in Great Britain, France and in Latin American countries. There is no just reason why Russia should exclude foreigners from publishing their periodicals and newspapers inside Russia. Nor is there any valid reason why the Soviets should exclude the correspondents who wish to enter Russia to write about what is going on there.

The Soviet government, even with a censorship to protect itself against the sending out of false news, permits only a handful of foreign correspondents to remain either in Moscow or anywhere else in Russia. The reason for this has never been satisfactorily explained. The official excuse is lack of housing, but it is believed the real reason is the fear that the Russian government might not be able successfully to suppress the truth of what's happening inside Russia if there were too many foreign correspondents, some of whom might elude the vigils of the secret police and travel around the country.

Believed Russia Ashamed

The belief prevails in many quarters here that the Russian government is really ashamed of what is happening behind the "iron curtain" and that it does not want foreign correspondents to learn of the squalor and starvation that exists or of the cruel manner in which the population is treated. This is one reason why attacks on America are so frequent and so bitter over the Russia radio. The purpose is to mislead the Russian people into believing that the plight of a relatively small segment of the share-croppers in the south is the plight of all America and that hence the Russian people should not credit the reports of a high standard of living inside the United States.

The impression being brought back here by visitors to Russia is that the standard of living in that country is very low indeed. If true, the Russians are missing a bet, for, if they allowed freedom of the press and the emergence of truth, there would be a tendency in America to find ways and means of reaching an understanding with the Russian people so that they—like the people of Greece and Turkey—could be assisted along the road to economic rehabilitation.

Truman May Sign Labor Bill To Avoid His Mistake On The OPA

By MARK SULLIVAN

Speculation about whether President Truman will approve or veto the labor bill cannot be confident until the exact form in which the bill will go to him is known. This cannot be until committees of the Senate and House have completed their versions to adjust differences between the separate versions. But enough is known about the attitudes of Senators and Representatives who compose the joint conference committee to permit a rough estimate of what the final bill will be. Based on this, directly opposite predictions are made by persons equally well-informed and equal in judgment.

Some of the predictions of a veto are made by persons who wish one, and much of this prediction is in effect a maneuver designed to bring one about. It is an art practiced effectively by New Dealers during the Roosevelt Administration, an art of creating an atmosphere, in Washington and throughout the country, designed to make an impression on the President or incite a mood in him. This influenced not a few of President Roosevelt's actions. Though Mr. Truman is less susceptible than President Roosevelt, the art is still attempted by remaining New Dealers who by position or voice have opportunity to do so. But admitting this factor, it remains true that some of the predictions of veto come from persons who deplore one or are disinterested.

Argument Against Veto Strong

The arguments against the veto are strong and concrete. One of them is statistical. Both the House and Senate versions of the labor bill were passed by majorities of more than two-thirds, the House one by nearly three-fourths. The House version was supported by almost nine-tenths of the Republicans and more than half the Democrats; the Senate version by nearly 16-17ths of the Republicans and exactly half the Democrats. Veto by a President of a legislative action so convincingly taken would be an exercise of executive power calling for stronger arguments than are easy to foresee. As between President Truman and the Republicans, it would be a conspicuous departure from cooperation.

Along with the speculation about veto or approval of the labor bill goes another, on whether Congress would override a veto by the necessary two-thirds majority in each branch. The probable answer is no. True, the bill as passed had more than a two-thirds majority in each branch. But among the Democrats who helped make up this majority is a margin who might hesitate to override the veto of a Democratic President. This margin, while small, might be enough to reduce the total majority in one branch of Congress or the other below the two-thirds necessary to override a veto.

This brings up the deepest merit necessary for the President to take into account. A veto, if not overridden by Congress, would probably end the possibility of any labor legislation whatever; it would leave the country with labor conditions as they now are. The Republicans, in control of Congress, would not undertake to begin all over and write a new labor bill in conformance to what the President would be willing to approve. Neither the Republicans, nor Congress as a whole, nor probably the country, has any stomach for a repetition of what took place a year ago about the bill dealing with OPA.

Truman's Judgment Reviewed

OPA was coming to a statutory end. Congress, then Democratic, wrote a bill extending OPA, but changing it. President Truman, not liking the changes, vetoed the bill. Thereupon for some three weeks there was no OPA. In this condition Congress hurriedly went through the ponderous business of writing a new bill taking account of objections the President had made to the former one. This new bill Mr. Truman signed, and OPA was revived. But common judgment said the new bill was, even from Mr. Truman's own point of view, inferior to the one he had vetoed. The whole awkward performance was a contribution to dissatisfaction of the country with OPA, and its ultimate ending.

Probably President Truman himself would not relish a repetition of that, and most certainly Congress would not. Republican leaders are convinced they should not attempt it. If the labor bill is vetoed, and, as is possible, the veto is not overridden, Mr. Truman will face continuation of labor conditions as they now are, with whatever effects this would have on the country as a whole broadly and on the narrower aspect of politics.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

In a latest movie that great actress, Agnes Moorhead, plays the part of a woman 105 years old. This is really a milestone in the art of makeup.

If the makeup men go much further, they'll be bringing you the signing of the declaration of independence with the original cast.

One day Vera Vague saw Miss Moorhead on the set all made up and rushed over to her. She mistook her for one of her old schoolmates.

And when it was discovered that Miss Moorhead wasn't really 105, there were a lot of broken hearts. The next day C. Aubrey Smith went out and registered with the foreign legion.

Buddy Westmore worked hours making Miss Moorhead look so old. My makeup man does the same thing in reverse.

Yes, sir the men behind the grease paint are doing wonders these days. Imagine transforming an attractive woman in her 30's into a shrew over a hundred. That's almost as neat a trick as changing a veteran's park bench into an apartment.

With all of this advancement in the art of makeup age will mean nothing to an actor. You'll soon see movies with Mickey Rooney playing Dr. Gillespie and Lionel Barrymoore carrying home school books for Margaret O'Brien.

At last actors can stop worrying about getting old.

And perhaps soon these tricks will be available to the general public. Of course, my brother never worries about old age—he's sure of his bread and water for the next 20 years.

Request By Senator Bridges Makes Sense

Chairman Bridges of the Senate appropriations committee demands that Congress be told how much foreign spending is planned instead of being asked for money in "dribs and drabs." His request makes sense.

The Administration is seeking $20,000,000 in economic aid for Korea. Italy wants more money. Britain may ask another loan. These and other countries genuinely need help, but we will invite disaster if we go on pouring out millions and billions to meet recurring crises.

Bernard M. Baruch, months ago, urged that we inventory our resources and find out how far we are able to go with foreign aid. That should be done now. Beyond that, we must realize that emergency loans to buy food and other necessities will not, of themselves, solve the complex financial problems of Europe and Asia. The hungry must be fed, certainly, but people must get back to work and normal trade must be revived.

We can contribute to world recovery by buying as well as selling on the world market—by exchanging our food and manufactured goods for raw materials to be used by American industry or stockpiled for national defense.

It is a well known fact that we have used up three-fourths of our domestic supply of bauxite, source of aluminum. We require more than 40,000 tons of tin a year, and produce only a few tons. We mine no nickel in the United States, and only about four-fifths as much zinch as we use. Our reserves of chromite, manganese, platinum, mercury and tungsten are too small for safety.

Most of these vital metals are produced by nations in the British empire, or by others that need our industrial products. Almost every country in the world can supply non-perishable raw materials that we can use.

We can afford to buy and store such materials. We can get them at a fair price by absorbing surpluses not readily salable elsewhere. They will be like money in the bank. As world demand increases for products made from such materials we will be prepared to meet it.

If people are to live, production must be stepped up throughout the world. That can be done by breaking down trade barriers and putting money into circulation—not to be lost on shot-in-the-arm relief financing but to work and earn expanding returns.

Food Prices And Their Relation To Living Costs

Some facts on food prices, assembled by the National Industrial Conference Board, throw considerable light on current living costs. They help to explain the present stress on family budgets but they do not offer much hope that it will be materially lessened soon.

To maintain prewar living standards, says the board, moderate-income families in large cities must now devote 42 per cent of their expenditures to food, compared to 35 per cent in 1935-39. In the last year 70 per cent of the increase in living costs resulted from higher food prices.

Farmers generally have been benefiting. Prices received by farmers for all farm products rose 218 per cent between August, 1939, and March, 1947. Wholesale food prices rose 152 per cent and retail food prices 102 per cent in the same period. All wholesale prices rose 99 per cent, all retail prices 58 per cent.

One reason for this is that farmers' production costs have risen. In March of this year they were paying total prices, including interest and taxes, 79 per cent higher than the average for 1935-1939. They were receiving 162 per cent more because demand forced farm prices up. The nation's growing population, higher national income, and vast relief shipments of food to Europe produced this demand.

It should be pointed out that all farmers have not shared equally in farm prosperity. For example, prices for meat animals rose 242 per cent between August, 1939, and March, 1947, but dairy farmers received only 169 per cent more for their product and poultrymen only 121 per cent more.

The nation must look to lower food prices to relieve a large part of the pressure on family incomes today.

Communist Monkey Business in Hollywood

Many Americans are stirred to indignation and surprise by revelations before the House of Representatives un-American activities subcommittee of Communist monkey business in Hollywood. There is plenty of reason for indignation but little reason for surprise. The Communists constantly are alert for any opportunity to influence public opinion. Why should they overlook so important a medium as motion pictures?

Adolphe Menjou, Rupert Hughes, Jack L. Warner and others are quoted by Chairman J. Parnell Thomas and others of the subcommittee as charging that Communists have infiltrated the motion picture industry to an alarming extent for propaganda purposes. Communist smoke has been rising from Hollywood for years, but each time that it was pointed out in the past the left-wingers effectively shouted "red baiter!" This time it cannot be brushed aside. There is plenty of fire behind the smoke.

It would be unfair to condemn the entire motion picture industry for the doings of the Communist minority. It is only fair to point out that the Communists and their fellow-travelers and "democratic fronts" (more vulnerable for propaganda purposes than the confessed Communists) have done their utmost to infiltrate the American press and radio.

They have failed woefully as far as the "capitalistic press" is concerned, except in New York City, although readers frequently are amazed by reading "columns" by fellow-travelers in eminently conservative newspapers. The radio has recently shed a few fellow-traveler "commentators," but others are still spouting their hate of "greedy business" although they avidly accept thousands of dollars from private enterprise for spouting their tripe.

The Communists do not give up easily when any medium of propaganda is available. No doubt at this moment some of the comrades and fellow-travelers are prettying up for television.

Jewelry expenditures in the United States reached a record of $1,300,000,000 in 1946.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

INDUSTRY AND HEALTH

INDUSTRIAL medicine is growing rapidly and, at the present time, is almost a science in itself. Many concerns have large medical departments with scores of skilled physicians and nurses trained to look after the health needs of the employes.

Much of the work of the medical staff is directed toward the prevention of accidents and illnesses and improving the health standards of the personnel. To keep the wheels rolling as we do today is a hazardous task. Thru the combined efforts of safety engineers, industrial hygienists, and physicians, fewer catastrophes occur and absenteeism has been reduced to a minimum.

Preemployment examinations have been a routine practice for many years. This plan originally was installed in some instances to combat compensation laws. Unfortunately, some workers still consider the procedure a weeding out process to eliminate the physically unfit. But this is not the purpose. The aim is to protect all concerned and to evaluate the physical and mental ability of a man or woman for a particular position. Most examiners try to be impartial, basing their opinions on fact. They are not influenced by the wishes of either the employer or the candidate.

Employes are accepted who are capable of carrying out their duties. At the same time, due consideration is given to defects and, when they exist, an occupation is recommended that the individual can manage without hurting himself or others. Thus those with handicaps—some severe—are acceptable and today more establishments are hiring men who never would have been taken in the past. Experience has demonstrated that all jobs do not demand a perfect specimen.

A cursory checkup may be all that is necessary when the applicant is slated for light work whereas a more thoro study is essential if the job calls for heavy labor. Much depends upon the nature of the business. The state of the ears is stressed in places where noise is extreme; the back, body structure, and possibility of hernia for those who will do heavy lifting. Moreover an examination offers each individual an opportunity to become acquainted with his physical status and may stimulate him to strive for and maintain good health.

The plant doctor is acquainted also with the working conditions of the men and women so that occupational risks can be lessened and a safer environment obtained. If the facilities present certain unavoidable dangers, periodic tests may be required to recognize early manifestations of poisoning or illness. In addition, the medical personnel is available for emergency care and treatment of accidents or sickness that might arise during the working hours. The executives are not neglected. The strain of guiding a large organization cannot be under estimated since it entails high pressure, great responsibility, and long hours.

This is a well rounded program and the physician assumes the position of middle-man. In this way he serves both management and labor in an effort to keep every one healthy.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Rare Book Folks

I write as a modest rare book collection, but also in defense of that fine lot of people who give such aid to the collector, the rare book dealer. The hours I have spent with many a rare book dealer have been among the happiest and most profitable of all my life.

So many people have remarked to me: "Why first editions and rare books?" Well, in the first place, there is the education toward a discriminating mind. I have gained more intellectual thrills, and added more to my knowledge of good literature through collecting of first editions than in any other way. I have discovered great writers, and new ones, later to become great. I have been given contacts with the elect in taste, and have become enriched by their superior knowledge.

It is to dealers, and to collectors, that the rich horde of our greatest books have been set aside and preserved for all posterity. Said the late Edmund D. Brooks, the Minneapolis book man, "To collectors and their indomitable spirit of acquisition the world owes a deep debt of gratitude. Countless books and manuscripts, as well as paintings and other objects of art, have been rescued from destruction by the appreciation and care bestowed upon them by the generation of collectors, whose painstaking exertions have enriched the world."

The little known poet, Arthur Upson, once wrote in a sonnet: "Dust o' Books, I love you so!" How I regret never having met such a poet—what warmth he would have left in my heart! I do owe to many a dealer, however, an undying debt of gratitude, notably to the late James F. Drake, the New York rare book dealer, and to his two sons who so adequately carry on his ideals and traditions.

I owe to Paul Jordan Smith, and his inspiring book, "Of the Love of Books," many an acquisition to my list of treasures in literature. And I can understand what was in the mind and heart of the English bookman, James Edwards, before whose death in 1816, he "directed that his coffin be constructed of the shelves of his library."

The late George Barr McCutcheon wrote a most appreciative book, called "Books Once Were Men." I can, with enthusiasm, remark that book remain as Friends.

SMOOTHING THE WAY

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

California's Congressman Fletcher Reaps Dividends As Lobbyists' Protege; Clashes With AVC's Paterson On "Socialized Housing; Truman "Gets Told"

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With housing the No. 1 need of the nation, the real-estate-building - and - loan lobbies continue to be more active than ever to block any kind of public housing. Here is a sample of how the backstage boys operate.

Last November, the Republicans elected a new Congressman from San Diego, Calif.—Charles Fletcher, who is also president of the Home Federal Savings and Loan Association. Immediately following his election, Morton Bodfish, ace-lobbyist for the building and loan associations, skillfully contrived to get Fletcher appointed to the Banking and Currency Committee.

Ordinarily no freshman Congressman rates this key committee, but Bodfish, with long experience in pulling the right wires in Washington, managed it just the same. And having been put in this pivotal place, here is how Fletcher is reaping dividends for his building-and-loaners.

Chat Paterson of the American Veterans Committee was testifying before the Banking and Currency Committee against the "Bodfish-inspired" legislation whereby emergency war housing built by the Government would be sold largely for cash and to the big real-estate operators. Paterson proposed instead the cities and veterans' groups be able to buy this war housing for low-income tenants. This brought an immediate objection from building-and-loan executive Congressman Fletcher.

"Socialized housing!" he exclaimed, adding that he was against Senator Taft's idea that the Government should help low-cost housing because private enterprise has failed.

"I resent the statement that private enterprise has not done the job," continued Fletcher. "It has not had a chance to do the job. The President has not turned loose the controls. This committee is even now working on legislation . . . ."

Orgy Of Racetracks

"But the bill you are proposing," interrupted AVC's Paterson, "would allow a new orgy of racetracks and commercial construction at a time when controls to channel scarce housing are desperately needed.

"Most of the controls on housing were removed last year," he added. "We were promised that private enterprise could do the job. Instead we find housing starts reaching new lows.

"I remember, too, that just a year ago, when I appeared before this committee in support of OPA, members of the committee were confident that private enterprise could bring down the cost of living if price controls were removed — and look what's happened since."

"It is the rankest sort of propaganda to say that private enterprise has been given a chance to succeed," retorted Fletcher, hotly.

Paterson then invited the San Diego banker-Congressman to visit some of the slums near the Capitol.

"A rank idea of how well private enterprise has succeeded would be given by a trip to the slum areas of the United States which were built without Government controls. Let me show you some of the areas right around Capitol Hill. They were built long before there was any sort of Government control.

"As veterans, we favor the provision of publicly owned housing for those who cannot afford decent, sanitary and safe housing. We support Senator Taft's views on that."

"Well, I don't agree with Senator Taft," snapped the gentleman from San Diego.

Western Democrats Tell Truman

President Truman heard some frank talk about his domestic and foreign policies during the latest "thought clinic" held at the White House with Democratic party bigwigs from Colorado, New Mexico Utah and Wyoming.

Bluntest of the group was Mrs. James H. Wolfe, National committeewoman from Utah, who told the President that many voters were against the Truman Doctrine, and that some people were worried because military men are getting high posts in Government.

In general, western Democratic leaders gave their blessing to the Truman Doctrine, but emphasized that one of the most effective ways of fighting Communism was by a liberal democracy at home.

"We've got to lead the world in this," spoke up Colorado state chairman Eugene Cervi. "If we have a dynamic and liberal democracy here at home, that is the best possible antidote to the spread of Communism, Mr. President. Our own economy must be a blazing beacon if you expect to make the principles you have espoused a living thing in other nations."

Cervi said he saw no reason why the Democratic party could not have a "left wing," provided it was not a "Communist left wing," but was composed of progressive elements who are "true liberals."

Truman said he agreed, but asked: "That brings up the old question —what is a liberal?"

He said he had always considered himself a liberal, adding:

"Nobody objects to true liberalism, but Communism is not liberal in any sense of the word. It is strictly totalitarianism."

There were laughs when Cervi quickly responded: "I know you are not trying to put me in the position of defending Communism, Mr. President. I am equally opposed to it."

Witch-Hunt For Liberals

Both Cervi and Mrs. Wolfe of Utah expressed concern over the prospect of a witch-hunt which would discourage liberals from serving in the Government.

"We are not going to have a witch-hunt," replied the President. "The liberals won't get hurt so long as I'm around. Remember that Communists are not liberals. They are very conservative people serving conservative masters."

THESE DAYS By George E. Sokolsky

THE old League of Nations failed because in the matters of Manchuria and Ethiopia it was unable to prevent what then appeared to be minor wars. In the Manchurian affair, the League of Nations proved to be without the capacity to safeguard the peace of the world once a major power asserted a lust for conquest. It then became clear that unless the United States assumed the responsibility for League sanctions, the League was a powerless forum for public discussion—and no more. This position was confirmed in the Italo-Ethiopian War. After that the League of Nations was dead because it had ceased to function in the principal field for which it had been established.

The Palestinian issue is the most important that has confronted the new United Nations Organization in the field of preventing and limiting war. Whereas currently, Palestine represents the facade of a local rebellion on the part of Jewish residents against Great Britain, actually it represents an assertion of authority by the newly emerged Arab League which has established a bloc of Koranic countries in opposition to European hegemony. Out of such a situation a war involving all the nations of the world can, in time, eventuate.

*

No international problem is quite as complex and involves so many political, religious and psychological difficulties. To those who, like Ben Hecht, or the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, see it in the simplicities of nationalistic aspirations, there is nothing to solve. To one, all that is necessary is a victory of Jewish irreconcilables over the British mandatory; to the other, it would all be so simple if the Jews were put to the sword and physically eliminated. Actually, so much more is at stake that both the United States and Great Britain were impelled to insist upon neutrals making the investigation, the greater powers, by this formula, limiting their commitment to accept whatever proposals are finally made.

At stake are, to list the more important items:

1. The control of the Suez Canal;
2. The hegemony of Western Europe over Asia Minor, the Eastern Mediterranean, and in fact, the entire Mediterranean world;
3. The emergence of the Arab League as a world power, thus creating a new imperial group that stretches in its influence from Egypt to China and India;
4. The age-long struggle between Christian and Moslem civilizations in Asia and Africa, with the attendant danger of a second anti-Christian force rising in Eastern Europe.
5. The persistent strength of the Jews in spite of the ravages of this war; the Jewish rebellion in Palestine giving evidence of a nationalistic revival and resilience unanticipated in this era;
6. The protection of British and American investments in Arabic countries, particularly in oil, which are not merely capitalistic but also defensive enterprises;
7. The acknowledgement that Soviet Russia has become the successor to Nazi German imperialism and the conflict between the Russian program for world hegemony with the Anglo-American program of world cooperation;
8. The Russian desire to eliminate Great Britain as a world power by reducing the effectiveness of British defenses and by limiting the areas of economic exploitation for her industry and commerce.

As the real issues are charted, it is obvious that the Jewish-Arab conflict is not the major issue. It is also clear that this particular question, were there no others, might have been settled by treaty and arrangement between the Jews and the Arabs as heretofore. Both are adequately represented. The Jewish Agency is the only formal body that is generally acknowledged by adhering Jews as authoritative in Palestinian matters; the Arab League represents the governments of most predominantly Moslem countries. Because of other issues, which overwhelm the direct question, neither the Jewish Agency nor the Arab League can find a basis for even temporary settlement. Neither is a free agent.

If the United Nations finds a way to keep the peace in Asia Minor, if its solution is just, if its proposals are workable, it will have set a pattern as important to its existence as were the decisions of John Marshall in the Supreme Court of the United States in the early years of this country. Palestine is the test.

Believed Russia Is Ashamed Of What "Iron Curtain" Is Hiding

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 21—"Reciprocity" is probably a difficult word to translate into Russian but surely some ingenious person familiar with the intricacies of the Russian language should be able to do it. For there is great need to familiarize the Russian government with the meaning of "reciprocity."

Thus, for example, the United States permits the publication in New York of a daily newspaper devoted to the Communist cause. This paper is presumably financed by private persons and not by the Russian government.

Would the Russian government permit American citizens to finance and publish a daily newspaper in Moscow devoted to the cause of democracy as the people of the United States understand that term?

There is much discussion nowadays about the importance of continuing a short-wave radio broadcast service to Russia, known as the "Voice of America," and several members of the House of Representatives seem to think this broadcasting is a job to be done not by the Department of State but by private citizens to whom the task would be let by contract, with the government paying the expense.

While there is a relatively small number of radio sets in Russia, this is not the only means of communication that could be utilized. A daily newspaper in Moscow would be as good if not a better way to reach the Russian reading public.

Samples of U. S. Tolerance

It will be recalled that Marshal Stalin told former Governor Stassen of Minnesota recently that censorship prevailed in Russia because the press of other countries was subject to exaggerations and even untruths. Maybe Mr. Stalin doesn't read the Communist newspaper published in New York, but if he wants to get a good example of American tolerance and omission of censorship, he should read the daily Communist organ. It does a better job of distortion and twisting of quotations out of context, plus propaganda, than any partisan newspaper of general circulation in America ever did, though it must be conceded some of the organs of certain highly respectable labor unions are close rivals in their persistent stimulus of bitterness among workers against their employers.

It will be said at once that, of course, there isn't the slightest chance that the Russian government will permit an American-owned daily newspaper to operate in Moscow, and that short-wave radio doesn't require any facilities inside Russia. Obviously the short-wave service should be rendered, too, but the American government has every right to ask for the privilege for Americans to operate publications inside Russia as long as Communist dailies are permitted inside the United States.

Foreigners generally can publish newspapers in Great Britain, France and in Latin American countries. There is no just reason why Russia should exclude foreigners from publishing their periodicals and newspapers inside Russia. Nor is there any valid reason why the Soviets should exclude the correspondents who wish to enter Russia to write about what is going on there.

The Soviet government, even with a censorship to protect itself against the sending out of false news, permits only a handful of foreign correspondents to remain either in Moscow or anywhere else in Russia. The reason for this has never been satisfactorily explained. The official excuse is lack of housing, but it is believed the real reason is the fear that the Russian government might not be able successfully to suppress the truth of what's happening inside Russia if there were too many foreign correspondents, some of whom might elude the vigils of the secret police and travel around the country.

Believed Russia Ashamed

The belief prevails in many quarters here that the Russian government is really ashamed of what is happening behind the "iron curtain" and that it does not want foreign correspondents to learn of the squalor and starvation that exists or of the cruel manner in which the population is treated. This is one reason why attacks on America are so frequent and so bitter over the Russia radio. The purpose is to mislead the Russian people into believing that the plight of a relatively small segment of the share-croppers in the south is the plight of all America and that hence the Russian people should not credit the reports of a high standard of living inside the United States.

The impression being brought back here by visitors to Russia is that the standard of living in that country is very low indeed. If true, the Russians are missing a bet, for, if they allowed freedom of the press and the emergence of truth, there would be a tendency in America to find ways and means of reaching an understanding with the Russian people so that they—like the people of Greece and Turkey—could be assisted along the road to economic rehabilitation.

Truman May Sign Labor Bill To Avoid His Mistake On The OPA

By MARK SULLIVAN

Speculation about whether President Truman will approve or veto the labor bill cannot be confident until the exact form in which the bill will go to him is known. This cannot be until committees of the Senate and House have completed their versions to adjust differences between the separate versions. But enough is known about the attitudes of Senators and Representatives who compose the joint conference committee to permit a rough estimate of what the final bill will be. Based on this, directly opposite predictions are made by persons equally well-informed and equal in judgment.

Some of the predictions of a veto are made by persons who wish one, and much of this prediction is in effect a maneuver designed to bring one about. It is an art practiced effectively by New Dealers during the Roosevelt Administration, an art of creating an atmosphere, in Washington and throughout the country, designed to make an impression on the President or incite a mood in him. This influenced not a few of President Roosevelt's actions. Though Mr. Truman is less susceptible than President Roosevelt, the art is still attempted by remaining New Dealers who by position or voice have opportunity to do so. But admitting this factor, it remains true that some of the predictions of veto come from persons who deplore one or are disinterested.

Argument Against Veto Strong

The arguments against the veto are strong and concrete. One of them is statistical. Both the House and Senate versions of the labor bill were passed by majorities of more than two-thirds, the House one by nearly three-fourths. The House version was supported by almost nine-tenths of the Republicans and more than half the Democrats; the Senate version by nearly 16-17ths of the Republicans and exactly half the Democrats. Veto by a President of a legislative action so convincingly taken would be an exercise of executive power calling for stronger arguments than are easy to foresee. As between President Truman and the Republicans, it would be a conspicuous departure from cooperation.

Along with the speculation about veto or approval of the labor bill goes another, on whether Congress would override a veto by the necessary two-thirds majority in each branch. The probable answer is no. True, the bill as passed had more than a two-thirds majority in each branch. But among the Democrats who helped make up this majority is a margin who might hesitate to override the veto of a Democratic President. This margin, while small, might be enough to reduce the total majority in one branch of Congress or the other below the two-thirds necessary to override a veto.

This brings up the deepest merit necessary for the President to take into account. A veto, if not overridden by Congress, would probably end the possibility of any labor legislation whatever; it would leave the country with labor conditions as they now are. The Republicans, in control of Congress, would not undertake to begin all over and write a new labor bill in conformance to what the President would be willing to approve. Neither the Republicans, nor Congress as a whole, nor probably the country, has any stomach for a repetition of what took place a year ago about the bill dealing with OPA.

Truman's Judgment Reviewed

OPA was coming to a statutory end. Congress, then Democratic, wrote a bill extending OPA, but changing it. President Truman, not liking the changes, vetoed the bill. Thereupon for some three weeks there was no OPA. In this condition Congress hurriedly went through the ponderous business of writing a new bill taking account of objections the President had made to the former one. This new bill Mr. Truman signed, and OPA was revived. But common judgment said the new bill was, even from Mr. Truman's own point of view, inferior to the one he had vetoed. The whole awkward performance was a contribution to dissatisfaction of the country with OPA, and its ultimate ending.

Probably President Truman himself would not relish a repetition of that, and most certainly Congress would not. Republican leaders are convinced they should not attempt it. If the labor bill is vetoed, and, as is possible, the veto is not overridden, Mr. Truman will face continuation of labor conditions as they now are, with whatever effects this would have on the country as a whole broadly and on the narrower aspect of politics.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

In a latest movie that great actress, Agnes Moorhead, plays the part of a woman 105 years old. This is really a milestone in the art of makeup.

If the makeup men go much further signing of the declaration of independence with the original cast.

One day Vera Vague saw Miss ther, they'll be bringing you the Moorhead on the set all made up and rushed over to her. She mistook her for one of her old schoolmates.

And when it was discovered that Miss Moorhead wasn't really 105, there were a lot of broken hearts. The next day C. Aubrey Smith went out and registered with the foreign legion.

Buddy Westmore worked hours making Miss Moorhead look so old. My makeup man does the same thing in reverse.

Yes, sir the men behind the grease paint are doing wonders these days. Imagine transforming an attractive woman in her 30's into a shrew over a hundred. That's almost as neat a trick as changing a veteran's park bench into an apartment.

With all of this advancement in the art of makeup age will mean nothing to an actor. You'll soon see movies with Mickey Rooney playing Dr. Gillespie and Lionel Barrymoore carrying home school books for Margaret O'Brien.

At last actors can stop worrying about getting old.

And perhaps soon these tricks will be available to the general public. Of course, my brother never worries about old age—he's sure of his bread and water for the next 20 years.

ARMY RECRUITERS ENLIST FIVE MEN

Capt. L. M. Bairstow, head of the local Army Recruiting Office, announced that nine men have enlisted in the Army.

Clarence Randolph Stafford, R. F. D. 2, city, enlisted for three years in the Air force. Herbert Frankling Harvey, R. F. D. 1, Deer Park, Md., signed for 18 months, unassigned. Allen Otis Cunningham, Maysville, W. Va., enlisted for two years in the regular army. A veteran of nine years and 10 months previous service, Richard Harmon Doman, who was honorably discharged October 4, 1945, enlisted for three years in the air force. William Henry Small, Hambleton, W. Va., who had served one year and nine months in the Navy, also signed for a three year enlistment in the air force.

The local recruiting office announced that all ex-servicemen who have been discharged as combat wounded, disabled veterans have until June 30 to reenlist under their former ratings. After June 30, those who are classed as combat wounded must reenter the army within 20 days of discharge to maintain their ratings.

Lt. George Gocke, attached to the office, stated that family allowances are still in effect and will continue to be for the duration and six months.

The local recruiting staff has been augmented by the addition of T-3 Robert L. Chambers, a veteran of the Philippine Division who wears the Presidential Unit Citation ribbon with two oak leaf clusters. Sgt. Chambers was transferred to the Baltimore recruiting district from Fort Myer, Va.

Odell N. House, Route 1, Frostburg, a veteran of four years previous duty, enlisted for three years in ordnance; Harry F. Cox, 519 Woodside Avenue, signed for three years service in the air force; John Raymond Miner, Frostburg, enlisted for three years in the 82nd Airborne Division. He served four years and nine months in the infantry.

Albert D. Gladden, 112 Greene Street, enlisted as a staff sergeant in the regular army. A veteran of three years, five months previous service, Sgt. Gladden is enlisting under the provisions for combat wounded.

ARMY RECRUITERS ENLIST FIVE MEN

Capt. L. M. Bairstow, head of the local Army Recruiting Office, announced that nine men have enlisted in the Army.

Clarence Randolph Stafford, R. F. D. 2, city, enlisted for three years in the Air force. Herbert Frankling Harvey, R. F. D. 1, Deer Park, Md., signed for 18 months, unassigned. Allen Otis Cunningham, Maysville, W. Va., enlisted for two years in the regular army. A veteran of nine years and 10 months previous service, Richard Harmon Doman, who was honorably discharged October 4, 1945, enlisted for three years in the air force. William Henry Small, Hambleton, W. Va., who had served one year and nine months in the Navy, also signed for a three year enlistment in the air force.

The local recruiting office announced that all ex-servicemen who have been discharged as combat wounded, disabled veterans have until June 30 to reenlist under their former ratings. After June 30, those who are classed as combat wounded must reenter the army within 20 days of discharge to maintain their ratings.

Lt. George Gocke, attached to the office, stated that family allowances are still in effect and will continue to be for the duration and six months.

The local recruiting staff has been augmented by the addition of T-3 Robert L. Chambers, a veteran of the Philippine Division who wears the Presidential Unit Citation ribbon with two oak leaf clusters. Sgt. Chambers was transferred to the Baltimore recruiting district from Fort Myer, Va.

Odell N. House, Route 1, Frostburg, a veteran of four years previous duty, enlisted for three years in ordnance; Harry F. Cox, 519 Woodside Avenue, signed for three years service in the air force; John Raymond Miner, Frostburg, enlisted for three years in the 82nd Airborne Division. He served four years and nine months in the infantry.

Albert D. Gladden, 112 Greene Street, enlisted as a staff sergeant in the regular army. A veteran of three years, five months previous service, Sgt. Gladden is enlisting under the provisions for combat wounded.

Junior Women's Civic Club Plans Hay Ride

Receives Reports On Two Projects

Plans were formulated for a hay ride and reports given at the meeting of the executive board of the Junior Women's Civic Club, Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. S. Lua Sykes, The Dingle.

The club is planning to hold the hay ride as the last meeting of the year. No definite date has been set, but it will be held about the middle of June, and will consist of a trip to Minke's for a picnic, swimming and dancing. Miss Nancy Taylor has been appointed chairman in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. John MacMurray reported on the recent work of the Civic committee. Pictures have been taken, showing the project for civic beautification on Route 40, before work has been begun. The committee is planning to plant rambler roses on the road bank.

Two letters received from people in Greece, who had received packages of food and clothing sent by the club were reported by Miss Ann Griffith.

Miss Margaret Fields and Miss Helen Carolon were voted into the club.

Others present were Miss Miriam Douglas, Miss Betty Bright, Miss Mary Pat Brett, Mrs. Ralph Higgins, Mrs. Robert Stein, Miss Taylor, and Mrs. Paul Fletcher, club coordinator.

Class Holds Election

The Mary Martha Class of Cresaptown Methodist Church elected Mrs. Leona Fazenbaker president at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Arthur Ferguson. Her staff includes Mrs. Ferguson, vice president; Mrs. Trubador Lewis, secretary; Mrs. Lee Chaney, assistant; Mrs. Elsworth Lewis, treasurer; and Mrs. George Ziegler, building fund treasurer.

Mrs. Trubador Lewis was named flower committee chairman; Mrs. John Thompson, Emergency; Mrs. Ferguson, Publicity and Mrs. Sylvester Twigg, Worship.

Certificate Pupils To Present Musical Program Tonight

An "Evening of Music" and the presentation of Certificates of St. Mary's Music Department will be held at 7:15 tonight in St. Mary's hall. The presentation will be made by Rev. Lawrence Landrigan, with Elementary Certificates of Music awarded to Mrs. John Furstenberg, John Clancey; Intermediate certificates to Joan Martin and Maureen Summers; and High School certificate to Ellen Nora Coyle.

Pupils aspiring for Intermediate Certificates of Music are Francis Murphy, Michael Clancey, Lois Nehring and Mary Margaret King; and for High School Certificates of Music, Regina Britt and Rose Marie Murphy.

Tonight's program will open with two numbers, "Flag of Truce," and "Artist's Life," by the orchestra and will feature several two piano selections. Dvorak's "Slavic Dance Op. 46, No. 1" will be played with Joan Martin and Lois Nehring at the first piano and Mary Margaret King and Francis Murphy at the second. Maureen Summers will be at the first piano and Rose Marie Murphy at the second playing Nevin's "Narcissus"; Joan Martin, at the first and Mrs. John Furstenberg, second playing Holst's "Dance of the Demons"; John Clancey, first and Francis Murphy, second, playing Grainger's "Country Gardens."

Lois Nehring will play the first piano and Mary Margaret King, the second for Burleigh's, "Coasting"; Ellen Nora Coyle, first and Regina Britt, second, to play "Malaguena," Lecuona; and Ellen Nora Coyle, Regina Britt, first with Rose Marie Murphy and Maureen Summers, second, to play "Invitation To the Dance," C. von Weber.

Piano solos will include "Mazurka Op. 75," Williams, by John Clancey; "Fragrant Gardens," Hopkins, Mrs. John Furstenberg; "Waltz in E Major," Chopin, Francis Murphy; "Petite Mazurka Op. 2, Sapellnikoff, Mary Margaret King; "Etude Melodique," Rogers, Regina Britt; "Theme from the Warsaw Concerto," Addinsell, Joan Martin; "Air de Ballett," Chaminade, Maureen Summers; "Impromptu in C Sharp Minor," Reinhold, Rose Marie Murphy; and "Polonaise Op. 53," Chopin, Lois Nehring.

Michael Clancey will play "Echoes of the Ball," Gillet and "Andante Cantabile," Dancla as a violin solo with his brother John at the piano.

Big Ben is the bell on which the great Westminster clock in London strikes, not the clock itself.

TO RECEIVE CERTIFICATES— Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan will present the St. Mary's Music department certificates to five pupils tonight, following the recital. Among those receiving the certificates are standing John Clancey, left and Joan Martin, right seated Mrs. John Furstenberg. The Ladies Savoy Bowling League will hold a banquet at 6:30 tonight at the LaVale fire hall.

Townsend Club No. 2 will meet tonight at Chapel Hill hose house.

Ridgeley Juniors To Be Host, Senior Banquet-Prom

Rev. Arrington To Address Graduates

The Junior Class of Ridgeley High School will play host to the members of the Senior class and invited guests at the annual Junior-Senior banquet and prom, Friday night.

Since the theme throughout the program and decorations is "The Stork Club," guests will not be surprised at such additions as a uniformed doorman, portrayed by Paul Fisher; check room attendants, with Joyce Comer in charge; and assemblage in the reception room for the grand march to the banquet hall at 6.

The gym will be decorated in both the junior, green and yellow, and senior, pink and blue colors, with solid panels with black cut outs of top hats, canes and other emblems resembling the Stork Club. Latticed streamers will enclose the U shaped banquet table, and Harry Harrington and Joseph Robbins will serve punch at the punch bar. Table decorations will be carried out in the senior colors with blue iris and white lilac in an inverted glass top hat, surrounded by pink and blue candles. Miniature crystal top hats will be given as favors. The same theme will be carried out in the place cards, favors and souvenir menus and programs rolled as diplomas and tied with the class colors, which will be distributed by "cigarette girls."

As a take off on the Stork Club, James Moon, portraying Al Jolson, will be master of ceremonies; Joseph Moss as Victor Mature will extend the welcome; Jimmie Dale Flanagan as Jack Benny will reply as senior class president; the senior class as the Vassar and Yale Chorus will sing its song and the Juniors as the Norwegian Choral Society of Brooklyn, Bronx and Queens will sing it's song; after which the entire group will sing the Alma Mater song.

Entertainment during the banquet will be a "Rythmic Harmony," by pupils of the Moyer Dance Studio.

Concluding the evening Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra will play for the prom, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Committee chairmen are Lemuel Powers, Decorations; Joseph Moss, Orchestra; Shirley Tichnell and Jean Knieriem, table Decorations; Ramona Spangler and Betty Haines, Menu; and William Breheny, Arrangements. Roy W. Curry, class advisor, is general chairman.

Rev. Owen W. Arrington, Ward's Chapel Methodist Church, Randallstown, member of the class of 1936, will give the sermon to the graduates at 3, Sunday afternoon in the school auditorium. Class night will be held at 8, May 26 with Mary K. Heiskell, valedictorian and Jack Morgan, salutatorian. The thirteenth annual commencement exercises will be held May 28 at 8, and for the third consecutive year will be an all student commencement program. The Lions Club Citizenship medals to the "best citizen" boy and girl of the graduating class will be awarded at this time.

Marguerite Sindy Heads OUR Circle

The OUR Circle of the Cresaptown Methodist Church elected Mrs. Marguerite Sindy president at the meeting Tuesday night at the home of Miss Evelyn May, Brant Road.

Her staff includes Miss Susan Smith, vice president; Mrs. Virginia Krnaya, secretary; Miss Frances Powell, assistant secretary; Mrs. Frances Walston, treasurer; Miss May, Flower Fund treasurer; Mrs. Marguerite Richardson, Publicity Chairman; Mrs. Vivian Kamauf, Social chairman; Mrs. S. E. Powell, teacher; Mrs, Ruth Johnson and Mrs. Walston, assistant teachers.

Mrs. Clyde Sindy opened the meeting with Scripture and stories from "Side Walk Sermons;" after which Miss May read a poem, "In the Temple of God," followed by the prayer circle. Regular business was discussed and the following motions made, to send a delegate to the Westminster conference, the latter part of July; to pay a portion of the fee to send Clyde Sindy, superintendent, to the Sunday school conference in Des Moines, Iowa, the latter part of July.

Concluding the meeting games were directed by Mrs. Walston after which the hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Krnaya.

The June 17 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Beryl Hortons, McMullen Highway, Rawlings.

P H Auxiliary Names Delegates

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Military Order of Purple Heart elected delegates to the department convention and an executive committeewoman at the meeting earlier in the week at the Purple Heart Center.

Mrs. Edith Reichart, Mrs. Ada Hamburg and Mrs. Alice Deneen were named delegates to the department convention to be held here June 26, 27, 28 and 29. Alternates are Mrs. Anna Ingram, Mrs. Eleanor Counters and Mrs. Leona Harper. The group named Mrs. Juanita Loundy executive committeewoman.

Plans were made to place a wreath at the honor roll in the city hall on May 30 by Mrs. Hamburg and her committee and also to partjcipate in the Memorial Day parade.

Eight And Forty Plans June Banquet Meeting

Salon 325, Eight and Forty discussed tentative plans for a banquet and the "Marche" at the meeting Tuesday night at the Legion home, with Mrs. Pearl Allen presiding. June 17, was selected as the tentative date for the banquet, which will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in place of the regular meeting.

Mrs. Hylda Paupe reported on the state meeting held in Hagerstown recently, and the group discussed the "Marche" to be held at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore, early in August. Delegates will be appointed at the June meeting.

Yearly reports of the different department officers were sent to the department.

The Cresap Homemakers Club will meet at 9:30 today at the home of Mrs. Elsworth Lewis.

The Ladies Savoy Bowling League will hold a banquet at 6:30 tonight at the LaVale fire hall.

Townsend Club No. 2 will meet tonight at Chapel Hill hose house.

Ridgeley Juniors To Be Host, Senior Banquet-Prom

Rev. Arrington To Address Graduates

The Junior Class of Ridgeley High School will play host to the members of the Senior class and invited guests at the annual Junior-Senior banquet and prom, Friday night.

Since the theme throughout the program and decorations is "The Stork Club," guests will not be surprised at such additions as a uniformed doorman, portrayed by Paul Fisher; check room attendants, with Joyce Comer in charge; and assemblage in the reception room for the grand march to the banquet hall at 6.

The gym will be decorated in both the junior, green and yellow, and senior, pink and blue colors, with solid panels with black cut outs of top hats, capes and other emblems resembling the Stork Club. Latticed streamers will enclose the U shaped banquet table, and Harry Harrington and Joseph Robbins will serve punch at the punch bar. Table decorations will be carried out in the senior colors with blue iris and white lilac in an inverted glass top hat, surrounded by pink and blue candles. Miniature crystal top hats will be given as favors. The same theme will be carried out in the place cards, favors and souvenir menus and programs rolled as diplomas and tied with the class colors, which will be distributed by "cigarette girls."

As a take off on the Stork Club, James Moon, portraying Al Jolson, will be master of ceremonies; Joseph Moss as Victor Mature will extend the welcome; Jimmie Dale Flanagan as Jack Benny will reply as senior class president; the senior class as the Vassar and Yale Chorus will sing its song and the Juniors as the Norwegian Choral Society of Brooklyn, Bronx and Queens will sing it's song; after which the entire group will sing the Alma Mater song.

Entertainment during the banquet will be a "Rythmic Harmony," by pupils of the Moyer Dance Studio.

Concluding the evening Jimmy Andrews and his orchestra will play for the prom, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Committee chairmen are Lemuel Powers, Decorations; Joseph Moss, Orchestra; Shirley Tichnell and Jean Knieriem, table Decorations; Ramona Spangler and Betty Haines, Menu; and William Breheny, Arrangements. Roy W. Curry, class advisor, is general chairman.

Rev. Owen W. Arrington, Ward's Chapel Methodist Church, Randallstown, member of the class of 1936, will give the sermon to the graduates at 3, Sunday afternoon in the school auditorium. Class night will be held at 8, May 26 with Mary K. Heiskell, valedictorian and Jack Morgan, salutatorian. The thirteenth annual commencement exercises will be held May 28 at 8, and for the third consecutive year will be an all student commencement program. The Lions Club Citizenship medals to the "best citizen" boy and girl of the graduating class will be awarded at this time.

Marguerite Sindy Heads OUR Circle

The OUR Circle of the Cresaptown Methodist Church elected Mrs. Marguerite Sindy president at the meeting Tuesday night at the home of Miss Evelyn May, Brant Road.

Her staff includes Miss Susan Smith, vice president; Mrs. Virginia Krnaya, secretary; Miss Frances Powell, assistant secretary; Mrs. Frances Walston, treasurer; Miss May, Flower Fund treasurer; Mrs. Marguerite Richardson, Publicity Chairman; Mrs. Vivian Kamauf, Social chairman; Mrs. S. E. Powell, teacher; Mrs. Ruth Johnson and Mrs. Walston, assistant teachers.

Mrs. Clyde Sindy opened the meeting with Scripture and stories from "Side Walk Sermons;" after which Miss May read a poem, "In the Temple of God," followed by the prayer circle. Regular business was discussed and the following motions made, to send a delegate to the Westminster conference, the latter part of July; to pay a portion of the fee to send Clyde Sindy, superintendent, to the Sunday school conference in Des Moines, Iowa, the latter part of July.

Concluding the meeting games were directed by Mrs. Walston after which the hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Krnaya.

The June 17 meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Beryl Hortons, McMullen Highway, Rawlings.

P H Auxiliary Names Delegates

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Military Order of Purple Heart elected delegates to the department convention and an executive committeewoman at the meeting earlier in the week at the Purple Heart Center.

Mrs. Edith Reichart, Mrs. Ada Hamburg and Mrs. Alice Deneen were named delegates to the department convention to be held here June 26, 27, 28 and 29. Alternates are Mrs. Anna Ingram, Mrs. Eleanor Counters and Mrs. Leona Harper. The group named Mrs. Juanita Loundy executive committeewoman.

Plans were made to place a wreath at the honor roll in the city hall on May 30 by Mrs. Hamburg and her committee and also to partcipate in the Memorial Day parade.

Eight And Forty Plans June Banquet Meeting

Salon 325, Eight and Forty discussed tentative plans for a banquet and the "Marche" at the meeting Tuesday night at the Legion home, with Mrs. Pearl Allen presiding. June 17, was selected as the tentative date for the banquet, which will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club in place of the regular meeting.

Mrs. Hylda Paupe reported on the state meeting held in Hagerstown recently, and the group discussed the "Marche" to be held at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore, early in August. Delegates will be appointed at the June meeting.

Yearly reports of the different department officers were sent to the department.

District WSCS To Meet Tomorrow

Representatives from the various local Methodist churches will attend the district meeting of the WSCS, tomorrow, in Hagerstown. Mrs. John G. Cook, Frostburg, will preside and two outstanding speakers will feature the program.

Miss Eva Logue, Westminster, on furlough from India, will speak on "Women of India." Ranked as one of the finest missionaries sent by the Baltimore conference, and being a nurse, one of her outstanding achievements has been the establishment of village health centers in rural areas near Yellari, India.

The other speaker will be Mrs. J. Warren Hastings, Washington, D. C., who is serving as chairman of the Washington Federation of Churches committee on a "Just and Durable Peace." She is also chairman of the Overseas Relief committee of the federation and is considered well qualified to speak on "Church Women and the World Community."

Rev. B. Ralph Mark, city, will gave the invocation; short talks will be given by Mrs. R. J. Reuschlein and Mrs. Robert W. Young and a report by Mrs. E. F. Phillips.

Centenary WSCS Plans Benefit Festival

The Centenary WSCS formulated plans for a festival and to clean the church, at the meeting earlier in the week at the home of Mrs. George Yeargan.

The festival will be held June 4 at the church with Mrs. Fred Purnell, Mrs. John Hardinger and Mrs. Richard H. Bready in charge. Proceeds will be used for church basement repairs. May 27 and 28 were chosen for cleaning the church.

Taking part in the program were Mrs. Hardinger, Miss Jean Yeargan and Mrs. Bready.

Kathleen Helker Heads Crusaders For Christ

Miss Kathleen Helker was named president of the Crusaders for Christ Sunday School Class of First Methodist Church, at the meeting Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Etta Mae Emerick, Bedford Street. Other officers are Mrs. Ruby Harrison, vice-president; Mrs. Mary Wagner, secretary and Mrs. Emerick, treasurer.

Plans were formulated for holding a picnic in June with members of the church Teen Age Club as guests. Miss Nola Barnard is chairman assisted by Mrs. George Triplett.

Advice To The Lovelorn

A Young Man With A "Spotless Personality And Reputation"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am an American girl 18 years old, and very much in love with a young man who is said to be a woman hater and a heart breaker. Recently he kissed me, and told me he'd never met anyone like me, yet I heard that he claimed I pushed him into it. This is breaking my heart, as I love him more than I can begin to say.

He is 22, and his personality and reputation are spotless. He is well liked by both boys and girls. Lately he has been taking out a good friend of mine, who is trying to make time with him.

Please don't get the idea that I have to settle for one boy, because I don't. But I have never wanted to go steady before, and now I do, it seems I can't have the one I want, unless you can tell me how. Please give me your advice as soon as possible, as I am slowly dying of a broken heart.

"T. M. S."

Dear "T. M. S.":

I suppose I'm to assume that unless the advice I give you brings this young man to your feet, your death will shortly follow.

Don't be silly, "T. M. S.," and don't dramatize yourself. Nobody dies of a broken heart. If a girl ever went to her grave following a frustrated love affair, it was her own deliberately neurotic doing and couldn't be blamed on anything that happened to her.

What do you want a "woman hater and a heart breaker" for anyhow? So he can love you and leave you? I should think, once you'd heard his version of the kiss incident, you'd have had enough of him right then and there. The man who kisses and tells is usually held to be one of the lower forms of animal life, but your friend goes the formula one better—or worse—and not only kisses and tells, but tops it all off by adding ridicule of the girl he kissed!

If this is a "spotless" personality and reputation, then I advise you to make your girl friend a present of him and look around yourself for somebody with a few spots.

Employes Quench Blaze At Cleaning Plant

Prompt action by employes of the Dingle Cleaners and Dyers Tuesday afternoon prevented a serious blaze when fire said to be of spontaneous origin broke out as clothes were being processed at the company's plant, 754 Greene Street.

West Side Fire Company, called to the blaze at 1:21 p. m., said employes using chemicals had the fire out when they arrived. No one was injured and the only damage was to some clothing, they said.

John H. Riley, manager, said employes always make a thorough search to remove matches from the pockets of all garments but surmised that a match, which slipped through of a garment, could have been responsible.

Local Salvation Army Cadets Win Plaque

Corps Cadet Plaques for correspondence courses in Bible Leadership were won by the Salvation Army cadets in Cumberland and Hagerstown, Major Elmer Wall, local commander, announced yesterday.

The plaque for Brigades 5 to 10 was awarded to the Hagerstown group and the award for Brigades 10 and up was won by the Cumberland corps, he said.

Good News For Folks Who Suffer From

✓ STOMACH GAS
✓ ACID INDIGESTION

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from this nervous distress.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Advice To The Lovelorn

A Young Man With A "Spotless Personality And Reputation"

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am an American girl 18 years old, and very much in love with a young man who is said to be a woman hater and a heart breaker. Recently he kissed me, and told me he'd never met anyone like me, yet I heard that he claimed I pushed him into it. This is breaking my heart, as I love him more than I can begin to say.

He is 22, and his personality and reputation are spotless. He is well liked by both boys and girls. Lately he has been taking out a good friend of mine, who is trying to make time with him.

Please don't get the idea that I have to settle for one boy, because I don't. But I have never wanted to go steady before, and now I do, it seems I can't have the one I want, unless you can tell me how. Please give me your advice as soon as possible, as I am slowly dying of a broken heart.

"T. M. S."

Dear "T. M. S.":

I suppose I'm to assume that unless the advice I give you brings this young man to your feet, your death will shortly follow.

Don't be silly, "T. M. S.," and don't dramatize yourself. Nobody dies of a broken heart. If a girl ever went to her grave following a frustrated love affair, it was her own deliberately neurotic doing and couldn't be blamed on anything that happened to her.

What do you want a "woman hater and a heart breaker" for anyhow? So he can love you and leave you? I should think, once you'd heard his version of the kiss incident, you'd have had enough of him right then and there. The man who kisses and tells is usually held to be one of the lower forms of animal life, but your friend goes the formula one better—or worse—and not only kisses and tells, but tops it all off by adding ridicule of the girl he kissed!

If this is a "spotless" personality and reputation, then I advise you to make your girl friend a present of him and look around yourself for somebody with a few spots.

Employes Quench Blaze At Cleaning Plant

Prompt action by employes of the Dingle Cleaners and Dyers Tuesday afternoon prevented a serious blaze when fire said to be of spontaneous origin broke out as clothes were being processed at the company's plant, 754 Greene Street.

West Side Fire Company, called to the blaze at 1:21 p. m., said employes using chemicals had the fire out when they arrived. No one was injured and the only damage was to some clothing, they said.

John H. Riley, manager, said employes always make a thorough search to remove matches from the pockets of all garments but surmised that a match, which slipped through of a garment, could have been responsible.

Local Salvation Army Cadets Win Plaque

Corps Cadet Plaques for correspondence courses in Bible Leadership were won by the Salvation Army cadets in Cumberland and Hagerstown, Major Elmer Wall, local commander, announced yesterday.

The plaque for Brigades 5 to 10 was awarded to the Hagerstown group and the award for Brigades 10 and up was won by the Cumberland corps, he said.

Good News For Folks Who Suffer From

✔ STOMACH GAS
✔ ACID INDIGESTION

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief from this nervous distress.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

LEST WE FORGET

Take a basketball court. Any basketball court. You know how they look. Great ceiling aching into the shadows, slashed by the glare of floodlights. Acrid scents of sweat, rust, excitement. Tier upon tier of chattering, whistling, stamping people.

Then so thick and sudden you can taste it—silence! Not a breath, nor a cough. Not a movement except the shining whir of nine wheel chairs skimming the smooth floor.

The silence explodes. Roar after roar crashes against the roof. Men yell, choke. There is a furtive flutter of handkerchiefs against brimming eyes. For there on the floor they see—a vivid part of the price of war.

They are all young, the men who propel these chairs. From the waist up they are magnificently muscled. But from the hips down each one is paralyzed. The "Rolling Devils," as they call themselves, come from Corona Naval Hospital and are playing the young huskies from St. Mary's—all in wheel chairs.

There is no paralysis amongst the boys in St. Mary's purple. Yesterday for the first time they tried out this strange substitute for racing legs and leaping torsos, tutored by the veterans they were to play. But before they started those veterans demanded a promise.

This was to be no sissy game. They were to play at no odds. There was to be no coddling or pity of the veterans because they were paralyzed, no soft setup for victory. They were to engage in as tough a contest with the crippled men as they would with any other team, and basketball can be very tough indeed.

So they agreed—reluctantly, I suspect, for the St. Mary's boys are a friendly lot. And the game began, as amazing and heartening a display of sportsmanship as America has even seen. For these men had done more than fight a war. They had fought the deepest depths of pain, discouragement and despair. They had been collected from blazing planes and bloody beaches, from foxholes and jungle booby traps. They had lain for months and years in beds and braces.

They had crawled back, painful step by step to normal hope and joy and healthy thinking. It is one thing to stop a bullet and lie for months hospitalized. It is another and infinitely harder thing to gather up the shattered fragments of your spirit and force them to quicken again. They had done all this and now they were out in their wheel chairs challenging America, licking almost every team they met.

There is no space here for technical details and indeed they would be useless. For the real contest was a matter of the spirit rather than of the flesh. We are given to doubt the American way of life in these bewildered times. But here was as fine an exhibition of clean sportsmanship and courage as America has known in many a day and here, invisible but triumphant, was the faith and decency that carried it on and that is our hope in the future.

And make no mistake, the lads of St. Mary's, who fought from their cumbersome bondage to give the veterans their chance, showed as fine courage as the lads with the helpless legs. It is so much easier to pity and patronize than it is to give the other fellow an even break, man to man.

Incidentally, the veterans won by a whooping score of 28 to 10 which should put heart in every man who thinks he is licked for keeps. With such pride and faith and determination, nothing on earth can lick you.

So I'm asking you to rise in salute to the men who wouldn't be beaten . . . Col. John Winterholler, holder of the coveted Silver Star and Bronze Star which were awarded for gallantry at Corregidor. He is a veteran of seven years service and spent three of them in a Japanese prison camp where paralysis crippled him because of malnourishment. At the University of Wyoming he gained All-American mention graduating in 1940.

Wearing No. 3, "Pistol Pete" Simon, whose home is in Baton Rouge, La., an athlete in his high school days, starring in all sports. He's a big, rugged, handsome fellow, only 22 years of age. It takes plenty of courage to come back into life after death has tapped your shoulder at 22.

Bill Ducker from Signal Mountain, Tenn., is another Marine Corps veteran who has seen five years' service and received the Purple Heart. He was at Iwo Jima.

Then there is Ensign Neil Harris who comes from Berkeley, Cal., and was learning to be a pharmacist before he crashed in his fighter plane.

Capt. Louis "Smiley" Largey is the proud father of a two year old daughter and he rams his wheel chair through the opposition as he rammed his tank through the Japs in the Southwest Pacific.

Lt. Max Weber hails from Spokane, Wash. He and Ducker are the other two married men of the group. He is a graduate of the University of Idaho law school and was a practicing lawyer before entering the service.

Lt. Noel Smith from Georgia where he made a top name for himself in the University.

The youngest member of the Rolling Devils is Jerry Fesenmeyer of Shambaugh, Iowa. He knew three years of active service in the Marines where he received the Purple Heart after being shot in the spine.

Lt. Kent McKnight comes from Moreland, Idaho, where he specialized in botany and did research work for the forestry service in Nevada.

Coach of the Rolling Devils is Lt. Wm. "Wild Bill" O'Connell, USMCR, of South Dakota. And last but by no means least is Dr. Gerald Gray from Oakland, Cal. Dr. Gray is a prominent plastic surgeon and is now donating his services free to guiding the veterans on their tour and in their work at the naval hospital at Corona. Through his own faith in them he has done more than steady their unstable bodies. He has armored their spirits with steel.

You see the withered limbs as the chairs go whizzing past. You don't see the hopeful hearts that again are rehabilitating wrecked bodies nor do you see the great price that each one of them paid that you and I might live safe and free today.

Mrs. Kimble Is Acting Head Of State Agency

Mrs. Margaret Kimble, wife of State Senator Robert B. Kimble, has been serving as acting commissioner of the Department of Labor and Industry for Maryland since the death of John M. Polhaus several weeks ago.

A graduate of Allegany High School, Mrs. Kimble was appointed deputy commissioner when the post was created by the last General Assembly of the O'Conor administration. In her present capacity as acting commissioner, she is the first woman to head one of the larger agencies.

Mrs. Kimble entered the service of the state about 1918 as an assistant inspector with the Department of Labor and Industry, and through competitive examination was named an instructor. She later became inspector of a district, chief clerk and administrative assistant.

Prominent among those mentioned to succeed Mr. Pohlman is William H. Bishop, Jr., who served as secretary and assistant treasurer of the Democratic State Central Committee and was office manager of Democratic headquarters during the Lane campaign.

Canadian Doctors Plan Month's Visit Here

Three Canadian doctors have arrived here to spend one month in the Cumberland section studying rural health problems, according to Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer.

Arrangements for their visit were made by Dr. R. H. Riley, state health officer, at the request of Dr. George C. Payne of the International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation.

The visiting physicians are Dr. C. F. Story, fellow of the International Health Division from Toronto and a member of the Provincial Health Department in Saskatchewan; Dr. George M. Smith, divisional medical health officer, Sydney, Nova Scotia; and Dr. Carl R. Thask, assistant superintendent of Jorden Memorial Sanatorium, River Glade, New Brunswick, who will assume his duties in the near future as district medical health officer with the New Brunswick Department of Health.

Maryland Law Is Being Followed In Ballot Check

Additional Election Probe Funds Granted

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — A Senate re-check of 6,624 disputed ballots in the contested 1946 election of Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.) continued today and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said his committee was "trying to adhere to the Maryland law" in judging ballots valid or invalid.

O'Conor's election is contested by D. John Markey, defeated Republican candidate, who lost by an official state count of 2,232 votes of a total of 472,000 cast. A state-wide recount has been ordered after a recount was made in Baltimore and five counties.

The Senate earlier today approved a request of $85,000 additional funds to pay for the Maryland investigation and for a probe into a disputed contest in West Virginia where Thomas Sweeney, a Republican, was defeated last fall by Sen. Kilgore (D-WVA).

St. Mary's Ballots Rechecked

Jenner said after a four-hour closed session of the sub-committee on elections which he heads that the group had completed a recheck of 375 disputed ballots in St. Mary's County and had nearly completed going over 2,730 ballots in Prince Georges County.

"We're going over them ballot by ballot," he said, "and tentatively deciding which are valid and which are not. We're trying to follow the Maryland law. If we'd attempt to make our own law, there's no telling where we would end up.

"We're attempting to arrive at a pattern which can be followed by investigators in the recount of the remaining 17 counties."

Jenner said the subcommittee and counsel for both O'Conor and Markey had agreed that invalid ballots would include those marked with ink, those with "V" check marks and those which were not initialed by poll workers.

Valid Ballots Have "Xs"

Maryland law provides that valid ballots are those marked in indelible pencil with an "X" intersecting in the box.

Asked by a reporter if the subcommittee in its work thus far had tentatively declared any of the contested ballots valid, he said "I think we did. We are not keeping any record. We are checking now to see if the ballots are in the proper categories and trying to arrive at a pattern."

He said the subcommittee would make a written report on its check of the five counties to aid investigators on the rest of the state-wide recount.

Jenner said the subcommittee would continue its work tomorrow (at 10 a. m., EDT).

Doctor Admits Taking Incurable Patient's Life

LONDON, May 21 (AP)—Dr. E. A. Barton, pleading for an incurable sufferer's "right to die," said in an address today that he had taken the life of such a patient.

The physician, who retired after 40 years as a general practitioner in London, told the Voluntary Euthanasia Legalization Society:

"We know such things are done, but they are not done legally. We are extremely cautious in shouldering the responsibility in taking a patient's life. I am not ashamed to say that I have done so. And I know medical friends of mine of the most transparent honesty who have confessed to me that they had to give way to a patient crying for mercy."

RIVALS FOR DAR POST—Mrs. Stanley T. Manlove (left), Newburgh, N. Y., and Mrs. Roscoe E. O'Byrne (right), Brookville, Ind., were nominated last night for president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Both are in Washington, D. C., where balloting will take place today.

Two Nominated For DAR President

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Amid increasing campaign tension, Mrs. Stanley Thorpe Manlove, of Newburgh, N. Y., and Mrs. Roscoe E. O'Byrne, of Brookville, Ind., were nominated tonight for president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Manlove was nominated by Mrs. Edla S. Gibson, of Buffalo, New York state regent, and Mrs. O'Byrne by Mrs. J. Harold Grimes, of Martinsville, Ind., a vice president general.

The winner tomorrow at the polls will succeed Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, of Athens, Ga. Her term of office will be three years.

Each candidate is supported by a complete slate of 13. In addition there is one unopposed nomination, that of Mrs. Katharine W. Kittredge, of Springfield, Va., for honorary vice president general and nine candidates for vice presidents general at large, of which six are to be named. In all, there are 38 candidates.

Last minute campaigning became so intense that Mrs. Talmadge from the platform this morning reminded the delegates that regulations prohibit them from distributing literature around Constitution Hall, the national headquarters where the convention is in session.

Taft, Murray Clash Over Health Plan

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) accused Sen. Murray (D-Mont) today of having run the Senate Labor Committee when he was chairman as "a propaganda agency" for compulsory health insurance.

Angrily, Murray snapped back: "Utterly false."

It was a reopening of old wounds and took place at Labor Subcommittee hearings on contrary bills by the two Senators dealing with federal aid to the public health.

Taft wants the government to appropriate $200,000,000 a year for five years to help the states provide health, hospital and medical services to people of low income.

Murray advocates a three per cent payroll tax to provide preventive, diagnostic and curative treatment for all employed and self-employed persons.

Murray headed the Labor Committee before the Republicans won control of Congress and put Taft in the chairmanship. Their views often have clashed and they share little in common except outspokenness.

Murray started today's fireworks. He protested that the Republican majority on the committee had granted nine-tenths of the hearings' time to organizations representing doctors and hospitals. He said less than two hours was allotted spokesmen for "the millions of people" affected.

Taft broke into the protest then with his propaganda accusation. He also dropped in another one, that the committee had suppressed labor legislation for eight years of Democratic rule. Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) replied that this is "not true."

Demonstration Halts Phone Contract Talks

BALTIMORE, May 21—(AP)—Contract negotiations between the telephone equipment workers union and officials of the Western Electric Company's Point Breeze installation were interrupted for a time today by a demonstration of some 50 alleged unionists.

A hotel official said the mixed group entered the building and walked to a third-floor room where the conference was being held in effort to end a strike.

The Baltimore local, representing about 5,400 workers at the Point Breeze plant, and another local at Lincoln, Neb., are the only units still on strike in the nationwide communication walkout which began April 7.

Ex-Sailor Is Given Life For Slaying

WINCHESTER, Va., May 21 (AP)—George R. Ridgewell, a 19-year-old Portland, Maine, ex-sailor, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the strangulation slaying last December of Frederick A. Currie, a Grosse Pointe, Mich., seaman.

Standing before Judge Elliott Marshall in Frederick County Circuit Court with his father and two young sisters among the spectators, the trim, dark-haired youth heard the verdict with no display of emotion.

Ridgewell had entered a plea of guilty and waived trial by jury. He will be held in jail here until the case of his companion, William C. Hall, comes before the court tomorrow. Hall and Ridgewell were indicted jointly for murder in March. Hall's court-appointed attorney, Thomas J. Scully, said he had conferred with the 20-year-old former Navy man late today and that Hall had agreed to change his plea from innocent to guilty and to waive jury trial as did Ridgewell.

Earlier today, Ridgewell's two sisters and his father, Frederick N. Ridgewell—all of Portland—appeared on the stand as the last defense witnesses and told the court that George had suffered occasional "dizzy spells" for the past several years. All three agreed that the former Navy man's life had not been normal since he was struck by a car when he was 11 years old.

Currie was killed two days before Christmas and his body was found three days later lying in the snow beside United States Route 50, a mile east of Winchester. He had been strangled with a necktie.

Relatives Mob

after Judge Martin had delivered a 5,000-word charge.

Two hours after the jury retired, the court room was still half-filled with friends and relatives of the defendants, doggedly waiting for a verdict. Defendants lounged at the counsel table or paced the hall outside, and three lolled in the jury box. Some two-score negroes watched silently from the gallery. A number of defendants chipped in one dollar each to a pool, wagering on the jury's return in the next 36 hours.

Twenty-one defendants were charged with murder, but all 28 were accused also of being accessories before the fact. The latter, like murder, is a capital offense in South Carolina.

The judge instructed the jury that it must bring one of three verdicts on these two counts—guilty, which would mean penalty of death; guilty with recommendation of mercy, which would mean life imprisonment; or outright acquittal.

Besides being charged with murder and lynching of Negro Willie Earle, the 21 are charged with being accessories after the fact. Conviction on this count would carry up to 10 years in prison.

On the fourth count of the indictment, all 28 defendants are accused of conspiracy to commit murder, a crime punishable with sentence up to 10 years.

Three of an original 31 defendants were granted directed verdicts of acquittal on all counts.

The remaining 28 were accused of varying degrees of participation in the lunch-murder in which the negro was taken from Pickens County jail and butchered in respisal for the alleged stabbing of a white taxi-driver.

Defendants fidgeted nervously as the judge read his charge slowly and in a clear voice to the jury. Negroes in the gallery leaned forward as the court declared the law recognized no color or creed, and said. "Gentlemen, I instruct you that under your oaths as jurors you are not to allow any so-called racial issues to enter into your deliberations."

The defendants were grimly attentive as the judge explained the penalty for murder and for being an accessory before a murder. Judge Martin looked up at the jury as he explained the penalties for each count, and exhibited four sheets with sample forms for possible verdicts.

At 3:20 he turned to the jury and said: "Gentlemen, you may retire and start your deliberations. If you desire any further assistance from this court, advise me and I will try to comply as promply as possible."

Silence Shrouds Bituminous Coal Contract Talks

Southern Operators Still On Sidelines

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Contract talk between John L. Lewis and soft coal operators resumed today in a shroud of silence about progress toward meeting the June 30 deadline.

The government's authority to operate the bituminous coal mines under seizure expires on June 30 and a new nationwide strike by 400,000 soft coal diggers is likely if a new contract is not negotiated in the meantime.

Lewis and his miners met for the third day today with representatives of 75 per cent of the bituminous industry. On the sidelines are the Southern Coal Producers Association members, who want to make a separate agreement with Lewis. They say their problem differs from those of the North, Midwest and Far West.

Lewis Keeps Southerners Waiting

Lewis is keeping the southern operators waiting for a reply to their offer to negotiate a separate wage-hour pact. The United Mine Workers 200-man policy committee met Monday to consider when and how to negotiate a contract with the southerners, but did not make public whatever decisions were reached.

The southerners are opposed to the five cent royalty on each ton of coal for a union welfare and retirement fund, which the government allowed in the contract negotiated for federal operation of 2,500 mines to end last spring's strike.

The southern association also has bitterly opposed the machinery for unionizing supervisory workers embodied in the contract between Lewis and Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, and has been outspoken against adopting the federal mine safety code agreed upon by Krug.

Probable Lewis Demands

Lewis is believed to be asking the northern, midwestern and far western operators to start negotiating on the basis of the Krug-Lewis agreement — probably increasing his demands to include a 10 cent tonnage royalty, and an eight hour day at the same pay now received for nine hours.

Last September, the same operators represented in the current negotiations agreed in principle — although they did not like it—to the five cent royalty and other terms of the Krug-Lewis contract.

Fireman Pinned In Cab When Locomotive Upsets

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP) — Rescuers, working feverishly with acetylene torches, freed a locomotive fireman today who was pinned for 20 minutes against the hot firebox of his cab when the engine overturned.

The fireman, Sherman E. Horrichs, 31, suffered a broken left leg and severe burns. The engineer, Edward Baseda, 55, was thrown clear, but received minor burns when he climbed back into the locomotive cab in a futile attempt to rescue his partner.

The Chicago Outer Belt Railway locomotive overturned while pulling a 76-car freight train in suburban Cicero. The train's diesel engine had stalled and the locomotive was pulling the entire train to a switch-off.

Engravers' Strike May Tie Up Textile Industry

NUTLEY, N. J., May 21 (AP)—A wage dispute which caused a strike of 400 highly-skilled textile engravers in five eastern states today threatened to tie up future operations of the nation's textile industry.

The skilled craftsmen, members of the Friendly Society of Engravers and Sketchmakers (independent), went on strike in 26 concerns after breakdown of negotiations Saturday.

Picket lines were established at plants in Fall River, Mass., Providence, R. I., Jewett City and Norwich, Conn., Paterson, Passaic, Clifton and Lodi, N. J., and Spartansburg, S. C.

Britain's Labor Party Answers Leftist Charges

Defends Relations With United States

LONDON, May 21 (AP)—Britain's Labor Party leadership, answering leftist charges that it was snubbing Russia and clinging too closely to American policies, declared today that "the labor government does not propose to take sides in a lineup for the next world war."

Referring to gibes by leftist "rebel" Laborites that Britain's post-war foreign policy was based on "America provides the money while we produce the men," the ruling party said in a booklet:

"That suits us better than providing both men and money."

Showdown Next Week

Issuance of the booklet pointed up the possibility of a showdown with the leftist Laborites, at the Labor Party's annual five-day conference at Margate next week. Decisions of the conference are considered binding on the Labor government.

Konni Zilliacus, a leader of the "rebel" parliamentary delegation, disclosed that five Labor Party units had drafted a resolution, for submission to the conference, condemning United States aid to Greece and Turkey as "a menace to world peace," and demanding the United Nations investigation of the American policy in Turkey.

The booklet, entitled "Cards on Table"—a phrase used frequently by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin — was designed partly to disarm the left-wing critics.

"The really striking feature of world politics today is not that Russia is frightened of America, but that America, with undisputed control of half the earth and all the oceans, is frightened of Russia," it said.

Aim Is To Prevent War

"For Russia, which foresaw a struggle with America, Britain was not a possible ally, for Britain could not under any circumstances adopt a policy which might lead to war against America. x x x

"The aim of an Anglo-American understanding is to prevent war by proving to Russia that an aggressive anti-British policy is doomed to frustration.

"As long as Britain plays a decisive part in the defense of American security, it is impossible for America to adopt a policy of world aggression without British government."

One Aboard B-29 Which Caught Fire Found Dead

ABILENE, Tex., ay 21 (AP) —One airman aboard a B-29 which caught fire, forcing the crew to parachute, was found dead today. The ship carried a crew of 20.

He was identified as Lt. Irving Bloom, of Albuquerque, N. M.

The plane, from the Roswell, N. M., Army Air Base, was aflame as it passed over Sweetwater, Tex., about dusk yesterday. It crashed near Merkel, Tex., 16 miles west of here. The Civil Aeronautics Administration quoted the pilot as saying the fire started in the No. 3 engine.

Warmer Weather, Rain Help Maryland Crops

BALTIMORE, May 21—(AP)—The Weather Bureau reported today in its weekly review that warmer weather and showers in the period ended Monday were favorable for growth of Maryland fruits and crops.

On four days of the week, the temperature was a few degrees above normal levels for the state at this season, reaching between 80 and 90 degrees on three of them. Two days were cooler than usual, about 10 degrees below the average.

Rains left the ground in good shape except on the lower Eastern Shore, where it is dry.

U. S. Information Program Backed By House Group

"Voice Of America" Wins Another Round

WASHINGTON, May 21 — (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously endorsed today a measure paving the way for State Department operation of an information and educational program in foreign countries.

The action came just six days after the House denied funds for operation of the program after June 30 on the grounds that it never has been formally authorized by Congress.

Rep. Mundt (R-S.D.), author of the new bill, said he will go before the Rules Committee Friday or Monday to ask its clearance to the floor. He expressed doubt, however, that action can be obtained before the first week in June.

The bill would give birth to a new member of the government's alphabetical family — OIEE — the Office of Information and Educational Exchange in the State Department to replace the present Office of International Information and Cultural Relations.

It would authorize the State Department to continue its "Voice of America" broadcasts under a clause which permits it to distribute "information about the United States, its people, and its policies through press, publications, radio, motion pictures and other information media."

Other major features of the measure would:

Permit continuance of the exchange of students, trainees, professors and professional men on a reciprocal basis with other countries.

Additional Election Probe Funds Granted

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — A Senate re-check of 6,624 disputed ballots in the contested 1946 election of Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.) continued today and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said his committee was "trying to adhere to the Maryland law" in judging ballots valid or invalid.

O'Conor's election is contested by D. John Markey, defeated Republican candidate, who lost by an official state count of 2,232 votes of a total of 472,000 cast. A state-wide recount has been ordered after a recount was made in Baltimore and five counties.

The Senate earlier today approved a request of $85,000 additional funds to pay for the Maryland investigation and for a probe into a disputed contest in West Virginia where Thomas Sweeney, a Republican, was defeated last fall by Sen. Kilgore (D-WVA).

St. Mary's Ballots Rechecked

Jenner said after a four-hour closed session of the sub-committee on elections which he heads that the group had completed a recheck of 375 disputed ballots in St. Mary's County and had nearly completed going over 2,730 ballots in Prince Georges County.

"We're going over them ballot by ballot," he said, "and tentatively deciding which are valid and which are not. We're trying to follow the Maryland law. If we'd attempt to make our own law, there's no telling where we would end up.

"We're attempting to arrive at a pattern which can be followed by investigators in the recount of the remaining 17 counties."

Jenner said the subcommittee and counsel for both O'Conor and Markey had agreed that invalid ballots would include those marked with ink, those with "V" check marks and those which were not initialed by poll workers.

Valid Ballots Have "Xs"

Maryland law provides that valid ballots are those marked in indelible pencil with an "X" intersecting in the box.

Asked by a reporter if the subcommittee in its work thus far had tentatively declared any of the contested ballots valid, he said "I think we did. We are not keeping any record. We are checking now to see if the ballots are in the proper categories and trying to arrive at a pattern."

He said the subcommittee would make a written report on its check of the five counties to aid investigators on the rest of the state-wide recount.

Jenner said the subcommittee would continue its work tomorrow (at 10 a. m., EDT).

Doctor Admits Taking Incurable Patient's Life

LONDON, May 21 (AP)—Dr. E. A. Barton, pleading for an incurable sufferer's "right to die," said in an address today that he had taken the life of such a patient.

The physician, who retired after 40 years as a general practitioner in London, told the Voluntary Euthanasia Legalization Society:

"We know such things are done, but they are not done legally. We are extremely cautious in shouldering the responsibility in taking a patient's life. I am not ashamed to say that I have done so. And I know medical friends of mine of the most transparent honesty who have confessed to me that they had to give way to a patient crying for mercy."

RIVALS FOR DAR POST—Mrs. Stanley T. Manlove (left), Newburgh, N. Y., and Mrs. Roscoe E. O'Byrne (right), Brookville, Ind., were nominated last night for president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Both are in Washington, D. C., where balloting will take place today.

Two Nominated For DAR President

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Amid increasing campaign tension, Mrs. Stanley Thorpe Manlove, of Newburgh, N. Y., and Mrs. Roscoe E. O'Byrne, of Brookville, Ind., were nominated tonight for president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. Manlove was nominated by Mrs. Edla S. Gibson, of Buffalo, New York state regent, and Mrs. O'Byrne by Mrs. J. Harold Grimes, of Martinsville, Ind., a vice president general.

The winner tomorrow at the polls will succeed Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge, of Athens, Ga. Her term of office will be three years.

Each candidate is supported by a complete slate of 13. In addition there is one unopposed nomination, that of Mrs. Katharine W. Kittredge, of Springfield, Va., for honorary vice president general and nine candidates for vice presidents general at large, of which six are to be named. In all, there are 38 candidates.

Last minute campaigning became so intense that Mrs. Talmadge from the platform this morning reminded the delegates that regulations prohibit them from distributing literature around Constitution Hall, the national headquarters where the convention is in session.

Taft, Murray Clash Over Health Plan

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) accused Sen. Murray (D-Mont) today of having run the Senate Labor Committee when he was chairman as "a propaganda agency" for compulsory health insurance.

Angrily, Murray snapped back: "Utterly false."

It was a reopening of old wounds and took place at Labor Subcommittee hearings on contrary bills by the two Senators dealing with federal aid to the public health.

Taft wants the government to appropriate $200,000,000 a year for five years to help the states provide health, hospital and medical services to people of low income.

Murray advocates a three per cent payroll tax to provide preventive, diagnostic and curative treatment for all employed and self-employed persons.

Murray headed the Labor Committee before the Republicans won control of Congress and put Taft in the chairmanship. Their views often have clashed and they share little in common except outspokenness.

Murray started today's fireworks. He protested that the Republican majority on the committee had granted nine-tenths of the hearings' time to organizations representing doctors and hospitals. He said less than two hours was allotted spokesmen for "the millions of people" affected.

Taft broke into the protest then with his propaganda accusation. He also dropped in another one, that the committee had suppressed labor legislation for eight years of Democratic rule. Sen. Pepper (D-Fla) replied that this is "not true."

Demonstration Halts Phone Contract Talks

BALTIMORE, May 21—(AP)—Contract negotiations between the telephone equipment workers union and officials of the Western Electric Company's Point Breeze installation were interrupted for a time today by a demonstration of some 50 alleged unionists.

A hotel official said the mixed group entered the building and walked to a third-floor room where the conference was being held in effort to end a strike.

The Baltimore local, representing about 5,400 workers at the Point Breeze plant, and another local at Lincoln, Neb., are the only units still on strike in the nationwide communication walkout which began April 7.

Ex-Sailor Is Given Life For Slaying

WINCHESTER, Va., May 21 (AP)—George R. Ridgewell, a 19-year-old Portland, Maine, ex-sailor, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the strangulation slaying last December of Frederick A. Currie, a Grosse Pointe, Mich., seaman.

Standing before Judge Elliott Marshall in Frederick County Circuit Court with his father and two young sisters among the spectators, the trim, dark-haired youth heard the verdict with no display of emotion.

Ridgewell had entered a plea of guilty and waived trial by jury. He will be held in jail here until the case of his companion, William C. Hall, comes before the court tomorrow. Hall and Ridgewell were indicted jointly for murder in March. Hall's court-appointed attorney, Thomas J. Scully, said he had conferred with the 20-year-old former Navy man late today and that Hall had agreed to change his plea from innocent to guilty and to waive jury trial as did Ridgewell.

Earlier today, Ridgewell's two sisters and his father, Frederick N. Ridgewell—all of Portland—appeared on the stand as the last defense witnesses and told the court that George had suffered occasional "dizzy spells" for the past several years. All three agreed that the former Navy man's life had not been normal since he was struck by a car when he was 11 years old.

Currie was killed two days before Christmas and his body was found three days later lying in the snow beside United States Route 50, a mile east of Winchester. He had been strangled with a necktie.

Relatives Mob

after Judge Martin had delivered a 5,000-word charge.

Two hours after the jury retired, the court room was still half-filled with friends and relatives of the defendants, doggedly waiting for a verdict. Defendants lounged at the counsel table or paced the hall outside, and three lolled in the jury box. Some two-score negroes watched silently from the gallery. A number of defendants chipped in one dollar each to a pool, wagering on the jury's return in the next 36 hours.

Twenty-one defendants were charged with murder, but all 28 were accused also of being accessories before the fact. The latter, like murder, is a capital offense in South Carolina.

The judge instructed the jury that it must bring one of three verdicts on these two counts—guilty, which would mean penalty of death; guilty with recommendation of mercy, which would mean life imprisonment; or outright acquittal.

Besides being charged with murder and lynching of Negro Willie Earle, the 21 are charged with being accessories after the fact. Conviction on this count would carry up to 10 years in prison.

On the fourth count of the indictment, all 28 defendants are accused of conspiracy to commit murder, a crime punishable with sentence up to 10 years.

Three of an original 31 defendants were granted directed verdicts of acquittal on all counts.

The remaining 28 were accused of varying degrees of participation in the lunch-murder in which the negro was taken from Pickens County jail and butchered in resprisal for the alleged stabbing of a white taxi-driver.

Defendants fidgeted nervously as the judge read his charge slowly and in a clear voice to the jury. Negroes in the gallery leaned forward as the court declared the law recognized no color or creed, and said. "Gentlemen, I instruct you that under your oaths as jurors you are not to allow any so-called racial issues to enter into your deliberations."

The defendants were grimly attentive as the judge explained the penalty for murder and for being an accessory before a murder. Judge Martin looked up at the jury as he explained the penalties for each count, and exhibited four sheets with sample forms for possible verdicts.

At 3:20 he turned to the jury and said: "Gentlemen, you may retire and start your deliberations. If you desire any further assistance from this court, advise me and I will try to comply as promply as possible."

Silence Shrouds Bituminous Coal Contract Talks

Southern Operators Still On Sidelines

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — Contract talk between John L. Lewis and soft coal operators resumed today in a shroud of silence about progress toward meeting the June 30 deadline.

The government's authority to operate the bituminous coal mines under seizure expires on June 30 and a new nationwide strike by 400,000 soft coal diggers is likely if a new contract is not negotiated in the meantime.

Lewis and his miners met for the third day today with representatives of 75 per cent of the bituminous industry. On the sidelines are the Southern Coal Producers Association members, who want to make a separate agreement with Lewis. They say their problem differs from those of the North, Midwest and Far West.

Lewis Keeps Southerners Waiting

Lewis is keeping the southern operators waiting for a reply to their offer to negotiate a separate wage-hour pact. The United Mine Workers 200-man policy committee met Monday to consider when and how to negotiate a contract with the southerners, but did not make public whatever decisions were reached.

The southerners are opposed to the five cent royalty on each ton of coal for a union welfare and retirement fund, which the government allowed in the contract negotiated for federal operation of 2,500 mines to end last spring's strike.

The southern association also has bitterly opposed the machinery for unionizing supervisory workers embodied in the contract between Lewis and Secretary of Interior J. A. Krug, and has been outspoken against adopting the federal mine safety code agreed upon by Krug.

Probable Lewis Demands

Lewis is believed to be asking the northern, midwestern and far western operators to start negotiating on the basis of the Krug-Lewis agreement — probably increasing his demands to include a 10 cent tonnage royalty, and an eight hour day at the same pay now received for nine hours.

Last September, the same operators represented in the current negotiations agreed in principle — although they did not like it—to the five cent royalty and other terms of the Krug-Lewis contract.

Fireman Pinned In Cab When Locomotive Upsets

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP) — Rescuers, working feverishly with acetylene torches, freed a locomotive fireman today who was pinned for 20 minutes against the hot firebox of his cab when the engine overturned.

The fireman, Sherman E. Horrichs, 31, suffered a broken left leg and severe burns. The engineer, Edward Baseda, 55, was thrown clear, but received minor burns when he climbed back into the locomotive cab in a futile attempt to rescue his partner.

The Chicago Outer Belt Railway locomotive overturned while pulling a 76-car freight train in suburban Cicero. The train's diesel engine had stalled and the locomotive was pulling the entire train to a switch-off.

Engravers' Strike May Tie Up Textile Industry

NUTLEY, N. J., May 21 (AP)—A wage dispute which caused a strike of 400 highly-skilled textile engravers in five eastern states today threatened to tie up future operations of the nation's textile industry.

The skilled craftsmen, members of the Friendly Society of Engravers and Sketchmakers (independent), went on strike in 26 concerns after breakdown of negotiations Saturday.

Picket lines were established at plants in Fall River, Mass., Providence, R. I., Jewett City and Norwich, Conn., Paterson, Passaic, Clifton and Lodi, N. J., and Spartansburg, S. C.

Britain's Labor Party Answers Leftist Charges

Defends Relations With United States

LONDON, May 21 (AP)—Britain's Labor Party leadership, answering leftist charges that it was snubbing Russia and clinging too closely to American policies, declared today that "the labor government does not propose to take sides in a lineup for the next world war."

Referring to gibes by leftist "rebel" Laborites that Britain's post-war foreign policy was based on "America provides the money while we produce the men," the ruling party said in a booklet:

"That suits us better than providing both men and money."

Showdown Next Week

Issuance of the booklet pointed up the possibility of a showdown with the leftist Laborites, at the Labor Party's annual five-day conference at Margate next week. Decisions of the conference are considered binding on the Labor government.

Konni Zilliacus, a leader of the "rebel" parliamentary delegation, disclosed that five Labor Party units had drafted a resolution, for submission to the conference, condemning United States aid to Greece and Turkey as "a menace to world peace," and demanding the United Nations investigation of the American policy in Turkey.

The booklet, entitled "Cards on Table"—a phrase used frequently by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin — was designed partly to disarm the left-wing critics.

"The really striking feature of world politics today is not that Russia is frightened of America, but that America, with undisputed control of half the earth and all the oceans, is frightened of Russia," it said.

Aim Is To Prevent War

"For Russia, which foresaw a struggle with America, Britain was not a possible ally, for Britain could not under any circumstances adopt a policy which might lead to war against America. x x x

"The aim of an Anglo-American understanding is to prevent war by proving to Russia that an aggressive anti-British policy is doomed to frustration.

"As long as Britain plays a decisive part in the defense of American security, it is impossible for America to adopt a policy of world aggression without British government."

One Aboard B-29 Which Caught Fire Found Dead

ABILENE, Tex., ay 21 (AP) —One airman aboard a B-29 which caught fire, forcing the crew to parachute, was found dead today. The ship carried a crew of 20.

He was identified as Lt. Irving Bloom, of Albuquerque, N. M.

The plane, from the Roswell, N. M., Army Air Base, was aflame as it passed over Sweetwater, Tex., about dusk yesterday. It crashed near Merkel, Tex., 16 miles west of here. The Civil Aeronautics Administration quoted the pilot as saying the fire started in the No. 3 engine.

Warmer Weather, Rain Help Maryland Crops

BALTIMORE, May 21—(AP)—The Weather Bureau reported today in its weekly review that warmer weather and showers in the period ended Monday were favorable for growth of Maryland fruits and crops.

On four days of the week, the temperature was a few degrees above normal levels for the state at this season, reaching between 80 and 90 degrees on three of them. Two days were cooler than usual, about 10 degrees below the average.

Rains left the ground in good shape except on the lower Eastern Shore, where it is dry.

U. S. Information Program Backed By House Group

"Voice Of America" Wins Another Round

WASHINGTON, May 21 — (AP) — The House Foreign Affairs Committee unanimously endorsed today a measure paving the way for State Department operation of an information and educational program in foreign countries.

The action came just six days after the House denied funds for operation of the program after June 30 on the grounds that it never has been formally authorized by Congress.

Rep. Mundt (R-S.D.), author of the new bill, said he will go before the Rules Committee Friday or Monday to ask its clearance to the floor. He expressed doubt, however, that action can be obtained before the first week in June.

The bill would give birth to a new member of the government's alphabetical family — OIEE — the Office of Information and Educational Exchange in the State Department to replace the present Office of International Information and Cultural Relations.

It would authorize the State Department to continue its "Voice of America" broadcasts under a clause which permits it to distribute "information about the United States, its people, and its policies through press, publications, radio, motion pictures and other information media."

Other major features of the measure would:

Permit continuance of the exchange of students, trainees, professors and professional men on a reciprocal basis with other countries.

DDT Power Sprayer To Be Demonstrated

A demonstration of power spraying of DDT and its effects on "barn flies" and other insect pests on dairy and livestock barns will take place at 2 p. m. Friday at the William Loar farm, Rawlings, according to Ralph F. McHenry, county farm agent.

The sprayer, which had been used by the armed forces in the Pacific to spray DDT around Army and Navy bases, was donated to the county by the Department of Entomology of the University of Maryland. It is mounted on a truck chassis which was purchased by the Allegany Farm Bureau.

The sprayer has been scheduled for visits at farms of 70 Allegany men, McHenry said, adding that it will be used in certain sections besides farms when demand warrants it.

Dr. George Langford, of the Department of Entomology at the University, will be here to put on the demonstration, to which farmers are invited.

Two Men Forfeit Bonds For Hazardous Driving

Two Keyser, W. Va., men charged with hazardous driving forfeited $14.60 bonds when they failed to appear for hearings before Magistrate C. A. Jewell in Ridgeley. A third driver was fined fof using improper plates.

Manning Calvin Oates, of near Keyser, forfeited $14.60 bond Monday night on a hazardous driving charge. He was arrested on Route 28 Sunday by Trooper L. E. Proudfoot.

Blair William Hiett, Route 2, Keyser, forefited the same bond last night on a hazardous driving charge. He was arrested Monday night by Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff.

Eston Dolly, Keyser, was fined $14.60 yesterday by Magistrate Jewell after he pleaded guilty to a charge of using improper plates. Authorities said the man was using Maryland tags although he had been living in West Virginia for about two years. Trooper Proudfoot preferred the charge.

LIBRARIAN SPEAKS ON CAREER OF LOUIS BROMFIELD

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Free Public Library, gave the second in a series of talks over WTBO at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday concerning Louis Bromfield, who will speak at Allegany High School auditorium at a public meeting next Tuesday night. Bromfield will be in Cumberland under the auspices of the agricultural committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

She stated that although Bromfield has established fame for himself as a writer, his main interest today is in agriculture. Acquiring a 1,000-acre farm in Ohio, he established a co-operative system among his 12 tenant farms based on scientific farming and soil conservation. He has written a book outlining his theories.

While in Maryland he will tour various farming sections in western and eastern parts of the state.

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, announced that several notables in soil conservation and agriculture circles will be present for the address. Among them will be Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland; Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the College of Agriculture at the university; Edward M. Davis, district director of the Soil Conservation Service; Dr. Austin L. Patrick, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service; Russell Lord, editor of "The Land," Bel Air; O. E. Fink, executive secretary of "Friends of the Land," Columbus, Ohio, and H. C. Buckingham, acting state forester.

BUILDERS REMINDED OF FEDERAL CURBS

Federal limitation of non-essential construction is still in effect and is being enforced, builders were reminded yesterday by Isaac A. Sturgis, district construction manager for the Office of Housing Expediter.

"The amount of non-housing construction permitted under Veterans Housing Program No. 1 has been increased and may be increased further, if the materials production picture continues to improve," the district manager said. "But the order is still the most important weapon of all in meeting the nation's housing shortage. It requires federal approval for the start or repair of most types of construction."

Certain repair and maintenance jobs are exempt from the order. No approval is required for a job costing $400 or less on a house; $1,000 or less on a hotel, apartment house institution, commercial building, or industrial structure of less than 10,000 square feet; and $15,000 on a factory of more than 10,000 square feet. The order also exempts many kinds of construction, such as roads, dams, and bridges.

Privately-financed homes or apartment houses covered by the order must be approved by a state or district office of the Federal Housing Administration. Publicly-financed homes or apartment houses must be sponsored by the Federal Public Housing Authority. If the project is non-residential, it must be approved by what were formerly the district offices of the Civilian Production Administration.

The former CPA offices were transferred to the Office of the Housing Expeditor on April 1. They are located at 1196 Charles Street, Baltimore 1, Maryland.

Disney Educational Film Will Be Shown Here

The General Motors Quarterly Club of Cumberland will sponsor the showing of a Walt Disney technicolor film, "The ABC of Hand Tools," representing a unique experiment in visual education, today at 7:15 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The animated film was produced for General Motors in the Disney Hollywood studios.

General use of visual aids in the classroom and in training programs for new industrial employes will be discussed at the meeting. Charles H. Rafferty, club chairman, has invited Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, to attend the meeting as co-chairman.

Other invited guests are school principals and industrial arts instructors of Allegany and Garrett Counties in Maryland; several nearby Pennsylvania communities; and from Mineral, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton and Hampshire Counties in West Virginia.

Driver Injured In Pinto Crash

Fred Borror, 58, Ridgeley, received treatment at 6:40 a. m. yesterday in Memorial Hospital for lacerations below the right eye after the car he was driving left the highway and crashed against a culvert at Pinto, according to police.

Borror, attaches said they were told, fell asleep at the wheel of his vehicle. He was able to return home.

Mary Ellen Lewis, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie W. Lewis, 555 North Mechanic Street, wasreported in "good" condition last night in Allegany Hospital, after being admitted Tuesday night suffering from injuries received when she ran against a car.

Police identified the driver of the machine as William Charles Nolan, 22, Mt. Savage. The accident occurred in front of the child's home.

Beth Jacob Plans Shevuoth Service

The holiday of Shevuoth will be ushered in at the Beth Jacob Synagogue, North Centre Street, Saturday at 7:30 p. m. Services will be conducted by Rabbi Jacob Aronson, and Alex Green will preach on "Chevuoth, the Feast of Weeks."

Sunday's program will start at 9:30 a. m. with services and sermon by Rabbi Aronson.

Sunday at 7:30 p. m. services will be conducted by Moe R. Sachs and George Ossip will deliver the sermon. His topic will be "Zionism and the U. N."

Blair William Hiett, Route 2, Keyser, forefited the same bond last night on a hazardous driving charge. He was arrested Monday night by Cpl. R. R. Karickhoff.

Eston Dolly, Keyser, was fined $14.60 yesterday by Magistrate Jewell after he pleaded guilty to a charge of using improper plates. Authorities said the man was using Maryland tags although he had been living in West Virginia for about two years. Trooper Proudfoot preferred the charge.

LIBRARIAN SPEAKS ON CAREER OF LOUIS BROMFIELD

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Free Public Library, gave the second in a series of talks over WTBO at 6:15 p. m. Tuesday concerning Louis Bromfield, who will speak at Allegany High School auditorium at a public meeting next Tuesday night. Bromfield will be in Cumberland under the auspices of the agricultural committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

She stated that although Bromfield has established fame for himself as a writer, his main interest today is in agriculture. Acquiring a 1,000-acre farm in Ohio, he established a co-operative system among his 12 tenant farms based on scientific farming and soil conservation. He has written a book outlining his theories.

While in Maryland he will tour various farming sections in western and eastern parts of the state.

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, announced that several notables in soil conservation and agriculture circles will be present for the address. Among them will be Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland; Dr. T. B. Symons, dean of the College of Agriculture at the university; Edward M. Davis, district director of the Soil Conservation Service; Dr. Austin L. Patrick, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service; Russell Lord, editor of "The Land," Bel Air; O. E. Fink, executive secretary of "Friends of the Land," Columbus, Ohio, and H. C. Buckingham, acting state forester.

BUILDERS REMINDED OF FEDERAL CURBS

Federal limitation of non-essential construction is still in effect and is being enforced, builders were reminded yesterday by Isaac A. Sturgis, district construction manager for the Office of Housing Expediter.

"The amount of non-housing construction permitted under Veterans Housing Program No. 1 has been increased and may be increased further, if the materials production picture continues to improve," the district manager said. "But the order is still the most important weapon of all in meeting the nation's housing shortage. It requires federal approval for the start or repair of most types of construction."

Certain repair and maintenance jobs are exempt from the order. No approval is required for a job costing $400 or less on a house; $1,000 or less on a hotel, apartment house institution, commercial building, or industrial structure of less than 10,000 square feet; and $15,000 on a factory of more than 10,000 square feet. The order also exempts many kinds of construction, such as roads, dams, and bridges.

Privately-financed homes or apartment houses covered by the order must be approved by a state or district office of the Federal Housing Administration. Publicly-financed homes or apartment houses must be sponsored by the Federal Public Housing Authority. If the project is non-residential, it must be approved by what were formerly the district offices of the Civilian Production Administration.

The former CPA offices were transferred to the Office of the Housing Expeditor on April 1. They are located at 1196 Charles Street, Baltimore 1, Maryland.

Disney Educational Film Will Be Shown Here

The General Motors Quarterly Club of Cumberland will sponsor the showing of a Walt Disney technicolor film, "The ABC of Hand Tools," representing a unique experiment in visual education, today at 7:15 p. m. at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The animated film was produced for General Motors in the Disney Hollywood studios.

General use of visual aids in the classroom and in training programs for new industrial employes will be discussed at the meeting. Charles H. Rafferty, club chairman, has invited Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of county schools, to attend the meeting as co-chairman.

Other invited guests are school principals and industrial arts instructors of Allegany and Garrett Counties in Maryland; several nearby Pennsylvania communities; and from Mineral, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton and Hampshire Counties in West Virginia.

Driver Injured In Pinto Crash

Fred Borror, 58, Ridgeley, received treatment at 6:40 a. m. yesterday in Memorial Hospital for lacerations below the right eye after the car he was driving left the highway and crashed against a culvert at Pinto, according to police.

Borror, attaches said they were told, fell asleep at the wheel of his vehicle. He was able to return home.

Mary Ellen Lewis, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archie W. Lewis, 555 North Mechanic Street, wasreported in "good" condition last night in Allegany Hospital, after being admitted Tuesday night suffering from injuries received when she ran against a car.

Police identified the driver of the machine as William Charles Nolan, 22, Mt. Savage. The accident occurred in front of the child's home.

Philippines To Get Australian Horses

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Dr. Mariano R. Montemayor, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Manila, has bought two stallions at Sydney bloodstock sales to form the nucleus he said, of the Philippines National Stud.

Dr. Montemayor says that the Philippines Government intended to spend the equivalent of $3,240,000 in a five-year plan to rehabilitate the breeding industry.

"Our 1941 plans for a national stud would have been operating now but for the war," he says. "In 1941 my government landed six Australian stallions and 20 brood mares, but the next day a Japanese bombing raid wiped out the stables and stock."

Indicating the Philippines planned to use mostly Australian bloodstock, Dr. Montemayor said: "Australian sires and mares are of a type for breeding, for racing, and for utility purposes. Another advantage is that Australian climatic and feeding conditions closely resemble our own."

Navigation Research

LONDON (AP)—Britain is forming an Institute of Navigation to coordinate all the practical and scientific knowledge gained during the war, and continue research to provide up-to-the-minute data for ships and planes. The Institute hopes to collect technical libraries and offer scholarships to young men. Members of the new Institute will work closely with navigational organizations and scientific societies in all countries.

Lowell Sowers will play the part of George Bigelow, a brilliant student; George Kelly will be "Bill", a student; Dorothy Brown will have the favorite role opposite Henry as Barbara Pearson. Jack Woods will be Mr. Ferguson, detective, who tries to locate the missing band instruments.

The play promises to be a highlight of the school year.

Mr. And Mrs. P. H. Rodeheaver, Of Garrett County, Wed 65 Years

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, May 21 — Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Rodeheaver, of Sand Flat, six miles north of Oakland, celebrated their 65th widding anniversary with a family dinner at their home May 4. It was attended by their children some of their grandchildren, great grandchildren, neighbors and friends.

Patrick Hamill Rodeheaver, son of Samuel and Mary Ann Sisler Rodeheaver, and Lilly Mae White, daughter of Lt. George White (who was wounded in the battle of Bull Run and later died in a Baltimore hospital) were married May 4, 1882 at Kitzmiller, by Rev. William E. George, Methodist minister of Deer Park.

Soon after they were married they moved into a log house covered with split shingle roof and plastered with mud and straw which they built with their own hands. Later an addition was made of upright boards where they lived until 1886 when the old structure was replaced by a more modern home. Here they resided for about 62 years where all their children were born.

Joseph, first born, died soon after birth. Charles Stewart Rodeheaver, World War I veteran, was an ambulance driver at Key West, Fla., where he lost his life in the Labor Day hurricane of 1935. His body was never found.

The surviving children are George Hamill Rodeheaver, teacher, post office clerk, printer, and farmer, Oakland; Mrs. Sidney Harvey, Maple Grove farm, Deep Creek Lake; Delbert Curtis Rodeheaver, World War I marine, now at Macon, Ga., in the grocery store business; Haymond Z. Rodeheaver, World War I veteran, overseas, now state road employe, Oakland; Mrs. Wade H. Mason, Deep Creek Lake; Mrs. Joseph Johnson, Sand Flat; and Mrs. Ronald E. McIntire, wife of one of Garrett county's representatives to the House of Delegates.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodeheaver worked together over long hours, starting from scratch in the rough woods. Mr. Rodeheaver was a farmer, blacksmith, carpenter, stonemason and road supervisor. He also erected several bridges in this county. A few years ago they sold their place, reserving a small acreage where they built a cottage where they expect to spend the remaining years of their life.

Gus Hardesty Killed

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon for Gus Henry Hardesty, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bushrod Hardesty, of the Bethlehem community, who was killed Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock when his automobile turned over and wrecked on the Loch Lynn-Bethlehem road as he was presumably en route to a sale at the J. T. Moon property.

Hardesty was thrown free of the car but sustained a crushed chest, punctured lung and other injuries. He was discovered by Mrs. Melvin Lee as she passed in an automobile. She notified county authorities, Sheriff J. S. Teats and Deputy Sheriff Paul W. Fisher, who investigated. Dr. E. E. Sollars, acting deputy medical examiner, declared death was accidental.

Surviving are his parents, his widow, the former Jane White, three children, Charles Henry, Nancy Louise, and Thomas Wayne; four sisters and four brothers, Mrs. Edward Drawdy, Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Edward King, Deer Park; Bert Hardesty, Carl Hardesty, Deer Park; William Hardesty, Bloomington; Mrs. George Coddington, Jr., Cumberland; Miss Doris Hardesty, Dania, Fla.

He was a veteran of World War II and was overseas about a year. He was wounded in April, 1945, in Italy, returned to the states where he was hospitalized for six months and received his discharge December 4, 1945. He was a private first class of Co. F, 337th infantry regiment, 85th division. He was a member of the American Legion.

Services today were from the Kurtz chapel, Bethlehem, with Rev. Reece Burns, pastor, in charge. Interment was in the J. T. Moon cemetery.

WED 65 YEARS— On May 4 Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Rodeheaver, Sand Flat, near Oakland, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with a family dinner at their home attended by their children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and friends.

This Is Simple--In Europe

BALTIMORE (AP) — Henry Wise Wood Distler said he didn't want to confuse his European friends.

So he was granted a circuit court order which legalizes his name as Henry Wise Wood von Distler und Dercsenyi Zu Derscen.

Philippines To Get Australian Horses

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Dr. Mariano R. Montemayor, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, Manila, has bought two stallions at Sydney bloodstock sales to form the nucleus he said, of the Philippines National Stud.

Dr. Montemayor says that the Philippines Government intended to spend the equivalent of $3,240,000 in a five-year plan to rehabilitate the breeding industry.

"Our 1941 plans for a national stud would have been operating now but for the war," he says. "In 1941 my government landed six Australian stallions and 20 brood mares, but the next day a Japanese bombing raid wiped out the stables and stock."

Indicating the Philippines planned to use mostly Australian bloodstock, Dr. Montemayor said: "Australian sires and mares are of a type for breeding, for racing, and for utility purposes. Another advantage is that Australian climatic and feeding conditions closely resemble our own."

Navigation Research

LONDON (AP)—Britain is forming an Institute of Navigation to coordinate all the practical and scientific knowledge gained during the war, and continue research to provide up-to-the-minute data for ships and planes. The Institute hopes to collect technical libraries and offer scholarships to young men. Members of the new Institute will work closely with navigational organizations and scientific societies in all countries.

Students And Faculty In Friday Night Play

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING, May 20 — Students and faculty members of Central High School, will present from the stage of the school auditorium Friday night, the popular three-act play, "Henry Aldrich in What a Life". Written by Clifford Goldsmith, the play has been seen in films and has been staged by a number of schools in this area.

Billy Neff, popular sophomore at Central, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Neff, 31 West Main Street, will portray "Henry Aldrich", and cast opposite him as "Barbara Pearson," is Dorothy Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Brown, Watercliffe Street.

The entire cast, including both faculty and members and students, has been selected as closely as possible to their individual roles in real life.

Lewyn C. Davis will play the part of Mr. Bradley, principal. Miss Daisy Cline, vice principal, will be cast as the music teacher, Miss Wheeler. Francis X. Carrington, coach, will be Mr. Nelson, assistant principal.

Mrs. Mary M. Ketter will be Henry's mother. Miss Mary Rita Hughes, business arithmetic and history instructor, will be Miss Shea, secretary. Kendrick Y. Hodgson, science teacher, will be Mr. Patterson, of the faculty.

Miss Pike will be enacted by Miss Alberta Mayer, English instructor; Miss Julia Wetzel, girls physical education teacher, will be Miss Eggleston; Joseph L. Derry, music teacher, will be Mr. Vecchitto, an Italian father who is in search of his daughter, Mary, a student.

Lowell Sowers will play the part of George Bigelow, a brilliant student; George Kelly will be "Bill", a student; Dorothy Brown will have the favorite role opposite Henry as Barbara Pearson. Jack Woods will be Mr. Ferguson, detective, who tries to locate the missing band instruments.

The play promises to be a highlight of the school year.

Mr. And Mrs. P. H. Rodeheaver, Of Garrett County, Wed 65 Years

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, May 21 — Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Rodeheaver, of Sand Flat, six miles north of Oakland, celebrated their 65th widding anniversary with a family dinner at their home May 4. It was attended by their children some of their grandchildren, great grandchildren, neighbors and friends.

Patrick Hamill Rodeheaver, son of Samuel and Mary Ann Sisler Rodeheaver, and Lilly Mae White, daughter of Lt. George White (who was wounded in the battle of Bull Run and later died in a Baltimore hospital) were married May 4, 1882 at Kitzmiller, by Rev. William E. George, Methodist minister of Deer Park.

Soon after they were married they moved into a log house covered with split shingle roof and plastered with mud and straw which they built with their own hands. Later an addition was made of upright boards where they lived until 1886 when the old structure was replaced by a more modern home. Here they resided for about 62 years where all their children were born.

Joseph, first born, died soon after birth. Charles Stewart Rodeheaver, World War I veteran, was an ambulance driver at Key West, Fla., where he lost his life in the Labor Day hurricane of 1935. His body was never found.

The surviving children are George Hamill Rodeheaver, teacher, post office clerk, printer, and farmer, Oakland; Mrs. Sidney Harvey, Maple Grove farm, Deep Creek Lake; Delbert Curtis Rodeheaver, World War I marine, now at Macon, Ga., in the grocery store business; Haymond Z. Rodeheaver, World War I veteran, overseas, now state road employe, Oakland; Mrs. Wade H. Mason, Deep Creek Lake; Mrs. Joseph Johnson, Sand Flat; and Mrs. Ronald E. McIntire, wife of one of Garrett county's representatives to the House of Delegates.

Mr. and Mrs. Rodeheaver worked together over long hours, starting from scratch in the rough woods. Mr. Rodeheaver was a farmer, blacksmith, carpenter, stonemason and road supervisor. He also erected several bridges in this county. A few years ago they sold their place, reserving a small acreage where they built a cottage where they expect to spend the remaining years of their life.

Gus Hardesty Killed

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon for Gus Henry Hardesty, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bushrod Hardesty, of the Bethlehem community, who was killed Saturday afternoon about 2 o'clock when his automobile turned over and wrecked on the Loch Lynn-Bethlehem road as he was presumably en route to a sale at the J. T. Moon property.

Hardesty was thrown free of the car but sustained a crushed chest, punctured lung and other injuries. He was discovered by Mrs. Melvin Lee as she passed in an automobile. She notified county authorities, Sheriff J. S. Teats and Deputy Sheriff Paul W. Fisher, who investigated. Dr. E. E. Sollars, acting deputy medical examiner, declared death was accidental.

Surviving are his parents, his widow, the former Jane White, three children, Charles Henry, Nancy Louise, and Thomas Wayne; four sisters and four brothers, Mrs. Edward Drawdy, Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Edward King, Deer Park; Bert Hardesty, Carl Hardesty, Deer Park; William Hardesty, Bloomington; Mrs. George Coddington, Jr., Cumberland; Miss Doris Hardesty, Dania, Fla.

He was a veteran of World War II and was overseas about a year. He was wounded in April, 1945, in Italy, returned to the states where he was hospitalized for six months and received his discharge December 4, 1945. He was a private first class of Co. F, 337th infantry regiment, 85th division. He was a member of the American Legion.

Services today were from the Kurtz chapel, Bethlehem, with Rev. Reece Burns, pastor, in charge. Interment was in the J. T. Moon cemetery.

WED 65 YEARS—On May 4 Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Rodeheaver, Sand Flat, near Oakland, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with a family dinner at their home attended by their children, grandchildren, great grandchildren and friends.

Speed Traps Fail

WIESBADEN (AP) — Highway speed traps, as operated by the American Military Police in Hesse, failed to provide sufficient evidence to justify convictions, the legal division of the military government in Hesse has ruled. Marc J. Robinson, deputy legal director, said the way the traps were operated between here and Frankfurt no one person was in a position to observe an automobile over the whole measured distance of the trap.

RUSSIAN BRIDE — The above picture was taken in Russia when Miss Elizabeth Bergman became the bride of S/Sgt. Arthur Hice, Mt. Savage, on last June 22. She arrived in Mt. Savage with her husband on May 12.

Mt. Savage Soldier Arrives Home With His Russian Bride

S. Sgt. Arthur Hice Weds Miss Bergman

By MRS. ROSE O'ROURKE

MT. SAVAGE, Md., May 21 — S-Sgt. Arthur Hice, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hice, arrived with his Russian bride in New York Sunday May 11 and came here on May 12.

Sgt. Hice has been in the Army four years, three and one-half years being spent in the European Theatre with the Second Armored Division where he met and married Miss Elizabeth Bergman in Wetzlar, Germany, in the Army Chapel.

Miss Bergman is the daughter of Mrs. Dora Bergman and the late Mr. Bergman, of Nikopol Eurain, Russia. Miss Bergman, who attended high school and college in Ulta, Russia, speaks and writes six different languages fluently.

Mr. and Mrs. Hice were married June 22, 1946, and the bride will reside for the present with Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hice.

Sgt. Hice is reassigned to the United States and is to report for duty June 22, at Camp Meade. He is a graduate of Mt. Savage School and attended Allegany High Cumberland.

Rev. Geary Ordained

Rev. Joseph Geary was ordained deacon in the Methodist Church at 2:30 p. m. Sunday May 18 at Hanson Place Central Methodist Church Brookly, N. Y. He was ordained by Bishop G. Bromley Orman, Bishop of New York area.

Rev. Mr. Geary has been returned to the Mineola-Uniondale Methodist Churches, Long Island, in the New York Conference.

Rev. Mr. Geary was graduated from Mt. Savage High in 1936 being the honor pupil for four years—and from Western Maryland College—in 1944. He was graduated from Union Theological seminary in New York City May 20, '47.

Those attending the ordination from Mt. Savage were John Geary and Wilbert Geary, brothers of Rev. Mr. Geary, and Mrs. Carl Pollock and Mrs. Philip Miller, Rev. Mr. Geary's sisters.

Brief Item

The Church Hill 4-H will attend St. Georges Episcopal church in a body Sunday morning at 10:45 in observance of 4-H Sunday.

This Is Simple--In Europe

BALTIMORE (AP) — Henry Wise Wood Distler said he didn't want to confuse his European friends.

So he was granted a circuit court order which legalizes his name as Henry Wise Wood von Distler und Dercsenyi Zu Derscen.

Ervin Kuykendall, South Fork Man, Fatally Injured

Hit By Projecting Bulldozer Blade

By MRS. KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., May 21—A funeral service for Ervin Kuykendall, 22, South Fork Route, who died Friday afternoon of injuries suffered when he was struck by a bulldozer blade, was held Monday afternoon at Rig Christian Church. Rev. P. I. Garber officiated, and interment was in Newhouse Cemetery.

Sgt. H. R. Shields of the West Virginia State Police, who investigated the accident, said that the young man was walking toward Moorefield along the road near Bott's store at Needmore when he was apparently struck by the blade of a bulldozer which was being hauled by a large tractor trailer of the Keely Construction Company.

No charges were placed against the driver of the tractor identified as Ralph H. Keith, Clarksburg, after Prosecuting Attorney W. D. McCauley determined that Keith was not criminally liable. Sgt. Shields said the bulldozer blade projected out over two feet from the bed of the trailer, and that Keith had pulled over while passing Kuykendall.

The driver stopped his machine when he failed to see Kuykendall in his rear vision mirror after passing him, and brought the injured man to the office of Dr. M. H. Maxwell in Moorefield. Kuykendall died shortly after reaching the doctor's office. Death was attributed to an internal hemorrhage or a ruptured liver.

Kuykendall, who was born August 24, 1924, was a son of Adam Kuykendall and the late Mrs. Amanda Mongold Kuykendall. Besides his father, he is survived by five brothers and two sisters.

Trustees Name Officers

Daniel Wilson was named president of the board of trustees of the American Legion in Moorefield at a meeting held Monday night. John Williams was elected vice-president and Aubrey E. Evans was elected secretary and treasurer.

Members of the seven-man board named by the members of John M. Golladay Post of the Legion are Angus Seymour, Courtney Pratt, John Williams, P. W. Clark, W. D. McCauley, Daniel Wilson and Duval Schell. They will serve for a one-year term.

Special memorial services will be held at the Methodist Church on Sunday, May 25. Members of the post will assemble at the Legion building at 10 o'clock and march to the church.

Aubrey E. Evans, adjutant, announced that there are 437 active members on the rolls so far this year.

At the Friday night meeting it was announced that Department Commander Edmund Lee Jones of Wheeling will make an official visit to John M. Golladay Post on Monday night, July 7.

Phone Program Outlined

Nelson Mahone, district manager for the Central Telephone Company, outlined the telephone company's improvement program for the next 48 months in Moorefield at the meeting of the Lions Club at the Airport Inn Monday night. The program, Mahone said, calls for an expenditure of approximately $65,000 and will result in a completely modern dial system being installed here.

Mahone was accompanied by Paul Miller, local manager of the Central Telephone Company.

Mahone stated that additional long-distance circuits would be established from Moorefield to Cumberland and that rural lines from Moorefield would be regrouped and extended. The company plans to construct a building to house the new dial equipment. Mahone said that the program would be coordinated with the expansion program at Petersburg and Romney.

The company official pointed out that present telephone rates were established 19 years ago and that a slight increase will be circulated among the subscribers to determine their wishes before the new rates are placed into effect. The increase will not exceed 50 cents a month for business phones and 25 cents per month for residential phones.

Representatives of the telephone company will meet with a county-wide committee on June 21 to discuss the proposed expansion program for the county-wide phone service.

Mahone stated that a new switchboard was to be installed at Wardensville this week.

Michael James Miley Dies

Michael James Miley, 18-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Brown Miley, died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Miley, May 16. A funeral service was held in the Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon and interment was in Olivet Cemetery.

Rev. Charles Kernan of the Presbyterian Church officiated and the child's uncles, Lloyd, James, William and Donald Miley, acted as pallbearers. Flower girls were Misses Frances Rotruck, Mary and Jean Harman, Washington, Mary Jo Miley, Curry, and Joan Harman, Moorefield.

The child is survived by his parents, his grandparents, and other relatives.

W. B. Smith Service

William B. Smith, 72, died in Rockingham Memorial Hospital Wednesday, May 14. A funeral service was held Saturday at the White Pine Church near Purgitsville and Rev. Lowell Rogers, Burlington, officiated.

Mr. Smith is survived by his widow and several children, among whom are Earl, Elwood and Homan Smith, Moorefield; Mrs. Pearl Sites, Moore, and Mrs. June Dolly, Hanging Rock.

P-TA Names Officers

Ervin Bowman, cashier of the South Branch Valley National Bank, was elected president of the Moorefield Parent-Teacher Association at the last meeting of the year held in the Graded School building Monday night. C. B. Hiett, retiring president, was elected vice-president; Mrs. Oscar Bean, secretary, and E. B. Simmons, treasurer.

With the new lighting installed by the P-TA and the venetian blinds donated by the Moose, two large projects started several years ago are completed.

Among other projects for the year that have been completed were the donation of $50 toward a victrola for the Graded School, and $150 toward the repair of band instruments at the high school. The lighting of the hot lunch building at the Graded School will be completed during the summer months.

Brief Mention

At the business meeting of the Lions Club Harold Dodd was introduced as a new member. C. B. Hiett proposed that the Lions club have courtesy cards distributed to tourists this summer simulating traffic tickets and that they be placed on out-of-town cars for minor traffic violations. The tags will ask for co-operation from the tourists and point out interesting places near the town.

R. J. Bean announced that the town recreation park would be opened June 1 with a lifeguard on duty to instruct the children in swimming classes. The next meeting will be Boy Scout meeting and the members of the Moorefield Boy Scout troop will be the guests of the club.

The charter is ready for presentation to the Scouts.

Martin Kelley, member of the club, entertained the group with several piano selections.

Golden Horseshoe pins will be awarded in Charleston this year to those youngsters most adept in the study of West Virginia history, government, and geography.

Hardy county winners are Lue Crites, Walnut Bottom; Carlton Hilliard, Wallace; Eva Crites, Steele Run, and Lena Gay Shook, Mathias High School. Only four children in the county took the tests but all four passed.

Fifty thousand small mouth black bass were placed in the bass rearing ponds at the Ed M. Gilkeson Memorial Bass Ponds at Old Fields on Monday by the Bureau of Fisheries. The fingerlings will be distributed to the four Valley counties this fall.

Action Deferred On Applications For Basketball Franchises

NEW YORK, May 21—(AP)—The Basketball Association of America today referred the applications of Baltimore and Louisville interests for franchises in the professional circuit to a special committee for study and action.

The league operated in its first season in 1946-47 with 11 teams, six in the Eastern Division and five in the west.

At its annual meeting, the league named a committee to meet with a group representing the National Basketball League in Detroit June 2 to discuss a working agreement between the two circuits. The BAA committee comprises Ned Irish, New York; Emory Jones, St. Louis; Walter Brown, Boston and Eddie Gottlieb, Philadelphia.

An exploratory meeting to discuss a working agreement was held by the National League in Buffalo last Thursday. Maurice Podoloff, president of the BAA, agreed to pursue the matter further with his own organization.

FDR Memo Directed Letters Be Kept Secret

WASHINGTON, May 21 (AP) — President Roosevelt, it was disclosed tonight, directed nearly two years before his death that "the long hand letters between the King of England and myself, or between Cardinal Mundelein and myself, are to be retained by me or my estate and should never be made public."

A memorandum signed "Franklin D. Roosevelt" and dated July 16, 1943, offered these letters as example of papers in his "famous people's file" which "are in effect personal" and not to be published. There was no hint as to what may have passed between the late President and the King, or the late Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, famous Catholic leader.

The memorandum was released by Sen. Brewster (R-Maine) who said it came today from Fred W. Shipman, director of the Hyde Park, N. Y., library where many Roosevelt papers are stored.

Besides the letters which Mr. Roosevelt wanted never to be made public, his memo mentioned that there were others which should be kept under seal for 10, 15 or 50 years "for the reason that they may refer to people who are still alive in a way which would be embarrassing to them."

Valuable Dog Dies

NEW YORK, May 21—(AP)—A $5,200 English champion male pekingese, purchased by Mrs. Richard S. Quigley of Lock Haven, Pa., was found dead aboard a Transworld Airplane Cargo plane upon arrival here, a TWA spokesman said today.

The dog, Yu Sen Tu Toi, described as the first postwar English, champion of Pekingese and the second champion of all breeds, arrived here last Friday. A necropsy performed the next day revealed the cause of death was cardiac failure, the Airlines spokesman said.

A May fly's adult life lasts only from evening to dawn.

Englander Will Sing In "Elijah"

Lester Englander, baritone, star of the Philadelphia Opera Company will be one of the four soloists in the Cumberland Choral Society's performance of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," tonight at Fort Hill High School, beginning at 8:15, with Jack E. Platt directing.

A veteran of three years service in the Army, with most of the time served in the ETO, Mr. Englander has sung leading roles with the Philadelphia opera companies and been a soloist with Philadelphia Orchestra, under Stokowski. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, he was on the faculty of the Curtis Institute of Music until he entered the service.

Mrs. Jesse Riley will sing the contralto solo parts; Miss Betty Wilson, soprano and William Wood, tenor. Supporting soloists will be Mrs. Elsie Brinkman, Miss Mary Robb, Robert Rosamond, Charles Floto and Robert Crabtree. Aden Lewis will be accompanist. Approximately 100 singers will participate.

Plan To Attend Meeting

Several members of the Upper Potomac River Board, including Mayor Thomas S. Post, Charles J. Bruce and H. C. Givens, Jr., are expected to attend the quarterly meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, to be held tomorrow and Saturday at Cacapon State Park near Berkeley Springs, W. Va.

The agenda will include a discusion of long - range plans for abatement of pollution in the upper Potomac River.

Remove the cellophane wrapping when you use the lamp shade. Heat from the lamp bulb and the changes in the air cause the cellophane to shrink. When it shrinks, it pulls on the frame and bends it out of shape. Also, dirt sifts in between the strips of cellophane and leaves streaks that are sometimes impossible to remove.

Five Area Men Enter Naval Reserve Group

Five area men, two of them Navy veterans, have been accepted for the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division, according to Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer.

The veterans are Delbert Clay Leese, fireman second class, Frostburg; and Roy Webster Yutzy, electricians mate third class, 710 Shawnee Avenue. Others accepted, all apprentice seamen, are Paul James Travis, Howard Ralph Rhodes and David Eugene Wilson, all of Ridgeley, W. Va.

Melvin Blake Bishop, Route 4, city, has enlisted in the regular Navy for four years as seaman first class. He has been transferred to Washington, D. C., for assignment to active duty.

Robert Lee Bridges, shipfitter second class, Mt. Savage, has enlisted in the V-6 inactive naval reserve. He is a veteran of 41 months' service with the Seabees.

J. P. Judy Succeeds See As Alumni Head

J. P. Judy was elected president of the Potomac Chapter of Bridgewater Alumni at the annual dinner meeting of the organization at Mills' Restaurant, Mt. Storm, W. Va. Judy succeeds Judge Ernest A. See, Keyser.

Other officers elected were Rollin Whitehair, vice-president and Bessie A. Holsinger, secretary.

Judge See presided at the meeting and Rev. A. R. Showalter, toastmaster, introduced the principal speaker, Rufus King, executive secretary of the Bridgewater Alumni Association. Mr. King reported on progress being made at the college as to expansion in keeping pace with the increased enrollment. He also stressed the importance of the Christian college in the world today.

Fort Ashby May Get Dial Phone Exchange

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 21—(AP)—The Public Service Commission docketed today for hearing May 29 an application by the Central Telephone Company of Charlottesville, Va., for authority to provide a dial exchange in the vicinity of Fort Ashby, Mineral County.

The proposed project, estimated to cost $38,295, would put three trunk lines between Fort Ashby and Cumberland, Md., and a similar line between Fort Ashby and Romney, W. Va.

The company explained that at present the Mineral County area is served only by one magneto rural line which was described as "inadequate and congested."

Monthly rates for business telephones under the proposed service would range from $3.50 per month for a private line, to $2.75 for a 10-party arrangement.

Costs of residence telephones would be scaled from $2.75 to $2.25.

LaVale Legion Considers Buying Bowling Alley

Officers of LaVale Post No. 219, American Legion said they will discuss further the possibility of purchasing the Allegany Grove Bowling Alley as a home at the next meeting.

Paul Thompson, vice commander, said the proprietor appeared at the meeting last night and offered the building for sale, but added the post members must consider the transaction further before making any commitments.

When Mickey Vernon of the Senators hit .353 to lead the American League last year it was the second time he hit over .300. In 1938 he batted .328 for Greenville in the South Atlantic League.

Rain Storm Washes B. And O. Tracks Out

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 21—(AP)—A near cloudburst washed out the tracks between Pt. Pleasant and Gallipolis Ferry north of here last night, paralyzing operations on the Wheeling division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

A. L. Lowe of Parkersburg, supervisor for the railroad's Maintenance of Way Department in this district, said trains would be unable to operate on the line for "at least 18 houhs."

Lowe, himself, happened to arrive here on a train ahead of the storm, which dumped an estimated three inches of rain on a 10-mile section within little more than half an hour.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

By J. GLENN BEALL
(Member of Congress from Maryland Sixth District)

UNDER THE DOME

Because of my long time interest and association with highway construction, I was particularly interested and pleased that the Public Works Committee of the House approved a bill to extend for one year the time for making application for funds under the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1944. This extension of time, granted by the passage of H. R. 1874 will be a great aid to the state and particularly helpful to the County Commissioners of the various counties in furthering their primary and secondary roads programs.

The roads in Maryland needs immediate attention and we should take advantage of any aid offered by the Federal Government.

It is gratifying to learn that representatives of Maryland and West Virginia will meet to discuss a long-range plan to abate pollution in the upper Potomac River.

I have always felt that the beautiful Potomac River should be cleared of pollution so it could be enjoyed in so many ways by great numbers of persons all along its banks. As it is today, the river is beautiful but not very useful in the pleasurable sense of the word.

I look for the complete cooperation between the states bordering the river and industries operating in the Cumberland basin to clean up the polluted area.

I understand considerable progress already has been made toward correcting the pollution. Johns Hopkins will conduct research this summer in the upper river in an attempt to discover the efficiency of aeration basins in lessening pollution.

The Army Air Forces have informed me that it will be glad to loan equipment for the Cumberland Air Show on June 15. This show is a highlight in the early summer. The air show is sponsored by the Optimist Club and Cumberland Airways, Inc., and I wouldn't miss it for the world.

The parade and ceremony held Sunday in Silver Spring, Maryland, in celebration of "I Am An American Day," was very successful and impressive. It snapped our minds to the realization that we're very fortunate to be Americans.

The Cabin John Park Citizens Association has made application to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for the right of way for an interceptor sewer line between Cabin John Park and Chain Bridge in the C and O Canal Area. On their behalf I have contacted the Chairman of the Commission urging permission be granted. It seems necessary to the health and welfare of the residents of the Cabin John Park area.

The Mayor and Commissioners of Barton, Maryland, are happy that approval has been given for the construction of a fire house which is very badly needed. I am glad also.

It was a great pleasure to speak to the members and their guests of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its State Convention in Cumberland, Saturday night.

Congressman Sasscer of the Fifth District and I spearheaded an unsuccessful attempt to prevent transfer of the Foreign Trade Section of the Bureau of Census to New York.

THE LABOR LEGISLATION SITUATION

Ten members of Congress, five Senators and five Representatives, are this week working out final details on the most important domestic legislation introduced in the Eightieth Congress.

In a big room in the Capitol these ten men constitute what is known as a House-Senate Conference Committee.

These men have to reach an agreement on the Labor legislation which has been passed by the House and the Senate.

Prison Guard Is Convicted Of Theft

BALTIMORE, May 21 — (AP) — Graydon L. Green, veteran guard at Maryland Penitentiary, was convicted of stealing four sets of new Maryland license plates from the institution's workshop but Judge Michael J. Manley suspended a 60-day jail sentence.

Green was convicted after testimony by an arresting officer that there had been some book-making on the races inside the penitentiary.

Judge Manley criticized state police officers who worked on the case. Green's only defense was a contention that the officers had induced him to steal the plates to sell to them for $120. The state contended this was a proper way of detecting crime.

The turtle is the only animal on earth that can draw itself up until it is completely surrounded by its ribs.

Remonstrance Filed Against Beer License

A remonstrance has been filed in Circuit Court, against the issuance of a Class A off sale beer license to Mrs. Edith K. Sweitzer, who operates a grocery at 516 Patterson Avenue.

Fifty persons signed the petition, contending that the store is located in a residential section, that there are many children in the area, and the sale of beer would bring "undesirable persons to the neighborhood, who would park in front of our homes, and their conduct and conversation would be detrimental to our children." It was also contended that "the yards in the neighborhood would be littered with empty bottles," by such persons.

Robert MacDonald Bruce, attorney for Mrs. Sweitzer, said under the type license applied for, no beer can be consumed on the premises, and can only be sold for taking home the same as groceries.

A hearing on the remonstrance will be held later before the Allegany County Liquor Control Board. Walter C. Capper, chairman of the Board, said yesterday a session of the Board will be held Thursday at 10 a. m., to transact any business which may come before it. The session will be held in the auxiliary court room, second floor.

Lewis Fined $15.75 On Speeding Charge

In trial Magistrates Court Tuesday, Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., fined Arthur L. Lewis, 520 Maryland Avenue, $15.75 for exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 220 Monday. Lewis, who was arrested by State Trooper G. M. Rotruck, entered a plea of guilty.

L. Preston Ray, Baltimore, forfeited bonds totalling $17.90 for passing on a curve and exceeding 50 miles per hour on Route 40. Ray was arrested Saturday by Trooper William McElfish.

Trooper McElfish also arrested Charles Richard McCreary, 140 Hanover Street, last Friday on a charge of operating an automobile without lights. He was fined $3.75 by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew yesterday after pleading guilty.

Owens' Condition Is Satisfactory

The condition of Charles Owens, Jr., 35, of Woodland, near Frostburg, beaten about the head with a baseball bat Monday after he allegedly shot at his father, was reported satisfactory last night in Miners Hospital, Frostburg. Attaches said, however, that he is still unable to talk.

Authorities said Owens became involved in an argument with his wife, threatened to shoot his family and fired at his father, Charles Owens, Sr., when the latter approached to determine the trouble. After being shot at, the elder Owens allegedly hit his son with the bat.

$15,000 Sought In Fatal Crash

To suits by titling have been docketed in Circuit Court against Norman Ray Collins, Fayette Street. Edward J. Ryan, attorney who entered the suits, indicated a total of $15,000 damages will be asked. The suits result from a motor vehicle crash in which one man was fatally injured and a second seriously hurt.

One case, filed by the State of Maryland for the use and benefit of Branson A. Heavner, father of Riley D. Heavner, 23, Kelly Springfield Tire Company employee, deceased, names Collins as defendant and Ryan said $10,000 will be claimed.

The second suit against Collins is by the State of Maryland for the use of Donald W. Barger, 24, Oldtown Road, who was injured in the mishap, and Ryan said $5,000 will be asked.

Ryan said the accident occurred last Thanksgiving Day on Baltimore Pike, near the eastern edge of the city. A car driven by Barger and Collins' car collided. Heavner was killed and Barger was hospitalized for sometime.

When Ed's Crops Failed

Three years ago Ed Smith's luck went bad. His crops failed, and it wasn't long before Ed's home and furnishings were up for auction.

Half the town turned out, and Ed must have thought his neighbors were a bunch of hungry vultures—buying up all his precious possessions for a song.

When it was over, and the auctioneer had left, Sam Abernathy turns to the crowd and says: "All right, folks, let's take time out for a glass of beer, and then put this stuff back where it belongs!"

Two hours later, Ed was in possession of his home and furnishings; and the folks who'd paid for them were sitting around Ed's fire enjoying a neighborly glass of beer—to show their friendship and their confidence in Ed.

Today, Ed's back on his feet—another constructive member of the community. And from where I sit, we've all been well repaid—a good investment in a good man.

Beall at Hyndman (3:30)

Coach Eddie McVicker's Hyndman High tossers capitalized on a big second inning to keep Paw Paw in the cellar of the Tri-State Conference, while bagging their second victory of the season by a 7-4 score at Hyndman yesterday.

Paw Paw opened the scoring by tallying four runs in the first off Pitcher Ed Shaffer but Hyndman came back in the second by rapping McLaughlin for five hits to bring the count to six.

Stair started the inning with a single and after Charles Waltman walked and Schad singled, Emerick hit a fatal double that sent three runs in. The next batter struck out, Jim Waltman reached first on an error, and stole second. Ritchie flied out and Harden walked and Ed Shaffer's single sent the two runners homeward scoring the fourth and fifth runs. Harden at third, tallied on a wild pitch while Shaffer went to second. Ending the rally, Bryant singled Ed Shaffer home.

Hyndman's other run came in the third and from then on it was a scoreless contest. Ed Shaffer and Jim Waltman held the losers to five hits while the McVickermen touched McLaughlin for 10 safeties. The longest hit in the game was Emerick's double in the second. The box score:

Dixie Walker Questions Scheduling Of Games

ST. LOUIS, May 22 (AP)—The legality of Sam Breadon's decision in scheduling two games between the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals on the afternoon and night of June 14 following a night game between the same teams the day before was questioned today by Dixie Walker, National League representative to the player-management committee. Breadon is the president of the Cardinals.

"I think Ford Frick (president of the National League) will have to rule on it," Walker said. "There's a new restriction against playing double headers following a night game. A day and night game in one day seems like a double header to me."

In New York, Frick said that the matter had not yet "been brought to my attention and I don't know anything about it. If it comes up to me for a ruling I will rule on it."

Softball Loop To Meet

A meeting of Frankfort District Softball League will be held at 8 p. m. Friday in the Ridgeley City Hall. All teams are urged to have a representative at the meeting. Some new teams are to be admitted and a schedule will be drawn up. The league operated last year with six clubs but three vacancies are expected this year.

Williams And Montgomery Expected To Meet In Lightweight Title Bout

Fight May Be Held In Philadelphia

By LEE LINDNER

PHILADELPHIA, May 21—(AP)—They're cooking up a world championship bout between leather tossers Ike Williams and Bob Montgomery to settle the lightweight title muddle once and for all but few Quaker City insiders will admit it.

Chairman Leon Rains of the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission told a reporter today the bout "is in the hopper for things to come though it is not settled by a long shot."

"I am not a matchmaker," Rains declared, but he confirmed reports that attempts are being made—"it's big potatoes"—to land the Williams-Montgomery meeting for Philadelphia.

Herman Taylor, who is a matchmaker and the town's leading promoter—he handled Williams in 25 fights and Montgomery in 29—insisted with a loud bellow:

"Where do you guys get that stuff? We'd like a Williams-Montgomery fight but the press seems to know more about it than we do. Maybe you can tell me what's going on?"

Williams, the Trenton, N. J., battler won the National Boxing Association world title in Mexico City and successfully defended it twice.

Ike tangles with Juste Fontaine of Milwaukee in a 10-rounder at the Philadelphia arena Monday night, his 26th Quaker City bout. Three years ago he was kayoed by Montgomery—backed for the lightweight diadem by the Pennsylvania and New York Athletic Commissions—in the closing seconds of a 12-round non-title go.

"A bout between the two will settle the title discrepency," Rains said.

Another unconfirmed item said the bout was a cinch for Philly's Municipal Stadium — seating more than 96,000—during the first week of August.

To that rumor Taylor screamed: "Are you crazy?"

Umpires Assigned For Bi-State League

George Layman, umpire-in-chief for the Bi-State Baseball League, announced yesterday the umpiring assignments for the coming weekend.

For Saturday's contests: Mt. Savage at Barton, Keister and DiUbaldo; Frostburg at Queen City, Radcliffe and Lease; Midland at Amvets, Middleton and Davis; Lonaconing at Hyndman, Warnick and Martin; and Romney at Westvaco, Dunn and Kelly.

Sunday's assignments; Mt. Savage at Queen City, Martin and Davis; Frostburg at Lonaconing, Radcliffe and Middleton; Midland at Barton, DiUbaldo and Dunn; Hyndman at Westvaco, Blair and Keister; and Amvets at Romney, Warnick and Lease.

Two Are Suspended For "Chaining" Horse

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 21—(AP)—Stewards at the Havre De Grace track announced today that an owner and a groom have been suspended for the "chaining" of a horse last Friday.

The officials said the cases of M. E. Gilbert, Jr., of Halethorpe, Md., owner of Duke-O-Balu, and Walter Purrer, the groom were referred to the Maryland Racing Commission, which announced that criminal charges would be preferred against the men.

The stewards said Puller is charged with cruelty to the animal in an effort to rouse him for a race on Friday. On that day the horse finished next to last in a 12-horse field.

The term "chaining" means to shake and rattle chains to excite the animal.

Sentences Appealed By Two Convicted Maryland Horsemen

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 21 (AP)—Two Maryland horsemen convicted of substituting the horse Flying Kilts for Rounco at Pimlico race track in 1945 asked the Court of Appeals today to set aside their convictions and sentences.

In connection with the "Ringer" Act, James S. O'Donnell was convicted of conspiracy and sentenced to two years in Maryland Penitentiary and Robert B. Sanner of conspiracy and false pretenses and sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction.

The men asked that the lower court be reversed on four grounds.

Attorney Robert W. McCullough told the high tribunal the lower court erred in admitting into evidence a Maryland Jockey Club Racing record of the two horses, condemning it as "hearsay."

He said further that the lower court was wrong in permitting Clarence O. Forrester to refer to his notes and in permitting testimony about a telegram when it was not introduced as evidence.

Lastly, McCullough argued the court should have granted the horsemen's motion for a new trial.

In reply, the State argued that the defendants during the trial made no "timely objection" to the racing records.

Forrester made only one reference to his notes, the State said, and to this the defense did not object. As for the telegram, it was said, no answer was given to the question objected to, and finally that it was elementary that a lower court ruling against a new trial motion was not subject to Court of Appeals review.

Inroc Takes Belmont Park Feature

NEW YORK, May 21 — (AP) — A crowd of 21,745 saw only about one-half of the competition in the first five races today due to a dense fog, but the haze cleared in time for the fans to witness a surprise victory for Inroc in the $15,000 added Roseben Handicap at Belmont Park.

Flying the Jaclyn Stable silks of radio executives Jay Paley and Leon Levy, Inroc was the rank outsider in the field of seven topnotch sprinters, paying $30.80 for $2. The colt waded through the straight six furlongs of slop in 1:10 flat to beat Mrs. Louise's. Donovan's Fighting Frank by three lengths. Joe W. Brown's Brown Mogul was third, another three lengths away. Then, a half length farther behind, came the Elmendorf Farm's heavily weighted and favored Polynesian under 132 pounds.

Inroc earned $11,975 and gave Jockey Johnny Longden a double on the card.

Equibit Wins Feature

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 21 (AP)—E. K. Bryson's Equibit, which took the Pimlico Nursery in his last appearance, boosted his year's total winnings to $14,178.34 today by winning the Havre De Grace Breeders' Stakes in a driving finish.

The son of Equador and Long Bit scored a head decision over Christiana Stables' Theodore and covered the 4½ furlongs in :53 2/5. Mrs. E. Du Pont Weir's Eirearn was third.

The colt, strongly handled by Jockey Al Snider, was the odds-on favorite in the race in which only five 2-year-olds competed and paid $3 for $2. The victory was the third in nine tries this year for Equibit, and brought him $3,583.34.

Cubs Take Lead In National By Defeating Phils

Doyle Lade Hurls Chicago To Victory

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1 today, sweeping their two-game series and taking undisputed possession of first place in the National League.

Doyle Lade, with the help of reliefer Emil Kush, who came in the ninth, took credit for the victory—the Cubs' third straight and the fifth in a row over the Phillies.

Lade, stocky Shreveport rookie, would have had a shutout in a duel with Al Jurisich if it hadn't been for an error by Bill Nicholson in the ninth. Howie Schultz singled with one out and Nicholson made a two-base muff of Charlie Gilbert's fly. Lade then walked Don Padgett on four pitches, the last a wild pitch on which Schutz scored. Kush then took over to get the side out.

DODGERS NIP CARDS

ST. LOUIS, May 21 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers salvaged the final game of a disastrous road trip today by nosing out the last place St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, in 10 innings.

Cookie Lavagetto broke up the game by singling after Pete Reiser and Carl Furillo tapped Harry "the cat" Brecheen for one baggers in the extra frame. The largest St. Louis week-day crowd of the season, 16,249 fans, witnessed the game.

The victory was the Dodgers' fifth in 13 games since they left the friendly confines of Ebbets Field nearly two weeks ago in first place in the National League.

Coach Eddie McVicker's Hyndman High tossers capitalized on a big second inning to keep Paw Paw in the cellar of the Tri-State Conference, while bagging their second victory of the season by a 7-4 score at Hyndman yesterday.

Paw Paw opened the scoring by tallying four runs in the first off Pitcher Ed Shaffer but Hyndman came back in the second by rapping McLaughlin for five hits to bring the count to six.

Stair started the inning with a single and after Charles Waltman walked and Schad singled, Emerick hit a fatal double that sent three runs in. The next batter struck out, Jim Waltman reached first on an error, and stole second. Ritchie flied out and Harden walked and Ed Shaffer's single sent the two runners homeward scoring the fourth and fifth runs. Harden at third, tallied on a wild pitch while Shaffer went to second. Ending the rally, Bryant singled Ed Shaffer home.

Hyndman's other run came in the third and from then on it was a scoreless contest. Ed Shaffer and Jim Waltman held the losers to five hits while the McVickermen touched McLaughlin for 10 safeties. The longest hit in the game was Emerick's double in the second. The box score:

Lastly, McCullough argued the court should have granted the horsemen's motion for a new trial.

In reply, the State argued that the defendants during the trial made no "timely objection" to the racing records.

Forrester made only one reference to his notes, the State said, and to this the defense did not object. As for the telegram, it was said, no answer was given to the question objected to, and finally that it was elementary that a lower court ruling against a new trial motion was not subject to Court of Appeals review.

Inroc Takes Belmont Park Feature

NEW YORK, May 21 — (AP) — A crowd of 21,745 saw only about one-half of the competition in the first five races today due to a dense fog, but the haze cleared in time for the fans to witness a surprise victory for Inroc in the $15,000 added Roseben Handicap at Belmont Park.

Flying the Jaclyn Stable silks of radio executives Jay Paley and Leon Levy, Inroc was the rank outsider in the field of seven topnotch sprinters, paying $30.80 for $2. The colt waded through the straight six furlongs of slop in 1:10 flat to beat Mrs. Louise's. Donovan's Fighting Frank by three lengths. Joe W. Brown's Brown Mogul was third, another three lengths away. Then, a half length farther behind, came the Elmendorf Farm's heavily weighted and favored Polynesian under 132 pounds.

Inroc earned $11,975 and gave Jockey Johnny Longden a double on the card.

Equibit Wins Feature

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., May 21 (AP)—E. K. Bryson's Equibit, which took the Pimlico Nursery in his last appearance, boosted his year's total winnings to $14,178.34 today by winning the Havre De Grace Breeders' Stakes in a driving finish.

The son of Equador and Long Bit scored a head decision over Christiana Stables' Theodore and covered the 4½ furlongs in :53 2/5. Mrs. E. Du Pont Weir's Eireann was third.

The colt, strongly handled by Jockey Al Snider, was the odds-on favorite in the race in which only five 2-year-olds competed and paid $3 for $2. The victory was the third in nine tries this year for Equibit, and brought him $3,583.34.

Cubs Take Lead In National By Defeating Phils

Doyle Lade Hurls Chicago To Victory

CHICAGO, May 21 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 2 to 1 today, sweeping their two-game series and taking undisputed possession of first place in the National League.

Doyle Lade, with the help of reliefer Emil Kush, who came in the ninth, took credit for the victory—the Cubs' third straight and the fifth in a row over the Phillies.

Lade, stocky Shreveport rookie, would have had a shutout in a duel with Al Jurisich if it hadn't been for an error by Bill Nicholson in the ninth. Howie Schultz singled with one out and Nicholson made a two-base muff of Charlie Gilbert's fly. Lade then walked Don Padgett on four pitches, the last a wild pitch on which Schutz scored. Kush then took over to get the side out.

DODGERS NIP CARDS

ST. LOUIS, May 21 (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers salvaged the final game of a disastrous road trip today by nosing out the last place St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, in 10 innings.

Cookie Lavagetto broke up the game by singling after Pete Reiser and Carl Furillo tapped Harry "the cat" Brecheen for one baggers in the extra frame. The largest St. Louis week-day crowd of the season, 16,249 fans, witnessed the game.

The victory was the Dodgers' fifth in 13 games since they left the friendly confines of Ebbets Field nearly two weeks ago in first place in the National League.

Lacy's eked out a narrow 2-1 margin over Maccabees yesterday in a contest that developed into a pitchers' duel between Jim Roby and Tom Cramblitt to hold second place in the City Softball League. In other loop games yesterday the Amvets outlasted Concord Clothiers 18-6, to stay in first place. Virginia Avenue upset Astor Cab, 6 to 4, Reed's beat North End 8-2, and the Vets downed American Legion 7-3.

In the top game of the day, Lacy's tosser, Jim Roby, held the Maccabees to three hits while Tommy Cramblitt hurled four hit ball for the losers. Lacy's tallied one in the first when Penner homered, and in the fifth after Small tripled and stole home. The Maccabees lone score came in the first inning after Aman reached first on a single and Cecil drove him home.

In the Amvet - Concord game, Howie Wilson got a perfect day with four hits for four chances, which included two triples and a double. Wheeler homered for the losers in the fourth with none on.

Dan Fisher was the strong man for the Vets in their 7-3 triumph over the Legion by hammering out three hits in four times at bat. Circuit blows were hit by Fisher and Harrison, Legion pitcher.

Reed's Electricians pounded three North End Club hurlers for a 8-2 victory at Stitcher Field, and Virginia Avenue pulled a mild upset by defeating Astor Cab, 6-4, to round out the day's games.

Yanks Shut Out Detroit 5 To 0

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP) — The New York Yankees deprived Hal Newhouser of his opportunity to reach the .500 mark by walloping the Detroit Tiger star left-hander for a 5-0 decision tonight as Frank Shea annexed his fourth victory in five starts and his initial major league night game triumph. Joe DiMaggio hit a double with the bases full for the first three Yankee runs, while Charley Keller tripled after Tommy Henrich walked, and scored a moment later on Billy Johnson's force-out.

Keller rapped a triple in the eighth after Henrich walked, and then scored on Johnson's force for the final run of the game.

New Harness Racing Association Wants To Operate In Maryland

No Immediate Action Is In Prospect

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP) — A new harness racing association which wants to set up in business on the outskirts of Washington had an application before the Maryland Racing Commission today but there was considerable doubt whether there will be any sulkies spinning around Maryland tracks this summer.

The new organization which plans to set up in Prince Georges County near the District of Columbia line is the Rosecroft Trotting and Pacing Association.

Its application for a permit and racing dates was submitted by M. Hampton Magruder, who resigned recently as president of Maryland's Bowie and Marlboro Tracks after differences with the principal owners and L. Edward O'Hara, acting general manager.

There was no prospect of immediate action on the applications put before the commission by Rosecroft, the Bowie-Marlboro operators, and Bel Air race track.

Meeting Called Off

George P. Mahoney, lame-duck chairman of the Racing Commission, had scheduled a meeting with harness race interests tomorrow to at least lay the groundwork for issuing permits and assigning dates.

Governor Lane, who failed to reappoint Mahoney for a new term starting July 1, zipped a telegram up from Annapolis directing Mahoney to take no final action until the governor had been consulted.

Mahoney called the meeting off.

Apparently there will be no action on harness racing until the chairmanship of the Racing Commission is taken over July 1 by Governor Lane's appointee—Stuart S. Janney, Jr., attorney and gentleman jockey who is grand champion of Maryland's socially-ultra cross country steeplechase racers.

Magruder said he doubted it would be possible for Rosecroft to get into action this season if approval of the application isn't forthcoming in a week.

Rosecroft already is working on a racing strip in the Oxon Hill District adjacent to Washington, but a start on the grandstand and other buildings is awaiting action on the application.

Magruder said they probably couldn't be finished this summer if the approval is long delayed.

Others Want Permits

In filing the application for Rosecroft, Magruder said he believes it was the intention of the General Assembly that permits should go to newly-formed harness racing organizations rather than the already established flat tracks.

The legislature authorized harness racing and pari-mutuel betting at its biennial session early this year.

Two additional groups who are starting from scratch are understood to be ready to ask permits. One of them is the Seven Trotting Association, working on plans for a harness racing park in Anne Arundel County. The Eastern Shore Trotting Association already has started work on a track at Taylorville, in the Ocean City recreation area.

But if there is to be any harness racing in Maryland this summer, it probably will be at existing tracks. They would need only to install lights.

Possible applicants are Timonium, operated along with Pimlico and Laurel by the Maryland Jockey Club, or Hagerstown, Cumberland and Havre De Grace.

Racing circle figured ultimately the 100 days of harness racing authorized by the legislature will be taken up by 20-day meetings at five tracks.

Hanser Claims New Record For Muskies

LAC DU FLAMBEAU, Wis., May 21—(AP)—A new world record for Muskellunge was claimed today by Joe Hanser, of Milwaukee, who exhibited a 58-inch Muskie he said weighed 64 pounds at the time he caught it on rod and reel in Halfway Lake near here.

The present record for Muskies is held by Percy Haver, of Detroit, Mich., who caught one scaling 62½ pounds in the St. Clair river near Detroit.

Hanser said he had an affidavit supporting his contention the Muskie weighed 64 pounds before he removed 12 pounds of spawn.

Halstead Resigns

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 21—(AP)—The resignation of Earle Halstead as general manager of the Williamsport team of the Eastern Baseball League and appointment of Robert J. Steinhilper, Williamsport newspaperman, as his successor, was announced today.

Halstead said he has purchased the Canton, Ohio, franchise in the newly formed Central League effective in the 1948 season and plans to devote all his time lining up that team for next summer's campaign.

Steinhilper will retire as city editor of the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin to take over Halstead's post as general manager.

National Champs File Entries For Frostburg Match

Several national champions have filed entries in the Western Maryland small bore rifle matches to be held in Frostburg Sunday under the auspices of the Frostburg Rifle and Pistol Club.

Among those competing will be the national junior champion Arthur Cook, Washington. Cook, 18, a student at the University of Maryland, won the Western Maryland event in 1946 and took first place honors at the National meet at Camp Perry, Ohio.

Gurney A. Beeman, statistical officer and president of the Frostburg Club, announced that the national women's champ, Mrs. Adelaide McCord, Sweickley, Pa., has filed an entry. Mrs. McCord holds the world's record for 20 shots at 100 yards.

Other topnotch performers expected to enter are Garrett Wayne Moore, Washington, Pa., national men's champ, and Howard Waters, Baltimore, who is the Maryland state titleholder.

The meet will get under way at 8:30 a. m. on the Hoffman range of the Frostburg Club. The second half of the day's events will begin at 1 p. m.

Besides individual events, team matches are scheduled with the contesting teams registering Sunday at the range.

Among the husband and wife entries are Mr. and Mrs. James Ambrose, Sparrows Point.

Legion Battles Caseys For League Leadership

A battle for first place in the Rocking Chair Softball League will be staged today when the Knights of Columbus and the American Legion clash at Fort Hill field.

The Caseys and Legion are undefeated, each team having won their first three games of the season.

The runner-up B.P.O. Elks will play Texcel on the Rolling Mill field, Potomac Edison meets the Loyal Order of Moose at East Side and the Outdoor Club and the Junior Association of Commerce tangle at Campobello.

Savold Breaks Knuckle

BOSTON, May 21—(AP)—Lee Savold, of Paterson, N. J., was reported today to have broken a knuckle in his right hand, forcing cancellation of his scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout with Johnny Shkor of Boston at the Garden Friday night.

Rip Valenti, promoter for the Goodwin A. C., said that Savold was hurt yesterday while training in New York.

Lou Henry Holds Mt. Savage Nine To Two Singles

Frostburg Ekes Out 3-0 Win Yesterday

Playing off Sunday's postponed game, the Frostburg VFW topped Mt. Savage 3-0 in a seven inning contest at Mt. Savage yesterday afternoon.

Sparked by Pitcher Lou Henry, who held the losers to two hits, and by "Red" Spiker's handling 11 chances at second without a miscue, Frostburg scored two in the first and one in the fifth.

Spiker opened the game in the first with a single and scored on Frank Urbas' double. The second run was tallied when Stony Jackson singled to bring Urbas scampering home from second. In the fifth frame Jackson and Norris singled and Buck Winfield's double brought Jackson across the plate to end the scoring.

Hitting honors went to Frank Urbas, Frostburg first sacker, who slammed out two doubles and Winfield who hit one.

Hogan, Demaret Are Favorites In Inquirer Tourney

Big Money Winners Of Year Will Play

By CHARLES WELSH

PHILADELPHIA, May 21—(AP)—A star-studded field of 92, including every member of golfdom's "Big Ten" money winners of 1947, tees off at Cedarbrook Country Club tomorrow in the East's first major tournament of the season—the $15,000 Philadelphia Inquirer Invitational.

Fresh from victory in the Fort Worth Open, Ben Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., par-buster, is ranked as co-favorite with smiling Jim Demaret, 1947 Masters' champ. But they face the toughest professional competition in the game and a course that has well-trapped greens and bristling rough.

The rough was so tough, in fact, that greenskeeper Harry Scott bowed to the practice-round squawks and agreed to trim it to three inches for a distance of 18 feet from each side of the fairways. But anyone who strays beyond that narrow lane will have to chop his way out.

As a result the sharpshooters, after looking over the 6,573-yard par 71 course, agreed the winning 72-hole score should be about 280 or a shot under par each round.

Ranked against Demaret and Hogan, first and second in the cash cavalcade respectively with $14,131 and $12,509 in winnings, are the remainder of the top 10, including Ed (Porky) Oliver, George Schoux, Jim Ferrier, Lloyd Mangrum, Ed Furgol, Johnny Palmer, Lew Worsham and Vic Ghezzi. All have passed the $4,000 mark although far behind the two leaders.

And most of the next 10 money men are entered too with Herman Barron to seek a repeat victory that would move him into the select group.

Giants And Yankees Will Play Series

NEW YORK, May 21—(AP)—The New York Giants and New York Yankees announced today they would play another best two out of three-game series this summer for the Mayor William O'Dwyer trophy, with the principal proceeds going to various agencies devoted to promoting sandlot baseball.

The first game is scheduled the night of June 12 at the Polo Grounds, the second the night of August 18 at Yankee Stadium. If a third game is necessary to decide the series it will be played the night of August 28.

The last time Stan Musial of the Cardinals hit below .310 was in 1938, his first year in organized baseball. He hit .258 in 26 games for Williamson in the Mountain States League. He was a pitcher then.

In the top game of the day, Lacy's tosser, Jim Roby, held the Maccabees to three hits while Tommy Cramblitt hurled for hit ball for the losers. Lacy's tallied one in the first when Penne homered, and in the fifth after Snell tripled and stole home. The Maccabees lone score came in the first inning after Aman reached first on a single and Cecil drove him home.

In the Amvet - Concord game, Howie Wilson got a perfect day with four hits for four chances, which included two triples and a double. Wheeler homred for the losers in the fourth with none on.

Dan Fisher was the strong man for the Vets in their 7-3 triumph over the Legion by hammering out three hits in four times at bat. Circuit blows were dealt by Fisher and Harrison, Legio pitcher.

Reed's Electrician pounded three North End Club hurlers for a 8-2 victory at Stitcher Field, and Virginia Avenue pulled a mild upset by defeating Astor Cab, 6-4, to round out the day's games.

Yanks Shut Out Detroit 5 To 0

NEW YORK, May 21 (AP) — The New York Yankees deprived Hal Newhouser of his opportunity to reach the .500 mark by walloping the Detroit Tiger star left-hander for a 5-0 decision tonight as Frank Shea annexed his fourth victory in five starts and his initial major league night game triumph. Joe DiMaggio hit a double with the bases full for the first three Yankee runs while Charley Keller tripled after Tommy Henrich walked, and scored a moment later on Billy Johnson's force-out.

Keller rapped a triple in the eighth after Henrich walked, and then scored on Johnson's force for the final run of the game.

EPISCOPAL, ST. JHN'S, ZION WIN IN S. 'LOOP

In Sunday School Softball League games yesterday Episcopal, Zion Reformed and St. John's added victories to their string of wins by beating Park Place, Trinity and Presbyterian, respectively.

Tallying eight runs in the seventh inning, Episcopal beat Park Place, 12-6. Circuit blows were clouted by Thom and Brode for the winners and by J. Evans for the losers.

Zion Reformed blanked Trinity in the run department to win 11 to 0 at Penn Avenue field. J. Ruehl, Robertson and Allrew homered for the Zion crew while Norton bagged three of the losers six hits.

In the big running event, St. John's walled Presbyterian 13-1 in a game that was called in the sixth by rain.

No Immediate Action Is In Prospect

BALTIMORE, May 21 (AP) — A new harness racing association which wants to set up in business on the outskirts of Washington had an application before the Maryland Racing Commission today but there was considerable doubt whether there will be any sulkies spinning around Maryland tracks this summer.

The new organization which plans to set up in Prince Georges County near the District of Columbia line is the Rosecroft Trotting and Pacing Association.

Its application for a permit and racing dates was submitted by M. Hampton Magruder, who resigned recently as president of Maryland's Bowie and Marlboro Tracks after differences with the principal owners and L. Edward O'Hara, acting general manager.

There was no prospect of immediate action on the applications put before the commission by Rosecroft, the Bowie-Marlboro operators, and Bel Air race track.

Meeting Called Off

George P. Mahoney, lame-duck chairman of the Racing Commission, had scheduled a meeting with harness race interests tomorrow to at least lay the groundwork for issuing permits and assigning dates.

Governor Lane, who failed to reappoint Mahoney for a new term starting July 1, zipped a telegram up from Annapolis directing Mahoney to take no final action until the governor had been consulted.

Mahoney called the meeting off.

Apparently there will be no action on harness racing until the chairmanship of the Racing Commission is taken over July 1 by Governor Lane's appointee—Stuart S. Janney, Jr., attorney and gentleman jockey who is grand champion of Maryland's socially-ultra cross country steeplechase racers.

Magruder said he doubted it would be possible for Rosecroft to get into action this season if approval of the application isn't forthcoming in a week.

Rosecroft already is working on a racing strip in the Oxon Hill District adjacent to Washington, but a start on the grandstand and other buildings is awaiting action on the application.

Magruder said they probably couldn't be finished this summer if the approval is long delayed.

Others Want Permits

In filing the application for Rosecroft, Magruder said he believes it was the intention of the General Assembly that permits should go to newly-formed harness racing organizations rather than the already established flat tracks.

The legislature authorized harness racing and pari-mutuel betting at its biennial session early this year.

Two additional groups who are starting from scratch are understood to be ready to ask permits. One of them is the Seven Trotting Association, working on plans for a harness racing park in Anne Arundel County. The Eastern Shore Trotting Association already has started work on a track at Taylorville, in the Ocean City recreation area.

But if there is to be any harness racing in Maryland this summer, it probably will be at existing tracks. They would need only to install lights.

Possible applicants are Timonium, operated along with Pimlico and Laurel by the Maryland Jockey Club, or Hagerstown, Cumberland and Havre De Grace.

Racing circle figured ultimately the 100 days of harness racing authorized by the legislature will be taken up by 20-day meetings at five tracks.

Hanser Claims New Record For Muskies

LAC DU FLAMBEAU, Wis., May 21—(AP)—A new world record for Muskellunge was claimed today by Joe Hanser, of Milwaukee, who exhibited a 58-inch Muskie he said weighed 64 pounds at the time he caught it on rod and reel in Halfway Lake near here.

The present record for Muskies is held by Percy Haver, of Detroit, Mich., who caught one scaling 62½ pounds in the St. Clair river near Detroit.

Hanser said he had an affidavit supporting his contention the Muskie weighed 64 pounds before he removed 12 pounds of spawn.

Halstead Resigns

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., May 21—(AP)—The resignation of Earle Halstead as general manager of the Williamsport team of the Eastern Baseball League and appointment of Robert J. Steinhilper, Williamsport newspaperman, as his successor, was announced today.

Halstead said he has purchased the Canton, Ohio, franchise in the newly formed Central League effective in the 1948 season and plans to devote all his time lining up that team for next summer's campaign.

Steinhilper will retire as city editor of the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin to take over Halstead's post as general manager.

National Champs File Entries For Frostburg Match

Several national champions have filed entries in the Western Maryland small bore rifle matches to be held in Frostburg Sunday under the auspices of the Frostburg Rifle and Pistol Club.

Among those competing will be the national junior champion Arthur Cook, Washington. Cook, 18, a student at the University of Maryland, won the Western Maryland event in 1946 and took first place honors at the National meet at Camp Ferry, Ohio.

Gurney A. Beeman, statistical officer and president of the Frostburg Club, announced that the national women's champ, Mrs. Adelaide McCord, Sweickley, Pa., has filed an entry. Mrs. McCord holds the world's record for 20 shots at 100 yards.

Other topnotch performers expected to enter are Garrett Wayne Moore, Washington, Pa., national men's champ, and Howard Waters, Baltimore, who is the Maryland state titleholder.

The meet will get under way at 8:30 a. m. on the Hoffman range of the Frostburg Club. The second half of the day's events will begin at 1 p. m.

Besides individual events, team matches are scheduled with the contesting teams registering Sunday at the range.

Among the husband and wife entries are Mr. and Mrs. James Ambrose, Sparrows Point.

Legion Battles Caseys For League Leadership

A battle for first place in the Rocking Chair Softball League will be staged today when the Knights of Columbus and the American Legion clash at Fort Hill field.

The Caseys and Legion are undefeated, each team having won their first three games of the season.

The runner-up B.P.O. Elks will play Texcel on the Rolling Mill field, Potomac Edison meets the Loyal Order of Moose at East Side and the Outdoor Club and the Junior Association of Commerce tangle at Campobello.

Savold Breaks Knuckle

BOSTON, May 21—(AP)—Lee Savold, of Paterson, N. J., was reported today to have broken a knuckle in his right hand, forcing cancellation of his scheduled 10-round heavyweight bout with Johnny Shkor of Boston at the Garden Friday night.

Rip Valenti, promoter for the Goodwin A. C., said that Savold was hurt yesterday while training in New York.

Frostburg Ekes Out 3-0 Win Yesterday

Playing off Sunday's postponed game, the Frostburg VFW topped Mt. Savage 3-0 in a seven inning contest at Mt. Savage yesterday afternoon.

Sparked by Pitcher Lou Henry, who held the losers to two hits, and by "Red" Spiker's handling 11 chances at second without a miscue, Frostburg scored two in the first and one in the fifth.

Spiker opened the game in the first with a single and scored on Frank Urbas' double. The second run was tallied when Stony Jackson singled to bring Urbas scampering home from second. In the fifth frame Jackson and Norris singled and Buck Winfield's double brought Jackson across the plate to end the scoring.

Hitting honors went to Frank Urbas, Frostburg first sacker, who slammed out two doubles and Winfield who hit one.

The boxscore:

Hogan, Demaret Are Favorites In Inquirer Tourney

Big Money Winners Of Year Will Play

By CHARLES WELSH

PHILADELPHIA, May 21—(AP)—A star-studded field of 92, including every member of golfdom's "Big Ten" money winners of 1947, tees off at Cedarbrook Country Club tomorrow in the East's first major tournament of the season—the $15,000 Philadelphia Inquirer Invitational.

Fresh from victory in the Fort Worth Open, Ben Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., par-buster, is ranked as co-favorite with smiling Jim Demaret, 1947 Masters' champ. But they face the toughest professional competition in the game and a course that has well-trapped greens and bristling rough.

The rough was so tough, in fact, that greenskeeper Harry Scott bowed to the practice-round squawks and agreed to trim it to three inches for a distance of 18 feet from each side of the fairways. But anyone who strays beyond that narrow lane will have to chop his way out.

As a result the sharpshooters, after looking over the 6,573-yard par 71 course, agreed the winning 72-hole score should be about 280 or a shot under par each round.

Ranked against Demaret and Hogan, first and second in the cash cavalcade respectively with $14,131 and $12,509 in winnings, are the remainder of the top 10, including Ed (Porky) Oliver, George Schoux, Jim Ferrier, Lloyd Mangrum, Ed Furgol, Johnny Palmer, Lew Worsham and Vic Ghezzi. All have passed the $4,000 mark although far behind the two leaders.

And most of the next 10 money men are entered too with Herman Barron to seek a repeat victory that would move him into the select group.

Giants And Yankees Will Play Series

NEW YORK, May 21—(AP)—The New York Giants and New York Yankees announced today they would play another best two out of three-game series this summer for the Mayor William O'Dwyer trophy, with the principal proceeds going to various agencies devoted to promoting sandlot baseball.

The first game is scheduled the night of June 12 at the Polo Grounds, the second the night of August 18 at Yankee Stadium. If a third game is necessary to decide the series it will be played the night of August 28.

The last time Stan Musial of the Cardinals hit below .310 was in 1938, his first year in organized baseball. He hit .258 in 26 games for Williamson in the Mountain States League. He was a pitcher then.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

This column is going to say something nice about the Russians. I'm writing it at the request of my postman. He complains that every time I put a whammy on the Comrades, he gets a backache carrying in the mail.

Billy Rose

He has a point there. When I kid Senator Taft, I may get all of two postcards from Ohio chiding me for using "that" where I should have used "which." When I aim my peashooter at Henry Wallady in Maine sents me a recipe for Caromile tea.

But let me get gay with Uncle Joe and his joes, and I get snowblind looking at white envelopes.

I'm for permitting our 75,000 Communists to use the mails—but, please, not all at once.

Today I come with an olive branch between my teeth. I have a story about some goings-on behind the Impenetrable Portiere, which gives Ivan all the best of it. This story concerns itself with fundamental justice.

On your Marx, set, go!

A couple of winters back, Sophie Buloff, a trim little steamshovel operator, sat alone in her room in Moscow. Her chum, Olga, had become friendly with a Commissar and moved into larger quarters. Sophie was wondering whom the Housing Bureau would assign as her new roommate. Though the room was on the small side, she recognized the necessity for sharing it. It was the duty of every Comrade to cooperate until the new Fifty-Year Plan provided adequate living quarters. Anyhow, it was better than New York, where they had no plan at all.

There was a knock on the door. A young man entered and set his bundled possessions down on the floor. He looked at Sophie and frowned. "I am Boris Pronovich," he announced. "The Housing Bureau has assigned half of this room to me."

"The Bureau must have made a mistake," Sophie protested.

Boris shrugged. "It is not for us to question the decisions of a government agency."

It was cold that winter. Even for Moscow.

When the baby was born, Sophie was happy at first. "He will grow up to be a nuclear physicist," she cooed.

But Boris was not so happy. Parenthood and its responsibilities were not on his agenda. He informed Sophie he didn't consider himself responsible for the support of the little one. The young mother took him to court.

The Moscow courts are set up a little differently than ours. In the case of Sophie vs. Boris, there were two judges, citizens without legal training. The third man on the bench was a counsellor who advised the two laymen on questions of law.

Sophie took the witness stand and stated her case. Boris was the father of her child and should be compelled to support it.

Then Boris testified. "It is true I am the father," he said. "But I don't think I should be held responsible for the support of the infant. The Housing Bureau assigned me to a room. The room is eight feet long and seven feet wide. There was a woman in that room. It was a cold winter."

Boris sat down. The judges went into a huddle.

I think their decision a just one and a credit to the Soviet legal system.

They ordered that the child be supported by the party really responsible—the Housing Bureau.

By JOHN CROSBY

Transatlantic Quiz

One of the most literate and entertaining new programs is surprisingly enough a quiz. It's called "Transatlantic Quizz" and for some time has been one of the British Broadcasting Corporation's most popular programs in England. It may be heard in this country only over WINS in New York (8:30 p. m. EDT Saturdays), although it certainly ought to have a wider circulation.

John Crosby

An American team in New York—Christoper Morley, the author, and John Mason Brown, the critic,—are pitted against an English team in London which consists of Professor Dennis Brogan and Miss Joyce Grenfell. The English team answers questions about this country, many of which are tough enough to stump most Americans, and the Americans answer questions about England. The English questions are very rough indeed for any American not thoroughly familiar with that country.

Here are a few of them. What London thoroughfare is open when its shut and shut when it's open? The answer, correctly supplied by Mr. Morley, is London Bridge. What is it that the guards may carry at St. James but "in the field it's ridiculous." Mr. Morley guessed babies on that one. The right answer is umbrellas and it was Wellington who laid down the rule at Waterloo. (The American Army is even more strict in this regard. American officers aren't supposed to carry umbrellas under any circumstances.)

What is the name of the recently demobbed lady whose number is 534? The Queen Mary, said Mr. Morley correctly; 534 was the ship's number in the Clyde shipyard.

I don't know where Mr. Morley picks up these odd bits of English information but he was plentifully supplied with it. Mr. Brown, I'm afraid, had a bad night.

Meanwhile, the English pair successfully grappled with a number of strictly American questions. Professor Brogan knew that General McArthur has just been commissioned an Admiral but he didn't know in whose navy. (Nebraska Navy). The English pair also identified the man from Hannibal (Mark Twain) the woman of the year (Katherine Hepburn) and the man from Mars (Orson Welles). They were pretty hep on American slang too but they missed—and so did I—on the phrases "in the big apple" and "on the big apple." The first refers to a fruit picker in Oregon; the second to jockeys who go from track to track to ride in the big stake races.

Incidentally, they keep score on the program. The English team won this one seventeen to sixteen after the lead had changed hands several times.

WJZ in co-operation with the Public Education Association is doing a very sturdy and imaginative job on a series of programs (12 noon EDT Saturdays) designed to stir up a little public interest in the deficiencies of New York's public schools. I never thought anyone could succeed in dramatizing a school budget but the job was done very effectively on one of these programs called "Alice in Budgetland."

"When we left Alice last week," said a narrator, "she had just fallen through a hole in the floor of a pre-Civil War schoolhouse—down, down . . ."

In Budgetland, Alice runs into the Budgetman, a huge giant representing New York City's $1,000,000,000 budget. "This is the education budget of the city of New York," says the Budgetman, producing a smaller but quite sizable giant. "$94,0000,000. Behold and tremble taxpayer!"

It's quite a giant all right until an atomic reducing gun diminishes it to its proper size—$1 a day per pupil. The author Philip Barber, explored the whole education budget item by item and I defy anyone to make figures that absorbing ever again. Another program called attention to the woeful condition of the school's textbooks. A teacher quizzed a seventh grade student whose answers came straight from New York City's outdated textbooks. Here are some of the questions and answers:

Q. What are the latest types of aircraft?

A. A Curtis biplane and a Caprioni triplane.

Q. What's the population of the United States?

A. About 106,000,000.

Q. How about New York City?

A. About 5,500,000.

Town Meeting To Discuss Ways To Avoid Depression

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 21—America's Town Meeting, continuing its broadcast career from New York, and with one week to go for its twelfth anniversary, will put this question: "How Can We Avoid An Economic Bust?" It's on ABC at 8:30 Thursday night.

On either side of the question will be Sen. Joseph H. Ball, of Minnesota, and Chester Bowles, former OPA head. This time the plan of using interrogators will be put back into the program, they to be Richard V. Gilbert and George Terborgh, economists.

From San Francisco, originating in the center of the Golden Gate bridge, NBC at 12 noon is to have a 15-minute tribute to merchant seamen who went down with their ships. The occasion is maritime day.

Mrs. Wendell Willkie is the announced guest for the Betty Crocker program on ABC at 10:25 a. m. She is to discuss her views on how American women best can serve their communities.

The third of the AFL variety shows is on the ABC schedule for 9:30 p. m. It is to originate in Hollywood.

Vician della Chiesa as well as Francesco Valentino are to be guest singers of the Alfredo Antonini concert on MBS at 8:30. There will be both popular and concert numbers.

Story of Music, late concert on NBC at 10:30, as provided by instrumentalists of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y., will concentrate on Mozart's divertimento in D Major, No. 17. There will be two horns and a string quartet.

Manhattan Memoranda

Henry Wallace to be a candidate for the Noble Peace Prize, according to a recent visitor abroad who knows members of the Storthing (Norwegian Parliament) . . . An international banking flash is due out of Switzerland, purposely emanating from there instead of Washington. Something to do with cartels. . . . International Swiss banking experts, incidentally, are predicting a depression in this country that will last until 1949. (It was the failure of a Swiss bank that teed off the 1929 Wall Street crash.) . . . Those who claim to be on the inside say the Morgan banking interests are behind a new Sewell Avery-Montgomery Ward news item. . . For the Interesting If True Department: Clara Booth Luce, regretting her hiatus from politics, has GOP approval to run for Representative from Connecticut in 1948, with an eye toward the Senatorial opening which comes in 1950. Denials are in order.

Clara Booth Luce

Faye Emerson and Helmut Dantine will be teamed in a new comedy, currently titled "Profile," at the Cape Playhouse, Dennis, Mass., this Summer, if that's news. . . . Rita Hayworth has the inside track for the lead in "Rain Girl," the life story of Jeanne Eagels. Rita, now entertaining our occupation forces overseas, is due in New York for the Music Hall premiere of "Down to Earth." . . . Next month will mark the tenth anniversary of Jean Harlow's death. Filmdom's Blonde Bombshell (she was the first to be given such a title, if memory serves) will be honored by a screen biography called "The Gallant Life," soon due before the cameras. . . . The movie studios already are dickering for Gen. Mark Clark's exploits, as limned in his six articles for the North American Newspaper Alliance. . . . There's talk of making Nancy Mitford's best-seller, "Pursuit of Love," in England as a vehicle for Vivien Leigh. . . Frances Dee will be billed as Frances D. McCrea for the first time in her next, "They Passed This Way."

Lady Suzanne Wilkins, currently penning a New York gossip column for an Australian newspaper chain, contemplates a two weeks' singing engagement at Dorchester House, London. . . . Marion Dresser will postpone her decision about divorcing Brad Dresser until her husband winds up his hotel venture with Errol Flynn in Jamaica. . . . John Boggiano holding a Saturday noon wedding reception for his daughter, Joan Marie, who weds William Dennis Fugazy that morning. Fugazy, Cornell alumnus and former lieutenant in the Navy, is a grandson of Commodore Thomas Fugazy, founder of the Italian-American Bank and Steamship Exchange in New York. . . . Another pre-June bride will be Dora Salmaggi, daughter of Brooklyn's operatic impresario, who becomes Mrs. John Truzzolino, Sunday, with a reception afterward at Brooklyn's Hotel Granada, to which the 300-odd Salmaggi relatives have been invited.

Permit Appeal Filed

Joseph Robinette, 540 North Centre Street has filed an appeal to the Board of Zoning Appeals for a permit to occupy Lot 39 at 140 Thomas Street as a used car lot and office. His application was denied in the city engineer's office because the vacant lot is located in a Residential B zoning district.

Robinette said he plans to move the one-story frame office building from his present used car lot on Orchard Street to the Thomas Street location if the permit is granted. The building measures 8 by 10 feet.

HOLLYWOOD, May 20—There's a terrific battle looming between Sam Goldwyn and Charles Hoover over whether or not the famed Goldwyn Girls can be booked into night clubs and be advertised as "Goldwyn Girls." And when I say battle, I mean legal fireworks.

Donald Nelson

Hoover is a manager who has signed the latest batch of beauties, just in from a personal appearance tour for Sam, to contracts for night club and cafe appearances. Sam got word of it and had his lawyer put a "stop" order on the deal.

Now Hoover is saying that his attorney tells him that such action is "restraint of trade"—or not being permitted to earn a living, to you and me.

Sam has always had a rule in the past that Goldwyn Girls could not capitalize on that title unless they were officially advertising one of his movies—and that seems fair enough.

Chatter in Hollywood: I had a talk with Hedy Lamarr, who says she is in miserable health, and that her little son, Tony, is very anemic. Hedy says all she wants to do is to go to Lake Tahoe with Jamie, her six-year-old son, and rest.

She admits that all is not sunshine and roses with John Loder, but that maybe when he gets back things may be worked out. She says he has to come home and stay with the other two babies so she can get a rest.

"Of course, I can't blame him for getting a job in New York when he couldn't get one here," said Hedy, "but it's not fair for me to be left alone when I'm so sick."

I seldom have been more touched by a letter than one sent to me by Mary Wallace, a girl of 14 who is seriously ill with heart trouble.

Mary writes that all she wants in the world is to see a picture of Errol Flynn and his family—Nora and the two children. She has always adored Errol.

The pathetic part is that Mary's mother writes a postscript enclosing $20 for my help, and unfortunately, Mrs. Wallace didn't send her address, as I want to return the money.

I am sure, if it is possible, Errol will comply with Mary's wish, since the little girl is so ill. Her father was killed in the war.

If Mrs. Wallace will please send me her address, I will return the money.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—The story that Donald Nelson has placed an engagement ring on the finger of Valerie Rowell, English girl, has been denied by Donald, himself. He says he has no intention of marrying her or anyone else.

The Gene Tierney-Alfred Corning Clark romance is regarded in New York as very serious. Gene is now in Bermuda with her sister Pat. Other weekend visitors in Bermuda were David Selznick, Jennifer Jones and Anita Colby.

Well, Hollywood will soon be called upon to welcome Joyce Otis, heiress to the Otis Elevator millions. She's trying for a screen career. Going up?

Gail Patrick has corralled Candy Bergen, Kimberly Kyser, Maureen and Michael Reagan, Marie Farrow, and John Ridgeley Howard as models for her fashion show next week. You can bet all their parents will be there, and I don't need to tell you who they are.

Dwight Fiske is booked to appear at the Zephyr room at the Chapman Park Hotel, and that's good news to the legion of Fiske friends.

Rita Hayworth will spend a few days visiting Marlene Dietrich on the Riviera.

A Hollywood romance attracting attention is that of Bob Livingston, western actor, and Julie Starr, ex-wife of columnist Jimmy Starr.

That's all today.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By BILLY ROSE

This column is going to say something nice about the Russians. I'm writing it at the request of my postman. He complains that every time I put a whammy on the Comrades, he gets a backache carrying in the mail.

Billy Rose

He has a point there. When I kid Senator Taft, I may get all of two postcards from Ohio chiding me for using "that" where I should have used "which." When I aim my peashooter at Henry Wallady in Maine sents me a recipe for Caromile tea.

But let me get gay with Uncle Joe and his joes, and I get snowblind looking at white envelopes.

I'm for permitting our 75,000 Communists to use the mails—but, please, not all at once.

Today I come with an olive branch between my teeth. I have a story about some goings-on behind the Impenetrable Portiere, which gives Ivan all the best of it. This story concerns itself with fundamental justice.

On, your Marx, set, go!

A couple of winters back, Sophie Buloff, a trim little steamshovel operator, sat alone in her room in Moscow. Her chum, Olga, had become friendly with a Commissar and moved into larger quarters. Sophie was wondering whom the Housing Bureau would assign as her new roommate. Though the room was on the small side, she recognized the necessity for sharing it. It was the duty of every Comrade to cooperate until the new Fifty-Year Plan provided adequate living quarters. Anyhow, it was better than New York, where they had no plan at all.

There was a knock on the door. A young man entered and set his bundled possessions down on the floor. He looked at Sophie and frowned. "I am Boris Pronovich," he announced. "The Housing Bureau has assigned half of this room to me."

"The Bureau must have made a mistake," Sophie protested.

Boris shrugged. "It is not for us to question the decisions of a government agency."

It was cold that winter. Even for Moscow.

When the baby was born, Sophie was happy at first. "He will grow up to be a nuclear physicist," she cooed.

But Boris was not so happy. Parenthood and its responsibilities were not on his agenda. He informed Sophie he didn't consider himself responsible for the support of the little one. The young mother took him to court.

The Moscow courts are set up a little differently than ours. In the case of Sophie vs. Boris, there were two judges, citizens without legal training. The third man on the bench was a counsellor who advised the two laymen on questions of law.

Sophie took the witness stand and stated her case. Boris was the father of her child and should be compelled to support it.

Then Boris testified. "It is true I am the father," he said. "But I don't think I should be held responsible for the support of the infant. The Housing Bureau assigned me to a room. The room is eight feet long and seven feet wide. There was a woman in that room. It was a cold winter."

Boris sat down. The judges went into a huddle.

I think their decision a just one and a credit to the Soviet legal system.

They ordered that the child be supported by the party really responsible—the Housing Bureau.

Transatlantic Quiz

One of the most literate and entertaining new programs is surprisingly enough a quiz. It's called "Transatlantic Quizz" and for some time has been one of the British Broadcasting Corporation's most popular programs in England. It may be heard in this country only over WINS in New York (8:30 p. m. EDT Saturdays), although it certainly ought to have a wider circulation.

John Crosby

An American team in New York—Christoper Morley, the author, and John Mason Brown, the critic,—are pitted against an English team in London which consists of Professor Dennis Brogan and Miss Joyce Grenfell. The English team answers questions about this country, many of which are tough enough to stump most Americans, and the Americans answer questions about England. The English questions are very rough indeed for any American not thoroughly familiar with that country.

Here are a few of them. What London thoroughfare is open when its shut and shut when it's open? The answer, correctly supplied by Mr. Morley, is London Bridge. What is it that the guards may carry at St. James but "in the field it's ridiculous." Mr. Morley guessed babies on that one. The right answer is umbrellas and it was Wellington who laid down the rule at Waterloo. (The American Army is even more strict in this regard. American officers aren't supposed to carry umbrellas under any circumstances.)

What is the name of the recently demobbed lady whose number is 534? The Queen Mary, said Mr. Morley correctly; 534 was the ship's number in the Clyde shipyard.

I don't know where Mr. Morley picks up these odd bits of English information but he was plentifully supplied with it. Mr. Brown, I'm afraid, had a bad night.

Meanwhile, the English pair successfully grappled with a number of strictly American questions. Professor Brogan knew that General McArthur has just been commissioned an Admiral but he didn't know in whose navy. (Nebraska Navy). The English pair also identified the man from Hannibal (Mark Twain) the woman of the year (Katherine Hepburn) and the man from Mars (Orson Welles). They were pretty hep on American slang too but they missed—and so did I—on the phrases "in the big apple" and "on the big apple." The first refers to a fruit picker in Oregon; the second to jockeys who go from track to track to ride in the big stake races.

Incidentally, they keep score on the program. The English team won this one seventeen to sixteen after the lead had changed hands several times.

WJZ in co-operation with the Public Education Association is doing a very sturdy and imaginative job on a series of programs (12 noon EDT Saturdays) designed to stir up a little public interest in the deficiencies of New York's public schools. I never thought anyone could succeed in dramatizing a school budget but the job was done very effectively on one of these programs called "Alice in Budgetland."

"When we left Alice last week," said a narrator, "she had just fallen through a hole in the floor of a pre-Civil War schoolhouse—down, down . . ."

In Budgetland, Alice runs into the Budgetman, a huge giant representing New York City's $1,000,000,000 budget. "This is the education budget of the city of New York," says the Budgetman, producing a smaller but quite sizable giant. "$94,0000,000. Behold and tremble taxpayer!"

It's quite a giant all right until an atomic reducing gun diminishes it to its proper size—$1 a day per pupil. The author Philip Barber, explored the whole education budget item by item and I defy anyone to make figures that absorbing ever again. Another program called attention to the woeful condition of the school's textbooks. A teacher quizzed a seventh grade student whose answers came straight from New York City's outdated textbooks. Here are some of the questions and answers:

Q. What are the latest types of aircraft?

A. A Curtis biplane and a Caprioni triplane.

Q. What's the population of the United States?

A. About 106,000,000.

Q. How about New York City?

A. About 5,500,000.

Town Meeting To Discuss Ways To Avoid Depression

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, May 21—America's Town Meeting, continuing its broadcast career from New York, and with one week to go for its twelfth anniversary, will put this question: "How Can We Avoid An Economic Bust?" It's on ABC at 8:30 Thursday night.

On either side of the question will be Sen. Joseph H. Ball, of Minnesota, and Chester Bowles, former OPA head. This time the plan of using interrogators will be put back into the program, they to be Richard V. Gilbert and George Terborgh, economists.

From San Francisco, originating in the center of the Golden Gate bridge, NBC at 12 noon is to have a 15-minute tribute to merchant seamen who went down with their ships. The occasion is maritime day.

Mrs. Wendell Willkie is the announced guest for the Betty Crocker program on ABC at 10:25 a. m. She is to discuss her views on how American women best can serve their communities.

The third of the AFL variety shows is on the ABC schedule for 9:30 p. m. It is to originate in Hollywood.

Vician della Chiesa as well as Francesco Valentino are to be guest singers of the Alfredo Antonini concert on MBS at 8:30. There will be both popular and concert numbers.

Story of Music, late concert on NBC at 10:30, as provided by instrumentalists of the Eastman School of Music at Rochester, N. Y., will concentrate on Mozart's divertimento in D Major, No. 17. There will be two horns and a string quartet.

Permit Appeal Filed

Joseph Robinette, 540 North Centre Street has filed an appeal to the Board of Zoning Appeals for a permit to occupy Lot 39 at 140 Thomas Street as a used car lot and office. His application was denied in the city engineer's office because the vacant lot is located in a Residential B zoning district.

Robinette said he plans to move the one-story frame office building from his present used car lot on Orchard Street to the Thomas Street location if the permit is granted. The building measures 8 by 10 feet.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, May 20—There's a terrific battle looming between Sam Goldwyn and Charles Hoover over whether or not the famed Goldwyn Girls can be booked into night clubs and be advertised as "Goldwyn Girls." And when I say battle, I mean legal fireworks.

Donald Nelson

Hoover is a manager who has signed the latest batch of beauties, just in from a personal appearance tour for Sam, to contracts for night club and cafe appearances. Sam got word of it and had his lawyer put a "stop" order on the deal.

Now Hoover is saying that his attorney tells him that such action is "restraint of trade"—or not being permitted to earn a living, to you and me.

Sam has always had a rule in the past that Goldwyn Girls could not capitalize on that title unless they were officially advertising one of his movies—and that seems fair enough.

Chatter in Hollywood: I had a talk with Hedy Lamarr, who says she is in miserable health, and that her little son, Tony, is very anemic. Hedy says all she wants to do is to go to Lake Tahoe with Jamie, her six-year-old son, and rest.

She admits that all is not sunshine and roses with John Loder, but that maybe when he gets back things may be worked out. She says he has to come home and stay with the other two babies so she can get a rest.

"Of course, I can't blame him for getting a job in New York when he couldn't get one here," said Hedy, "but it's not fair for me to be left alone when I'm so sick."

I seldom have been more touched by a letter than one sent to me by Mary Wallace, a girl of 14 who is seriously ill with heart trouble.

Mary writes that all she wants in the world is to see a picture of Errol Flynn and his family—Nora and the two children. She has always adored Errol.

The pathetic part is that Mary's mother writes a postscript enclosing $20 for my help, and unfortunately, Mrs. Wallace didn't send her address, as I want to return the money.

I am sure, if it is possible, Errol will comply with Mary's wish, since the little girl is so ill. Her father was killed in the war.

If Mrs. Wallace will please send me her address, I will return the money.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:—The story that Donald Nelson has placed an engagement ring on the finger of Valerie Rowell, English girl, has been denied by Donald, himself. He says he has no intention of marrying her or anyone else.

The Gene Tierney-Alfred Corning Clark romance is regarded in New York as very serious. Gene is now in Bermuda with her sister Pat. Other weekend visitors in Bermuda were David Selznick, Jennifer Jones and Anita Colby.

Well, Hollywood will soon be called upon to welcome Joyce Otis, heiress to the Otis Elevator millions. She's trying for a screen career. Going up?

Gail Patrick has corralled Candy Bergen, Kimberly Kyser, Maureen and Michael Reagan, Marie Farrow, and John Ridgeley Howard as models for her fashion show next week. You can bet all their parents will be there, and I don't need to tell you who they are.

Dwight Fiske is booked to appear at the Zephyr room at the Chapman Park Hotel, and that's good news to the legion of Fiske friends.

Rita Hayworth will spend a few days visiting Marlene Dietrich on the Riviera.

A Hollywood romance attracting attention is that of Bob Livingston, western actor, and Julie Starr, ex-wife of columnist Jimmy Starr.

Stocks Advance Up To Three Points In One Of Best 1947 Performances

NEW YORK, May 21 — (AP) — Stocks staged their third best performance of the year in today's market with gains to around three points.

Support for a wide assortment of industrials and rails arrived in early afternoon to lift the list out of an irregular trading range. Steels, motors, oils, beverages and some special stocks were prominent risers. Transactions expanded to 1,020,000 shares from 920,000 Tuesday.

Schenley closed up 1¼ at 26½. Atlantic Coast Line gained 3¼ to 45½. Pere Marquette issues lifted three points or more, the common to 19½, on ICC approval of its merger with Chesapeake and Ohio.

The rarely-traded Coca Cola International made its first showing on the tape since February, 1942, selling at 1150 compared with 470 on its last appearance. Coca Cola common at 145 was up 2¼. Pepsi-Cola gained 1¼ to 28⅜.

Others prominently ahead were Santa Fe at 72¼, Standard Oil (NJ) at 69¾, American Woolen at 33, United States Steel at 64¾, Chrysler up three at 98¾, Caterpillar Tractor at 52, Texas Company, International Paper, Timken Roller Bearing, Westinghouse Electric and Phelps Dodge. Among losers were United States Hoffman, Hercules Powder and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Curb climbers included Cities Service, Louisiana Land, Illinois Power and Electric Bond and Share. Turnover of 230,000 shares here compared with 250,000 yesterday.

Railroad issues shook off early irregularity and moved up to final gains running to around three points in bond dealings.

Turnover increased as more bids came into the market to a total of $4,043,000. This compared with $3,880,000 Tuesday.

United States government bonds moved narrowly in the over-the-counter market. The Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-'72 advanced 1-32 to 103 12-32 bid.

Win-Some Class Holds Mother-Daughter Banquet

The Win-Some Class of the Young People's Department of the Grace Baptist Church held its Mother-Daughter banquet Tuesday night at the church with Mrs. Virginia Green as mistress of ceremonies.

Greetings were extended to the mothers by Mrs. Virginia Green and Mrs. A. L. Murrell responded for the mothers. A poem entitled, "Flowers," was read by Mrs. Louise Wiseman, while the daughters pinned the corsages on their guests. The invocation was given by Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, Jr., and Miss Faye Murrell offered the toast. Following the banquet Mrs. Anne Hobbs recited a poem, "My Birthday;" Mrs. Janet Dodson gave a poem, "Mother," and the closing prayer was given by Mrs. Wilma Straw. The program closed by all joining hands and singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Their guests were Mrs. Gerland Lancaster, Mrs. Fern Wilson, Mrs. T. L. Rudd, Mrs. Ross Working, Mrs. K. H. Crutchfield, Mrs. Georgia Robbins, Mrs. D. A. Wilt, Mrs. R. C. Wilt, Mrs. James Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Walter Bucy, Mrs. A. L. Murrell and Rev. and Mrs. Keefe.

DeMolay Alumni To Mark Anniversary

Sanford H. Buley Chapter, DeMolay Alumni will celebrate its twentieth anniversary with a dance tomorrow night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club. The chapter, organized May 1927, with ten members has for the past ten years had a membership restricted to 30 men.

The dance will be semi-formal and no program has been planned. Arty Brill's Orchestra will play from 9 until 1 o'clock.

Henry Gehauf is chairman of the committee of arrangements and is being assisted by Llewyn Davis and Thomas Smouse.

Voters To Be Told How To Operate Voting Machines

Spoiled Ballots Are Not Likely

Allegany County voters will be given complete instructions in the operation of voting machines prior to their first use in a primary and general election, according to information received by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, from the Automatic Voting Machine Corporation.

Gov. William Preston Lane has signed into law two measures, one providing for the purchase of the machines and the other for their financing, but petitions are now being circulated calling for a referendum at the next election in a move to at least delay their acquisition until after that date.

Misleading Statements

One county political leader said yesterday that a number of residents of the Georges Creek section are being misled into signing the petitions by statements that voting machines will lead to an increase in the number of spoiled ballots, but this spokesman said that past experience does not bear out these assertions.

The Automatic Voting Machine Corporation informed Fletcher that prior to the first use of the machines in a primary and general election it will send a representative, at no extra charge to the county, to assist in the installation of the machines to the end that the voters may be properly instructed in their operation.

Election officers also would be properly informed as to their duties and local election authorities would be familiarized with the adjustment of the machines for all types of primaries and elections, the concern stated.

Its letter also explained that the firm will furnish with each voting machine, at no extra charge, a mechanical model which is a duplicate of the face of the machine to facilitate the instruction of voters.

No Possibility Of Error

Referring to spoilage of ballots, it was pointed out that the voter himself turns downward an arrow on the machine as he prepares to vote and that theare is no possibility whatsoever once the arrow is turned downward of making an error or spoiling a ballot when the lever operating the machine is pulled.

In Montgomery County and Baltimore City where voting machines have been in use for a number of years, voters have experienced no difficulty in operating them, and one political leader pointed out that ballot spoilage with the use of voting machines is less than with the use of paper ballots.

He added that Allegany County residents should not be misled into signing the petitions being circulated on the basis of statements that the machines will tend to increase ballot spoilage.

Pythian Officer Praises Work Of County Lodges

Approximately 125 representatives of Knights of Pythias lodges in Allegany and Garrett Counties attended a meeting at the home of Queen City Lodge No. 136, Virginia Avenue, last night, to welcome Maryland Grand Lodge officers in their first official visitation to this area this year.

A. Elwood Martak, Baltimore, grand keeper of records and seals, who was the principal speaker, commended the Allegany and Garrett lodges for their co-operation with the Grand Lodge in its various programs.

He also commented on the unusual showing made by the two counties in the recent public speaking contest sponsored by the Supreme Lodge, recalling that Calvin Mahaney, Fort Hill High School senior, will compete this Saturday in Frederick with other boys and girls from the District of Columbia, Maryland and West Virginia.

The winner of that contest will participate in the regional speaking contest in Washington, D. C., next month, and the winner will go to Beaumont, Tex., for the national finals in August.

Martak outlined some points in the Grand Lodge program for the balance of the term, which will end next fall, and also discussed recent alterations in the bylaws of the Supreme Lodge. He predicted that a number of new lodges will be organized in Maryland in the near future.

Clinton M. Easton, Catonsville, grand chancellor, outlined Pythian activities not generally known to the public, which were conducted during the past year. They include the presentation of an "iron lung" to Baltimore; underwriting the cost of a formula room added to the Harry Lane Clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and assistance of various lodges in the state to civic events such as Community Chest campaigns.

O. M. Brotemarkle, Cumberland, supreme representative, discussed the tenets and teachings of the order. Nelson W. Russler, chairman of the grand lodge council, this city, presided.

Other officers present were Joseph R. Walters, Baltimore, grand master of the exchequer; Dan R. Kimball, Havre de Grace, past grand chancellor; Julius E. Schindler and Robert B. Kimble, this city, past grand chancellors; Joseph C. Wilson, district deputy grand chancellor; John C. Fisher, special deputy grand chancellor; and Frank J. Davis, grand outer guard.

The visiting officers toured Lonaconing, Midland and Frostburg during the day.

No Trace Found

No trace has yet been found of Daniel Baker, aged farmer of near Finzel, Garrett County, who disappeared from home last Saturday morning, Pennsylvania State Police at Somerset said last night.

Deaf Mute Waives Jury Indictment, Trial Opens Today

Hamilton Charged With Breaking And Entering

John Paul Hamilton, 24-year-old Rochester, N. Y., deaf mute, being held in connection with a breaking and entering at Johnson Heights Elementary School May 7, will be tried today in Circuit Court after waiving a grand jury indictment, according to county authorities.

Hamilton, who was apprehended by Officer P. M. Crabtree as he climbed from a school window, signed a statement admitting the breaking and entering charge, then waived a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and was ordered held for grand jury under $500 bond.

Yesterday Hamilton filed a "petition and suggestion" in Circuit Court asking for an immediate trial on the charges and waived the right to await a grand jury indictment.

In the petition Hamilton asked an immediate trial by the court "sitting as jury without regard to terms of court upon criminal information filed by the office of the State's Attorney."

In the answer filed by the State's Attorney Hamilton is charged with breaking and entering the school on the morning of May 7 with the intent to steal goods valued at $25.

County officials said Hamilton has the right to waive a grand jury indictment and seek an immediate trial under Chapter 788 of the 1945 Acts of the Maryland Legislature. They explained that any person being held on charges of a misdemeanor can seek an immediate trial by waiving the jury indictment.

In waiving the indictment, authorities said Hamilton will be given a trial this morning. His action in filing the "petition and suggestion" papers will serve the same as an indictment charging him with breaking and entering and intent to steal.

Hamilton created much disturbance in City Police Headquarters when police attempted to question him by writing questions and trying to get him to write answers. The process proved slow and Hamilton at one point wrote "I will not tell you anything, because you do not understand me. I have been told that policemen have hard hearts."

Police later secured a person who understands the sign language and completed their investigation. Hamilton, according to authorities, has not yet retained an attorney because of his financial status. Police quoted him as declaring he broke into the school because he was hungry.

Chamber Of Commerce Seeks Members Views

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce is asking members of the organization to assist in laying out the program of activities for the fiscal year which begins July 1, and notices to that effect were sent out yesterday by Harold W. Smith, secretary.

Smith said that the Board of Directors wants to know what the members have to say with regard to the activities of the Chamber, and what they think the Chamber should undertake.

In order to make it possible for all members to express their views, the Chamber proposes to hold a series of meetings in groups of approximately 15 members.

A questionnaire has been mailed out asking the members what time will be most convenient for them to attend meetings, whether at 10:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. or 7:30 p. m. When replies have been received members will be notified the day and time the group, in which they will be included, will meet.

Kelly Union Will Seek New Contract

A. E. Johnson, president of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, said yesterday the union has notified the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company of a desire to open contract negotiations.

The contract expires July 1 but wages will not be a subject of discussion under a previous agreement, Johnson said. The union has not yet determined the nature of requests but a committee is working on the problem, according to Johnson.

Work On New Gas Pipeline Begins

Construction of a two-mile six-inch natural gas pipe line which is expected to boost the supply of natural gas in this area to a considerable extent began yesterday, according to W. H. Hann, division superintendent of the Manufacturer's Light and Heat Company.

Hann said the new pipeline will tap into the Manufacturer's Heat and Light high pressure transmission pipeline in Pennsylvania about two miles north of Mt. Savage.

Once completed, it will provide an additional supply of gas for Mt. Savage, Frostburg, Westernport and other towns in the Georges Creek section as well as for Piedmont and Keyser, W. Va., and also will relieve the situation in Cumberland.

Work on the job is expected to take about two weeks. The pipe line will cover a distance of 10,500 feet.

Victory Medals Awarded To Three Naval Reservists

Three members of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division received Victory Medals in recognition of their service with the division, at presentation ceremonies held last night at the regular muster of the organization at Fort Hill High School. Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer, made the presentations as a feature of this week's "Operation Naval Reserve" observance.

The three Navy veterans, all Celanese employes, who received the medals are Paul Luther Arrington, storekeeper first class, Ridgeley, W. Va.; George Krnaya, ship's cook second class, Fairgo; and Richard Ford Llewellyn, radioman second class, Keyser, W. Va.

Arrington is a veteran of 33 months' duty in the Pacific theater with the Seabees, serving in the supply and disbursing office on Tinian and Saipan. Krnaya served overseas one year at an air base on St. Nicholas Island and in the Philippines; and Llewellyn's 11 months of overseas duty included service aboard an LSM in the Pacific area. As part of his duty with the naval reserve, Llewellyn took a two-week amphibious training cruise last February aboard an attack cargo ship.

The commendation with each medal is as follows:

"In consideration of your proficiency in rating, ability as a leader, conduct and drill attendance record, you have been nominated as one of the most outstanding men in the United States Naval Reserve Organized Service Division 514. The qualities of loyalty and devotion to duty which you display at drills meet with the highest standards of naval service.

"You have therefore been selected as one of the first veterans of this division to receive the Victory Medal for World War II."

Hearing On Girl's Custody Set For June 3

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus over custody of a 17-year-old Cumberland girl was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by her brother and sister-in-law and a hearing was set for 9:15 a. m. June 3 by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Sponaugle, this city, filed the petition against Mr. and Mrs. Emery Sponaugle, Third and Arch Streets, charging that the former couple's daughter, Madeline, is "unjustly" detained by the latter couple. Attorneys said the girl has been living with her brother and sister-in-law for sometime. William L. Wilson, Jr., is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Cresaptown Motorist Fined After Accident

Charged with reckless driving as the result of an accident Saturday at 1 a. m. on Route 220 in front of the Cresap Tavern, Harvey G. Saylor, Cresaptown, was fined $5.75 last night before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman, Cresaptown.

Trooper Thomas G. Barton, Maryland State Police, said Saylor's car collided with a machine driven by Edgar L. Biser, 51, 32 Howard Street, McCoole. The trooper estimated damage to Salyor's car at $200 and said Biser's machine was damaged to the extent of $75.

Williams Gets Two Years In Prison On Morals Charge

Accused Of Molesting 6-Year-Old Local Girl

Pleading guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 6-year-old girl, Isaac "Ike" Williams, 42, this city, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction yesterday by Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem in Juvenile Court.

The incident occurred on April 19, authorities said, after Williams took the girl and a younger sister to a store to buy them ice cream.

Williams allegedly coaxed the girl into a garage near her home and hugged and kissed her, and advised her not to tell her parents "or they will beat you to death."

The child's father said he "beat" Williams badly after hearing of the incident, but said the man escaped before he could call police.

Williams remained out of the city for several weeks, the father asserted, but when the girl's mother, who knew the particulars, was released from the hospital where she underwent an operation, the matter was called to the attention of county authorities who ordered Williams picked up. He was arrested last week.

Authorities said Williams recently was sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction in Circuit Court on a charge of stealing a washing-machine, but that that sentence was suspended.

A 15-year-old girl from Woodland, near Ocean, was committed to the Montrose Training School for Girls until she reaches her 18th birthday, on a charge of violating a parole granted May 7.

The girl allegedly stole about $25 from two small banks as well as some other articles from a relatives home at Grahamtown.

On May 7 the girl was paroled after being charged with being a delinquent minor, and authorities said at the time that she stayed out until 4 a. m. with four Westernport men. They also received suspended sentences. The girl's appearance in Jevenile Court yesterday was said to have been her third.

Celanese, TWUA Resume Meetings On New Contract

James A. Holden, United States Conciliator, said the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874 Textile Workers Union of America representatives resumed negotiations on a new contract yesterday afternoon but adjourned at 5:30 o'clock.

Holden refused to discuss progress of yesterday's meeting but said the negotiations will be resumed this morning at 11 o'clock. The Company and union have been negotiating for a new contract since late in April.

The conciliator was asked to sit in on future meetings last week by union representatives. The contract, which the union seeks to replace, expired Friday at midnight, but the membership voted to give the committee power to extend terms of the agreement until a settlement is reached or to call a strike if it deems it necessary.

Holden arrived Tuesday and after conferring with company and union representatives separately arranged the meeting yesterday. Also attending the meeting was Herbert W. Payne, New York TWUA rayon director. Payne has attended most of the recent meetings.

While Holden refused to divulge the cause of disputed points of the new contract it appeared that the so-called "primary issues" were the main cause of a delay in the new contract. The primary issues are believed to involve money matters, in connection with wages, pensions, vacations and insurance improvements.

The union has made no specific wage demand but announced it is seeking a flat increase as well as intra-plant adjustments.

Lehman Is Held

A man identified as L. H. Lehman, 215 Reynolds Street, arrested last night at 5:05 o'clock is being held in City Jail on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge. He was arrested by Officers Carl Stouffer and Louis Downey. Police said he will be given a hearing this morning.

County Firemen's Convention Will Be Held Today

Parade Of 40 Groups Is Slated Tonight

A parade of at least 40 different organizations, including 33 fire companies, will be one of the features of the annual convention of the Allegany and Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association to be held today at Mt. Savage.

The business session of the convention is scheduled to get underway at 1 p. m., in Junior Order Hall, with the parade to form at 6:30 p. m. and march a half hour later.

A nip and tuck contest for vice president was predicted between Cromwell Zembower, LaVale, and Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown.

Barton Wants Convention

There were indications, too, last night that Barton will make a bid for the 1948 convention.

Installation of new officers will take place following the election and the new president is expected to name members of the legislative committee. Each of the 26 fire companies in the two-county association will name its representative on the executive committee.

At the close of the business session, Rev. James W. Minter, Baltimore, chaplain of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association, will conduct a memorial service for members of the county association who died in the past year.

Supper for the delegates will be served in Junior Order Hall at 5 p. m.

Joseph Carter, chairman of the parade committee of the host company—Mt. Savage—said last night that $200 will be offered in prizes for the parade, which will have in the line of march at least 33 fire companies, four bands and three drum corps.

Of the total prize money, $125 comes from the association and $75 has been provided by the Mt. Savage company. Prizes have been set up for awarding to association members and to non-members.

Musical Organizations

Bands that will take part include the Arion Band, Frostburg; Lonaconing City Band, Hyndman, Pa., High School Band and the Mt. Savage Band.

Drum corps include Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Cumberland; Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, Frostburg, and Kelly-Mansfield Post, American Legion, Piedmont, W. Va.

Out-of-state fire companies that have accepted invitations to parade are Meyersdale, Pa.; Hyndman, Pa.; Salisbury, Pa.; Piedmont, W. Va.; Keyser, W. Va.; Fort Ashby, W. Va., and Garrett, Pa.

Carter said the parade will be the largest in the history of the association.

A dance in Mullaney's Hall will follow the parade.

Guests at the convention will be the County Commissioners, Allegany County members of the Legislature, Rev. Mr. Minter and William A. Wilson, Midland, treasurer of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the association also will hold its annual convention today at Mt. Savage, and will meet in the Methodist Church Hall.

Radio Club Plans Transmitter Hunt

Plans for a "hidden transmitter hunt" were completed last night by members of Mountain Radio Club at the bi-weekly meeting held at the home of L. R. Jenkins, 708 Louisiana Avenue.

The "hunt" scheduled for June 22 at 1 p. m. will begin when two members of the club hide a transmitter within a six mile radius of the city. Once signals are sent the rest of the members will try to locate the transmitted by using mobile receivers and direction finders.

The searching members will have maps to plot their courses. Refreshments will be served to members locating the transmitter.

Two Movies Scheduled Tonight At Lonaconing

A public showing of two motion pictures will be held at the home of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lonaconing, tonight at 9:15 o'clock.

One of the films, "Joe's Kid," is about the VFW national home for widows and orphans of war veterans at Grand Rapids, Mich., and the other will be an Army film on the latest Army equipment.

The movies will follow the regular post meeting at 7:30 p. m. at which time a report will be made on the Buddy Poppy sale held on Saturday. Thirty per cent of the proceeds go to the national VFW home and a part of the funds is retained by Alvin C. Neat Post for the immediate relief of families of post members.

Garrett County Commissioners Vote For Standard Time

OAKLAND, Md., May 21 (AP) — The Garrett County Commissioners, expressing the belief that 75 per cent of the county residents and especially farmers were against the plan, voted unanimously today to remain on Standard Time insofar as county activities are concerned.

On Monday, Oakland's Mayor and Council decided to go on Daylight Time at 2 a. m. next Sunday, and the commissioners called a special session today to decide the question.

President J. Edward Helbig of the commissioners said there had been no movement favoring the fast time throughout the county, except by a small group of Oakland residents.

BUYS FIRST POPPY—Little Patricia Winner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verner J. Winner, 713 Glenmore Street, is shown as she officially opened the Veterans of Foreign War Auxiliary's 1947 Poppy Day campaign last night at the VFW home by selling the first poppy to William J. Edwards, water commissioner. Mr. Edwards represented the city instead of Mayor Thomas S. Post, who was out of the city last night.

Youth Admits Lie In Assault Case, Police Report

Charges Against Two Men Are Dismissed

Assault charges against a truck driver and his assistant, accused of throwing a 16-year-old youth from a moving truck on Route 220 last Friday, were dismissed by Magistrate Roy S. Bowman at Cresaptown last night after the youth admitted he lied about the facts in the case, according to State Trooper Thomas G. Barton.

Barton said Magistrate Bowman severely reprimanded the youth, identified as James VanMeter.

Warren Shingleton, Mason Road, and John Kirk, 31, address unknown, were charged with assault in warrants obtained by VanMeter, who said Shingleton threw him from the truck while it was moving at about 35 miles an hour, police reported.

Two Bowling Green women, in front of whose home Van Meter left the truck, told State Police they saw the truck stop and Shingleton and VanMeter get out, the latter lying on the grass and "cussing something awful."

Shingleton stood over the youth, but Kirk dissuaded him from hitting him and attempted to get VanMeter back into the truck, officers said, but he refused.

Kirk, Shingleton and VanMeter were returning from Hagerstown and VanMeter was asleep, Trooper Barton said, when Shingleton woke him and he started swearing. When Shingleton held VanMeter's hands, the latter spit on him, whereupon Kirk stopped the truck, the officer added, and Shingleton and VanMeter got out.

After leaving the truck, VanMeter, who said he was thrown out, went to a local hospital, but a thorough examination failed to reveal any bruises of any kind, police said.

2 Drivers Arrested After Collision

Careless driving charges were preferred against two motorist by City Police following an automobile collison in the 400-block Henderson Avenue about 10:30 a. m. yesterday. No one was injured.

Officer Curtis McA. Kime, who investigated, booked the drivers as Robert W. Smith, this city, and J. W. Perdew, 232 Glenn Street. Each posted $10 bond for a hearing in Police Court this morning.

One man was given a jail sentence and three others, including two negroes, paid fines yesterday in Police Court on charges resulting from a knife-wielding fight at the carnival in Community Park Tuesday night, according to police.

James Fulk, Valley Road, who police accused of using a penknife during the altercation, drew a 10-day jail term in default of a fine of $10 on a disorderly conduct charge.

His companion, Vernon Robertson, also of Valley Road, was fined $5 and costs on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge. He suffered abrasions in the scuffle.

The negroes, William Mann, 435 Pine Avenue, and Melvin Washington, 228 South Lee Street, were fined $10 each on disorderly conduct charges. Both told Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., that the white men kept following them and engaged in a fight after being told to "keep away."

Opposition Planned To Voting Machines

Ross Shaw, Oldtown, said last night he will start circulating a petition to obtain signatures from residents of the Oldtown area who are opposed to the purchase of voting machines for Allegany County.

Shaw said he believes the expense of securing the machines would put an extra burden on taxpayers and that the money could be better spent in improving county roads.

Eyerman Arrests Driver

Howard E. Stewart, 44 Lamont Street, posted $5 bond yesterday for a hearing in Police Court on charges of violating City Ordinance 1530. He was arrested by Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman. Police said the ordinance refers to "careless driving."

250 To 300 Nobles To Attend Shrine Council Session

Ali Ghan Uniform Bodies To Take Part

From 250 to 300 nobles of Ali Ghan Temple of the Shrine will leave by special train Monday morning to attend the 73rd annual session of the Imperial Council of the Ancient and Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in Atlantic City Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Representatives from Ali Ghan Temple to the Imperial Council session will be Potentate Leslie K. Spielman, Hagerstown; Howard Vandegrift, Cumberland, immediate past potentate; Morgan C. Harris, Cumberland, chief rabban, and Martin V. Bostetter, Hagerstown, past potentate.

Spielman and his divan will be in charge of the trip. All uniformed bodies of Ali Ghan Temple, including the band, patrol, drum corps, chanters and flag unit, will take part.

Approximately 200 local Shriners will leave Cumberland by special train on the Western Maryland Railway at 9:25 a. m. (EST) Monday, arriving at Atlantic City at 4:15 p. m. The train will make stops at Hancock, Hagerstown and Thurmont to pick additional Shriners en route to the Imperial Council session. Some 65 to 70 Shriners are expected to join the group at Hagerstown. Lunches will be served on the train.

Registration will take place at Atlantic City on Monday and council sessions will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Ali Ghan Shriners returning to Cumberland on Friday by the same special train.

Three hotels, the Clarendon, on Virginia Avenue, the Governor, on Virginia Avenue, and the Washington, 905 Pacific Avenue, have been engaged by Ali Ghan Temple.

A number of the nobles will take their wives to the Council session.

Safety Group To Hold Dinner Meeting Tonight

Officers and members of a new co-operative group of safety and fire prevention staff members, representing various county industries and organizations, will hold a dinner meeting tonight at 6:30 at the Queen City Hotel, according to Senator Robert B. Kimble, program chairman.

Lynn Walker and his committee will make a report on the proposed constitution and by-laws for the organization, which was formed last month to compare problems of safety and fire prevention, and to set up a co-operative system in case of emergency. Other members of the committee are Harry Nelson and Thomas Gulland.

A name for the organization will also be decided upon at tonight's meeting. Mangus Work, safety director of the Celanese plant, is president.

Capt. and Mrs. Russell M. Cobler, Ridgeley, announce the birth of a son yesterday morning in Allegany Hospital. The father is in the Army.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sisk, Hyndman, Pa., Tuesday night in Allegany Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Morgan, 400 Wolcott Road, Baltimore, announce the birth of a daughter last Thursday in Franklin Square Hospital, Baltimore. Mrs. Morgan is the former Miss Helen Fleegle, daughter of Vander Fleegle and Mrs. Frank Paetow, Corriganville.

Carscaden To Give Memorial Talk Following Parade

Program Will Be Held In Rose Hill Cemetery

William R. Carscaden, local attorney and veteran of World War II, will deliver the principal address at the Memorial Day service scheduled for Rose Hill Cemetery May 30 following a street parade from the Armory to the cemetery.

Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal, said the march will begin at 10 a. m. and added that 12 organizations, including three musical units have already indicated that they will participate.

Legion Sponsors Program

The program, sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will include placing flags on the graves of all veterans who served the nation during times of war. Flags will be distributed in all cemeteries in the city, Conlon said, and a supply will be left with the superintendents in case any graves are missed.

Following the address by Carscaden, Legion ceremonies will be conducted in the cemetery by Phil Fleming, post commander, assisted by Paul Weisenmiller, Jr., post chaplin and John Neff, sergeant-at-arms. Rev. C. F. Zimmerman will ask the invocation and Rev. E. A. G. Snyder will give the benediction.

Music will be furnished by the Allegany and Fort Hill High School Bands. At the conclusion of the program the military salute will be given and taps sounded for deceased veterans.

Paul Weisenmiller will be in charge of distributing the flags to the various cemeteries in the city.

After the Legion ceremony, Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will conduct services at the grave of Henry Hart, veteran of World War I, for whom the organization is named.

Bands Will March

Conlon said that both high school bands will march in the parade along with the Sons of the Legion Drum and Bugle Corps. Other units that have indicated they will participate include the Spanish War Veterans Organization, Army and Naval Reserve Units, Military Order of the Purple Heart and auxiliary and Headquarters and Company C of the Maryland National Guard.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, announced that public schools in Allegany County will observe Decoration Day as a full holiday with classes being dismissed Thursday afternoon, May 29 and not reconvening until Monday, June 2.

Election Of Two Officers Features Meeting Of AAUW

Mrs. Robert Troxell was re-elected vice-president and Mrs. Delphin Trieber was elected recording secretary at the annual meeting of the Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, held last night at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street.

Nominations were submitted by Mrs. Karl Perry, chairman of the nominating committee, which also included Miss Mildred Willison and Mrs. James Weber. No other candidates were named.

Mrs. Perry and Miss Mary Pat Brett presented a question and answer program dealing with requirements which a college or university must meet before its alumnae may be accepted for membership in AAUW.

An institution must be approved by the Association of American Universities, and must meet certain AAUW requirements with regard to women in the student body, in the faculty and in the administration before its alumnae are eligible, Mrs. Perry explained.

Five general requirements for the approval of educational institutions, she said, are high academic standards, a foundation of liberal education, adequate provision for women students, recognition of women in administration and on faculties, and intellectual freedom for teaching and administrative staffs.

It was pointed out that the Association of American Universities began rating teachers' colleges in 1940, and that by 1944 12 such institutions had been placed on its approved list, which is used by the AAUW in determining eligibility for membership.

Mrs. John J. Hafer, president, asked members to consider a proposed change in the constitution, raising branch dues 50 cents to $5.50 yearly, to cover a similar increase in national dues, which now amount to $2.50. Another proposal was to set a definite date for board meetings on the Saturday preceding the third Wednesday of each month. These suggestions will be voted on at the next business meeting in September.

Mrs. Hafer also suggested, in view of the program on membership eligibility, to write to Western Maryland College to determine that insituation's status because of the large number of its alumnae in this area.

It was announced that Mrs. Troxell will lead a discussion on recent books concerning Russia, at a meeting of the international relations study group June 7 at the home of Mrs. William H. Blake, Race Farm, near Frostburg. The meeting is scheduled for 3 p. m. and will be followed by a picnic supper.

A garden party for AAUW members will be held Sunday, June 15, at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Spring Gap. Mrs. Harry Simpson will report on the biennial national convention held in Dallas, Tex., in April, and a musical program will be presented.

Western Maryland CIO Will Elect Officers

The Western Maryland Industrial Union Council will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Rubber Workers' Hall, 12 South Mechanic Street, to elect officers for the coming year.

Present officials said the election has been postponed several times, but candidates will be voted on tonight. Nominations will be made from the floor.

Stocks Advance Up To Three Points In One Of Best 1947 Performances

NEW YORK, May 21 — (AP) — Stocks staged their third best performance of the year in today's market with gains to around three points.

Support for a wide assortment of industrials and rails arrived in early afternoon to lift the list out of an irregular trading range. Steels, motors, oils, beverages and some special stocks were prominent risers. Transactions expanded to 1,020,000 shares from 920,000 Tuesday.

Schenley closed up 1¼ at 26½. Atlantic Coast Line gained 3¼ to 45½. Pere Marquette issues lifted three points or more, the common to 19½, on ICC approval of its merger with Chesapeake and Ohio.

The rarely-traded Coca Cola International made its first showing on the tape since February, 1942, selling at 1150 compared with 470 on its last appearance. Coca Cola common at 145 was up 2¼. Pepsi-Cola gained 1¼ to 28⅜.

Others prominently ahead were Santa Fe at 72¼, Standard Oil (NJ) at 69¾, American Woolen at 33, United States Steel at 64¾, Chrysler up three at 98¾, Caterpillar Tractor at 52, Texas Company, International Paper, Timken Roller Bearing, Westinghouse Electric and Phelps Dodge. Among losers were United States Hoffman, Hercules Powder and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Curb climbers included Cities Service, Louisiana Land, Illinois Power and Electric Bond and Share. Turnover of 230,000 shares here compared with 250,000 yesterday.

Railroad issues shook off early irregularity and moved up to final gains running to around three points in bond dealings.

Turnover increased as more bids came into the market to a total of $4,043,000. This compared with $3,880,000 Tuesday.

United States government bonds moved narrowly in the over-the-counter market. The Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-'72 advanced 1-32 to 103 12-32 bid.

Win-Some Class Holds Mother-Daughter Banquet

The Win-Some Class of the Young People's Department of the Grace Baptist Church held its Mother-Daughter banquet Tuesday night at the church with Mrs. Virginia Green as mistress of ceremonies.

The table was decorated with a corsage of carnations and sweet-peas, beside each daughter's plate. The centerpiece was of vari-colored iris and spirea.

Greetings were extended to the mothers by Mrs. Virginia Green and Mrs. A. L. Murrell responded for the mothers. A poem entitled, "Flowers," was read by Mrs. Louise Wiseman, while the daughters pinned the corsages on their guests. The invocation was given by Rev. W. Randolph Keefe, Jr., and Miss Faye Murrell offered the toast. Following the banquet Mrs. Anne Hobbs recited a poem, "My Birthday;" Mrs. Janet Dodson gave a poem, "Mother," and the closing prayer was given by Mrs. Wilma Straw. The program closed by all joining hands and singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Members of the class present were Mrs. Janet Dodson, Mrs. Elizabeth Seltzer, Mrs. Dorothy Baker, Mrs. Louise Wiseman, Mrs. Gladys Baker, Mrs. Anne Hobbs, Mrs. Ruthe Wilt, Mrs. Virginia Green, Mrs. Maxine Kuykendall, Mrs. Wilma Straw, Mrs. Juanita Leese and Miss Faye Murrell.

Spoiled Ballots Are Not Likely

Allegany County voters will be given complete instructions in the operation of voting machines prior to their first use in a primary and general election, according to information received by Paul M. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, from the Automatic Voting Machine Corporation.

Gov. William Preston Lane has signed into law two measures, one providing for the purchase of the machines and the other for their financing, but petitions are now being circulated calling for a referendum at the next election in a move to at least delay their acquisition until after that date.

Misleading Statements

One county political leader said yesterday that a number of residents of the Georges Creek section are being misled into signing the petitions by statements that voting machines will lead to an increase in the number of spoiled ballots, but this spokesman said that past experience does not bear out these assertions.

The Automatic Voting Machine Corporation informed Fletcher that prior to the first use of the machines in a primary and general election it will send a representative, at no extra charge to the county, to assist in the installation of the machines to the end that the voters may be properly instructed in their operation.

Election officers also would be properly informed as to their duties and local election authorities would be familiarized with the adjustment of the machines for all types of primaries and elections, the concern stated.

Its letter also explained that the firm will furnish with each voting machine, at no extra charge, a mechanical model which is a duplicate of the face of the machine to facilitate the instruction of voters.

No Possibility Of Error

Referring to spoilage of ballots, it was pointed out that the voter himself turns downward an arrow on the machine as he prepares to vote and that theare is no possibility whatsoever once the arrow is turned downward of making an error or spoiling a ballot when the lever operating the machine is pulled.

In Montgomery County and Baltimore City where voting machines have been in use for a number of years, voters have experienced no difficulty in operating them, and one political leader pointed out that ballot spoilage with the use of voting machines is less than with the use of paper ballots.

He added that Allegany County residents should not be misled into signing the petitions being circulated on the basis of statements that the machines will tend to increase ballot spoilage.

Pythian Officer Praises Work Of County Lodges

Approximately 125 representatives of Knights of Pythias lodges in Allegany and Garrett Counties attended a meeting at the home of Queen City Lodge No. 136, Virginia Avenue, last night, to welcome Maryland Grand Lodge officers in their first official visitation to this area this year.

A. Elwood Martak, Baltimore, grand keeper of records and seals, who was the principal speaker, commended the Allegany and Garrett lodges for their co-operation with the Grand Lodge in its various programs.

He also commented on the unusual showing made by the two counties in the recent public speaking contest sponsored by the Supreme Lodge, recalling that Calvin Mahaney, Fort Hill High School senior, will compete this Saturday in Frederick with other boys and girls from the District of Columbia, Maryland and West Virginia.

The winner of that contest will participate in the regional speaking contest in Washington, D. C., next month, and the winner will go to Beaumont, Tex., for the national finals in August.

Martak outlined some points in the Grand Lodge program for the balance of the term, which will end next fall, and also discussed recent alterations in the bylaws of the Supreme Lodge. He predicted that a number of new lodges will be organized in Maryland in the near future.

Clinton M. Easton, Catonsville, grand chancellor, outlined Pythian activities not generally known to the public, which were conducted during the past year. They include the presentation of an "iron lung" to Baltimore; underwriting the cost of a formula room added to the Harry Lane Clinic at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, and assistance of various lodges in the state to civic events such as Community Chest campaigns.

O. M. Brotemarkle, Cumberland, supreme representative, discussed the tenets and teachings of the order. Nelson W. Russler, chairman of the grand lodge council, this city, presided.

Other officers present were Joseph R. Walters, Baltimore, grand master of the exchequer; Dan R. Kimball, Havre de Grace, past grand chancellor; Julius E. Schindler and Robert B. Kimble, this city, past grand chancellors; Joseph C. Wilson, district deputy grand chancellor; John C. Fisher, special deputy grand chancellor; and Frank J. Davis, grand outer guard.

The visiting officers toured Lonaconing, Midland and Frostburg during the day.

No Trace Found

No trace has yet been found of Daniel Baker, aged farmer of near Finzel, Garrett County, who disappeared from home last Saturday morning, Pennsylvania State Police at Somerset said last night.

Hamilton Charged With Breaking And Entering

John Paul Hamilton, 24-year-old Rochester, N. Y., deaf mute, being held in connection with a breaking and entering at Johnson Heights Elementary School May 7, will be tried today in Circuit Court after waiving a grand jury indictment, according to county authorities.

Hamilton, who was apprehended by Officer P. M. Crabtree as he climbed from a school window, signed a statement admitting the breaking and entering charge, then waived a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., and was ordered held for grand jury under $500 bond.

Yesterday Hamilton filed a "petition and suggestion" in Circuit Court asking for an immediate trial on the charges and waived the right to await a grand jury indictment.

In the petition Hamilton asked an immediate trial by the court "sitting as jury without regard to terms of court upon criminal information filed by the office of the State's Attorney."

In the answer filed by the State's Attorney Hamilton is charged with breaking and entering the school on the morning of May 7 with the intent to steal goods valued at $25.

County officials said Hamilton has the right to waive a grand jury indictment and seek an immediate trial under Chapter 788 of the 1945 Acts of the Maryland Legislature. They explained that any person being held on charges of a misdemeanor can seek an immediate trial by waiving the jury indictment.

In waiving the indictment, authorities said Hamilton will be given a trial this morning. His action in filing the "petition and suggestion" papers will serve the same as an indictment charging him with breaking and entering and intent to steal.

Hamilton created much disturbance in City Police Headquarters when police attempted to question him by writing questions and trying to get him to write answers. The process proved slow and Hamilton at one point wrote "I will not tell you anything, because you do not understand me. I have been told that policemen have hard hearts."

Police later secured a person who understands the sign language and completed their investigation. Hamilton, according to authorities, has not yet retained an attorney because of his financial status. Police quoted him as declaring he broke into the school because he was hungry.

Chamber Of Commerce Seeks Members Views

The Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce is asking members of the organization to assist in laying out the program of activities for the fiscal year which begins July 1, and notices to that effect were sent out yesterday by Harold W. Smith, secretary.

Smith said that the Board of Directors wants to know what the members have to say with regard to the activities of the Chamber, and what they think the Chamber should undertake.

In order to make it possible for all members to express their views, the Chamber proposes to hold a series of meetings in groups of approximately 15 members.

A questionnaire has been mailed out asking the members what time will be most convenient for them to attend meetings, whether at 10:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. or 7:30 p. m. When replies have been received members will be notified the day and time the group, in which they will be included, will meet.

Kelly Union Will Seek New Contract

A. E. Johnson, president of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, said yesterday the union has notified the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company of a desire to open contract negotiations.

The contract expires July 1 but wages will not be a subject of discussion under a previous agreement, Johnson said. The union has not yet determined the nature of requests but a committee is working on the problem, according to Johnson.

Work On New Gas Pipeline Begins

Construction of a two-mile six-inch natural gas pipe line which is expected to boost the supply of natural gas in this area to a considerable extent began yesterday, according to W. H. Hann, division superintendent of the Manufacturer's Light and Heat Company.

Hann said the new pipeline will tap into the Manufacturer's Heat and Light high pressure transmission pipeline in Pennsylvania about two miles north of Mt. Savage.

Once completed, it will provide an additional supply of gas for Mt. Savage, Frostburg, Westernport and other towns in the Georges Creek section as well as for Piedmont and Keyser, W. Va., and also will relieve the situation in Cumberland.

Work on the job is expected to take about two weeks. The pipe line will cover a distance of 10,500 feet.

Victory Medals Awarded To Three Naval Reservists

Three members of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division received Victory Medals in recognition of their service with the division, at presentation ceremonies held last night at the regular muster of the organization at Fort Hill High School. Lt. Comdr. Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer, made the presentations as a feature of this week's "Operation Naval Reserve" observance.

The three Navy veterans, all Celanese employes, who received the medals are Paul Luther Arrington, storekeeper first class, Ridgeley, W. Va.; George Krnaya, ship's cook second class, Fairgo; and Richard Ford Llewellyn, radioman second class, Keyser, W. Va.

Arrington is a veteran of 33 months' duty in the Pacific theater with the Seabees, serving in the supply and disbursing office on Tinian and Saipan. Krnaya served overseas one year at an air base on St. Nicholas Island and in the Philippines; and Llewellyn's 11 months of overseas duty included service aboard an LSM in the Pacific area. As part of his duty with the naval reserve, Llewellyn took a two-week amphibious training cruise last February aboard an attack cargo ship.

The commendation with each medal is as follows:

"In consideration of your proficiency in rating, ability as a leader, conduct and drill attendance record, you have been nominated as one of the most outstanding men in the United States Naval Reserve Organized Service Division 514. The qualities of loyalty and devotion to duty which you display at drills meet with the highest standards of naval service.

"You have therefore been selected as one of the first veterans of this division to receive the Victory Medal for World War II."

Hearing On Girl's Custody Set For June 3

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus over custody of a 17-year-old Cumberland girl was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by her brother and sister-in-law and a hearing was set for 9:15 a. m. June 3 by Chief Judge William A. Huster.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Sponaugle, this city, filed the petition against Mr. and Mrs. Emery Sponaugle, Third and Arch Streets, charging that the former couple's daughter, Madeline, is "unjustly" detained by the latter couple. Attorneys said the girl has been living with her brother and sister-in-law for sometime. William L. Wilson, Jr., is attorney for the plaintiffs.

Cresaptown Motorist Fined After Accident

Charged with reckless driving as the result of an accident Saturday at 1 a. m. on Route 220 in front of the Cresap Tavern, Harvey G. Saylor, Cresaptown, was fined $5.75 last night before Magistrate Roy S. Bowman, Cresaptown.

Trooper Thomas G. Barton, Maryland State Police, said Saylor's car collided with a machine driven by Edgar L. Biser, 51, 32 Howard Street, McCoole. The trooper estimated damage to Salyor's car at $200 and said Biser's machine was damaged to the extent of $75.

Williams Gets Two Years In Prison On Morals Charge

Accused Of Molesting 6-Year-Old Local Girl

Pleading guilty to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 6-year-old girl, Isaac "Ike" Williams, 42, this city, was sentenced to two years in the House of Correction yesterday by Magistrate Thomas E. Stakem in Juvenile Court.

The incident occurred on April 19, authorities said, after Williams took the girl and a younger sister to a store to buy them ice cream.

Williams allegedly coaxed the girl into a garage near her home and hugged and kissed her, and advised her not to tell her parents "or they will beat you to death."

The child's father said he "beat" Williams badly after hearing of the incident, but said the man escaped before he could call police.

Williams remained out of the city for several weeks, the father asserted, but when the girl's mother, who knew the particulars, was released from the hospital where she underwent an operation, the matter was called to the attention of county authorities who ordered Williams picked up. He was arrested last week.

Authorities said Williams recently was sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction in Circuit Court on a charge of stealing a washing-machine, but that that sentence was suspended.

A 15-year-old girl from Woodland, near Ocean, was committed to the Montrose Training School for Girls until she reaches her 18th birthday, on a charge of violating a parole granted May 7.

The girl allegedly stole about $25 from two small banks as well as some other articles from a relatives home at Grahamtown.

On May 7 the girl was paroled after being charged with being a delinquent minor, and authorities said at the time that she stayed out until 4 a. m. with four Westernport men. They also received suspended sentences. The girl's appearance in Jevenile Court yesterday was said to have been her third.

Celanese, TWUA Resume Meetings On New Contract

James A. Holden, United States Conciliator, said the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874 Textile Workers Union of America representatives resumed negotiations on a new contract yesterday afternoon but adjourned at 5:30 o'clock.

Holden refused to discuss progress of yesterday's meeting but said the negotiations will be resumed this morning at 11 o'clock. The Company and union have been negotiating for a new contract since late in April.

The conciliator was asked to sit in on future meetings last week by union representatives. The contract, which the union seeks to replace, expired Friday at midnight, but the membership voted to give the committee power to extend terms of the agreement until a settlement is reached or to call a strike if it deems it necessary.

Holden arrived Tuesday and after conferring with company and union representatives separately arranged the meeting yesterday. Also attending the meeting was Herbert W. Payne, New York TWUA rayon director. Payne has attended most of the recent meetings.

While Holden refused to divulge the cause of disputed points of the new contract it appeared that the so-called "primary issues" were the main cause of a delay in the new contract. The primary issues are believed to involve money matters, in connection with wages, pensions, vacations and insurance improvements.

The union has made no specific wage demand but announced it is seeking a flat increase as well as intra-plant adjustments.

Lehman Is Held

A man identified as L. H. Lehman, 215 Reynolds Street, arrested last night at 5:05 o'clock is being held in City Jail on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge. He was arrested by Officers Carl Stouffer and Louis Downey. Police said he will be given a hearing this morning.

County Firemen's Convention Will Be Held Today

Parade Of 40 Groups Is Slated Tonight

A parade of at least 40 different organizations, including 33 fire companies, will be one of the features of the annual convention of the Allegany and Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association to be held today at Mt. Savage.

The business session of the convention is scheduled to get underway at 1 p. m., in Junior Order Hall, with the parade to form at 6:30 p. m. and march a half hour later.

Firemen indicated that Deputy Sheriff William Chappell, Barton, now vice president of the association, will be elected president to succeed Harry Walters, Corriganville.

A nip and tuck contest for vice president was predicted between Cromwell Zembower, LaVale, and Joseph Wenrich, Cresaptown.

Barton Wants Convention

There were indications, too, last night that Barton will make a bid for the 1948 convention.

Installation of new officers will take place following the election and the new president is expected to name members of the legislative committee. Each of the 26 fire companies in the two-county association will name its representative on the executive committee.

At the close of the business session, Rev. James W. Minter, Baltimore, chaplain of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association, will conduct a memorial service for members of the county association who died in the past year.

Supper for the delegates will be served in Junior Order Hall at 5 p. m.

Joseph Carter, chairman of the parade committee of the host company—Mt. Savage—said last night that $200 will be offered in prizes for the parade, which will have in the line of march at least 33 fire companies, four bands and three drum corps.

Of the total prize money, $125 comes from the association and $75 has been provided by the Mt. Savage company. Prizes have been set up for awarding to association members and to non-members.

Musical Organizations

Bands that will take part include the Arion Band, Frostburg; Lonaconing City Band, Hyndman, Pa., High School Band and the Mt. Savage Band.

Drum corps include Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Cumberland; Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, Frostburg, and Kelly-Mansfield Post, American Legion, Piedmont, W. Va.

Out-of-state fire companies that have accepted invitations to parade are Meyersdale, Pa.; Hyndman, Pa.; Salisbury, Pa.; Piedmont, W. Va.; Keyser, W. Va.; Fort Ashby, W. Va., and Garrett, Pa.

Carter said the parade will be the largest in the history of the association.

A dance in Mullaney's Hall will follow the parade.

Guests at the convention will be the County Commissioners, Allegany County members of the Legislature, Rev. Mr. Minter and William A. Wilson, Midland, treasurer of the Maryland State Volunteer Firemen's Association.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the association also will hold its annual convention today at Mt. Savage, and will meet in the Methodist Church Hall.

Radio Club Plans Transmitter Hunt

Plans for a "hidden transmitter hunt" were completed last night by members of Mountain Radio Club at the bi-weekly meeting held at the home of L. R. Jenkins, 708 Louisiana Avenue.

The "hunt" scheduled for June 22 at 1 p. m. will begin when two members of the club hide a transmitter within a six mile radius of the city. Once signals are sent the rest of the members will try to locate the transmitted by using mobile receivers and direction finders.

The searching members will have maps to plot their courses. Refreshments will be served to members locating the transmitter.

Two Movies Scheduled Tonight At Lonaconing

A public showing of two motion pictures will be held at the home of Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lonaconing, tonight at 9:15 o'clock.

One of the films, "Joe's Kid," is about the VFW national home for widows and orphans of war veterans at Grand Rapids, Mich., and the other will be an Army film on the latest Army equipment.

The movies will follow the regular post meeting at 7:30 p. m. at which time a report will be made on the Buddy Poppy sale held on Saturday. Thirty per cent of the proceeds go to the national VFW home and a part of the funds is retained by Alvin C. Neat Post for the immediate relief of families of post members.

Garrett County Commissioners Vote For Standard Time

OAKLAND, Md., May 21 (AP) — The Garrett County Commissioners, expressing the belief that 75 per cent of the county residents and especially farmers were against the plan, voted unanimously today to remain on Standard Time insofar as county activities are concerned.

On Monday, Oakland's Mayor and Council decided to go on Daylight Time at 2 a. m. next Sunday, and the commissioners called a special session today to decide the question.

President J. Edward Helbig of the commissioners said there had been no movement favoring the fast time throughout the county, except by a small group of Oakland residents.

BUYS FIRST POPPY—Little Patricia Winner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Verner J. Winner, 713 Glenmore Street, is shown as she officially opened the Veterans of Foreign War Auxiliary's 1947 Poppy Day campaign last night at the VFW home by selling the first poppy to William J. Edwards, water commissioner. Mr. Edwards represented the city instead of Mayor Thomas S. Post, who was out of the city last night.

Youth Admits Lie In Assault Case, Police Report

Charges Against Two Men Are Dismissed

Assault charges against a truck driver and his assistant, accused of throwing a 16-year-old youth from a moving truck on Route 220 last Friday, were dismissed by Magistrate Roy S. Bowman at Cresaptown last night after the youth admitted he lied about the facts in the case, according to State Trooper Thomas G. Barton.

Barton said Magistrate Bowman severely reprimanded the youth, identified as James VanMeter.

Warren Shingleton, Mason Road, and John Kirk, 31, address unknown, were charged with assault in warrants obtained by VanMeter, who said Shingleton threw him from the truck while it was moving at about 35 miles an hour, police reported.

Two Bowling Green women, in front of whose home Van Meter left the truck, told State Police they saw the truck stop and Shingleton and VanMeter get out, the latter lying on the grass and "cussing something awful."

Shingleton stood over the youth, but Kirk dissuaded him from hitting him and attempted to get VanMeter back into the truck, officers said, but he refused.

Kirk, Shingleton and VanMeter were returning from Hagerstown and VanMeter was asleep, Trooper Barton said, when Shingleton woke him and he started swearing. When Shingleton held VanMeter's hands, the latter spit on him, whereupon Kirk stopped the truck, the officer added, and Shingleton and VanMeter got out.

After leaving the truck, VanMeter, who said he was thrown out, went to a local hospital, but a thorough examination failed to reveal any bruises of any kind, police said.

2 Drivers Arrested After Collision

Careless driving charges were preferred against two motorist by City Police following an automobile collison in the 400-block Henderson Avenue about 10:30 a. m. yesterday. No one was injured.

Officer Curtis McA. Kime, who investigated, booked the drivers as Robert W. Smith, this city, and J. W. Perdew, 232 Glenn Street. Each posted $10 bond for a hearing in Police Court this morning.

One man was given a jail sentence and three others, including two negroes, paid fines yesterday in Police Court on charges resulting from a knife-wielding fight at the carnival in Community Park Tuesday night, according to police.

James Fulk, Valley Road, who police accused of using a penknife during the altercation, drew a 10-day jail term in default of a fine of $10 on a disorderly conduct charge.

His companion, Vernon Robertson, also of Valley Road, was fined $5 and costs on a drunk and disorderly conduct charge. He suffered abrasions in the scuffle.

The negroes, William Mann, 438 Pine Avenue, and Melvin Washington, 228 South Lee Street, were fined $10 each on disorderly conduct charges. Both told Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., that the white men kept following them and engaged in a fight after being told to "keep away."

Opposition Planned To Voting Machines

Ross Shaw, Oldtown, said last night he will start circulating a petition to obtain signatures from residents of the Oldtown area who are opposed to the purchase of voting machines for Allegany County.

Shaw said he believes the expense of securing the machines would put an extra burden on taxpayers and that the money could be better spent in improving county roads.

Eyerman Arrests Driver

Howard E. Stewart, 44 Lamont Street, posted $5 bond yesterday for a hearing in Police Court on charges of violating City Ordinance 1530. He was arrested by Chief of Police Oscar A. Eyerman. Police said the ordinance refers to "careless driving."

Carscaden To Give Memorial Talk Following Parade

Program Will Be Held In Rose Hill Cemetery

William R. Carscaden, local attorney and veteran of World War II, will deliver the principal address at the Memorial Day service scheduled for Rose Hill Cemetery May 30 following a street parade from the Armory to the cemetery.

Thomas F. Conlon, parade marshal, said the march will begin at 10 a. m. and added that 12 organizations, including three musical units have already indicated that they will participate.

Legion Sponsors Program

The program, sponsored by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, will include placing flags on the graves of all veterans who served the nation during times of war. Flags will be distributed in all cemeteries in the city, Conlon said, and a supply will be left with the superintendents in case any graves are missed.

Following the address by Carscaden, Legion ceremonies will be conducted in the cemetery by Phil Fleming, post commander, assisted by Paul Weisenmiller, Jr., post chaplin and John Neff, sergeant-at-arms. Rev. C. F. Zimmerman will ask the invocation and Rev. E. A. G. Snyder will give the benediction.

Music will be furnished by the Allegany and Fort Hill High School Bands. At the conclusion of the program the military salute will be given and taps sounded for deceased veterans.

Paul Weisenmiller will be in charge of distributing the flags to the various cemeteries in the city.

After the Legion ceremony, Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will conduct services at the grave of Henry Hart, veteran of World War I, for whom the organization is named.

Bands Will March

Conlon said that both high school bands will march in the parade along with the Sons of the Legion Drum and Bugle Corps. Other units that have indicated they will participate include the Spanish War Veterans Organization, Army and Naval Reserve Units, Military Order of the Purple Heart and auxiliary and Headquarters and Company C of the Maryland National Guard.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of schools, announced that public schools in Allegany County will observe Decoration Day as a full holiday with classes being dismissed Thursday afternoon, May 29 and not reconvening until Monday, June 2.

Election Of Two Officers Features Meeting Of AAUW

Mrs. Robert Troxell was re-elected vice-president and Mrs. Delphin Trieber was elected recording secretary at the annual meeting of the Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, held last night at the Girl Scout House, Greene Street.

Nominations were submitted by Mrs. Karl Perry, chairman of the nominating committee, which also included Miss Mildred Willison and Mrs. James Weber. No other candidates were named.

Mrs. Perry and Miss Mary Pat Brett presented a question and answer program dealing with requirements which a college or university must meet before its alumnae may be accepted for membership in AAUW.

An institution must be approved by the Association of American Universities, and must meet certain AAUW requirements with regard to women in the student body, in the faculty and in the administration before its alumnae are eligible, Mrs. Perry explained.

Five general requirements for the approval of educational institutions, she said, are high academic standards, a foundation of liberal education, adequate provision for women students, recognition of women in administration and on faculties, and intellectual freedom for teaching and administrative staffs.

It was pointed out that the Association of American Universities began rating teachers' colleges in 1940, and that by 1944 12 such institutions had been placed on its approved list, which is used by the AAUW in determining eligibility for membership.

Mrs. John J. Hafer, president, asked members to consider a proposed change in the constitution, raising branch dues 50 cents to $5.50 yearly, to cover a similar increase in national dues, which now amount to $2.50. Another proposal was to set a definite date for board meetings on the Saturday preceding the third Wednesday of each month. These suggestions will be voted on at the next business meeting in September.

Mrs. Hafer also suggested, in view of the program on membership eligibility, to write to Western Maryland College to determine that situation's status because of the large number of its alumnae in this area.

It was announced that Mrs. Troxell will lead a discussion on recent books concerning Russia, at a meeting of the international relations study group June 7 at the home of Mrs. William H. Blake, Race Farm, near Frostburg. The meeting is scheduled for 3 p. m. and will be followed by a picnic supper.

A garden party for AAUW members will be held Sunday, June 15, at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Gilbert Miller, Spring Gap. Mrs. Harry Simpson will report on the biennial national convention held in Dallas, Tex., in April, and a musical program will be presented.

Western Maryland CIO Will Elect Officers

The Western Maryland Industrial Union Council will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Rubber Workers' Hall, 12 South Mechanic Street, to elect officers for the coming year.

Present officials said the election has been postponed several times, but candidates will be voted on tonight. Nominations will be made from the floor.
